SIX-CAR CRASH — The wreckage in which a Catholic brother died and a County of Marin property assessor was critically injured is inspected on Highway 101 by a California Highway Patrol officer.
(Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

Six-Car Crash Kills Catholic Teacher, Hurts County Aide

A Catholic brother was killed and a San Rafael man critically injured last night in a six-car accident on Highway 101 south of Novato.

The California Highway Patrol reported the injured man, Edward Dean Spruance, 53, of 36 Summit Avenue, was inexplicably going north in a southbound lane when his van smashed head-on into a car driven by Brother Roger Kyran, 40, head of the art department at Sa. Mary's College, Moraga.

Spruance, thrown from his van, was reported in "very critical" condition and still in surgery at Marin General Hospital early today. A hospital spokesman reported he had severe injuries to his head, arms and legs. Spruance is a property assessor for the County of Marin and a retired Navy captain.

After the initial crash, which occurred at 11:15 p.m. about three miles north of the Manuel T. Freitas Parkway overpass, Brother Kyran's car hit the rear of a highway patrol car driven by Patrolman Donald L. Dixon, 42, of Santa Rosa, officers said.

Dixon and three other patrolmen in the car were on their way to assist in antiriot duty at Berkeley.

Then a car driven by Ronald Duane Reinartz, 30, of 5 Womack Court, Novato, attempting to avoid the accident, slid into the left side of the Kyran car, while an auto driven by Roland V. Phillips, 30, of San Jose, also trying to avoid the pileup, slid sideways and was struck by a car driven by James Keith Barker, 16, of 342 Hyacinth Way, San Rafael.

Brother Kyran, who was Ernest Joseph Aviani Jr. before he entered the order of Brothers of Christian Schools in 1948, was on his way home from a visit with his father, Ernest Joseph Aviani Sr. of Boyse Hot Springs.

A native of San Francisco, he took his final vows in 1954 and had been a professor at St. Mary's since then. Currently, he was studying at Stanford University for his doctorate and had planned to go to Germany for additional work this summer.

His death was the 12th on Marin roads so far this year, compared with nine at this time last year.

Deputies Battle Gang On Tam; One Hurt

A band of 40 youths, many of them juveniles, led a rock throwing attack on two sheriff's deputies last night on Mount Tamalpais, officers said.

The two officers, Deputies R. C. Russell and William Wallace, were both kicked in the back and Russell was also struck with a rock in the left shoulder, deputies said.

One of the alleged assailants, Terrence Francis Rilla, 19, of 3 Maple Avenue, Kentfield, was taken to Marin General Hospital and treated for a cut scalp, then taken to Marin County Jail.

Booked into County Jail on suspicion of felony assault of a police officer, resisting arrest, disturbing the peace and curfew violation were Rilla and his brother, Michael Lane, 20, of the same address. The younger Rilla remained in jail in lieu of $3.125 bail; his brother made $652 bail.

Booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on the same charges were Daniel B. Murdock, 17, of 17 Olive Avenue, Larkspur; Joseph Philip Giobanini, 17, of 56 Diane Lane, Larkspur, and William J. Birdsall, 17, of Kentfield.

"There will be some more arrests today," said Sgt. Robert Bertrand, investigating officer.

Evidence of the bombardment were Russell's and Wallances' patrol cars, standing unuseable in the sheriff's department parking lot in San Rafael today.

Both autos had smashed windshields and Wallace's 1969 vehicle, which had only been in

Rogers Flies Over Viet Delta Area

SAIGON (UPI)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers today made his first trip to the South Vietnamese countryside, flying by U.S. Army helicopter to the Mekong Delta south of Saigon. Heavy security precautions were taken to protect him from possible attack.

While Rogers was paying a visit to the showcase Ba Tri district in Kien Hoa province, 60 miles south of here, President Nguyen Van Thieu told newsmen in Saigon he wants to meet as soon as possible with President Richard M. Nixon.

A U.S. merchant ship was hit by a Communist shell today while moving along the Long Tau River 25 miles southeast of Saigon, wounding two crewmen, one seriously.

Mountain Play's Premier Tomorrow

The 52nd annual Mountain Play — this year featuring the Czechoslovakian satire "The World We Live In" — will be presented tomorrow and May 25 in the outdoor theater atop Mount Tamalpais.

A cast of more than 120 persons — one of the largest in the history of the play — will perform. Starting time is 2 p.m. Tickets will be available at the gate.

Save-The-Bay Picnics Slated

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tomorrow will be "Ring Around The Bay Day," arranged as a "fun day to dramatize the need for a regulatory agency to save San Francisco Bay."

Special programs are planned at noon at Paradise Beach County Park in Tiburon and at Coyote Point Park in San Mateo, Ed Levin Park at Milpitas, Coyote Hills Park in Fremont and at Provo Park in Berkeley.

The aim will be to encourage enactment by the Legislature of plans and policies of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, which is due to expire this year.

The events are being coordinated by the Stanford Population and Environment Forum, a student-faculty group.

Five Co-eds Suspended Over Pills

Five Terra Linda High School co-eds have been suspended and three of them were treated at Marin General Hospital for being under the influence of drugs and police have apparently linked the drug consumption to the burglary of a Terra Linda pharmacy two weeks ago.

The five girls were suspended by school officials Thursday afternoon and three of them were treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital.

San Rafael police said that they had been aware that 1,000 seconal capsules stolen from the Terra Linda Pharmacy at 655 Del Ganado Road, had been flooding the campus, and had been investigating.

The incident with the girls — whose identities were withheld by school officials and hospital authorities — is the latest in a series which San Rafael police are attributing to the theft of the capsules, known as "Red Dolls."

A 20-year-old San Anselmo youth, Robert West, is still in the intensive care unit at Marin General after taking a number of the capsules Tuesday and Wednesday.

Margaret Rattray, administrative assistant at the high school, said that the administration was "very concerned" with

Marin Judge Orders Creek Work Stopped

Procedure Of Board Opposed

A stop work order against the Army Corps of Engineers on the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control project was issued late yesterday by Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

The order was effective immediately and formal papers will be presented to the contractor at 8:30 a.m. Monday.

Judge Gardiner's action was on a request for an injunction filed yesterday by attorney Roger Kent. Hearing notification procedures followed by the Marin County Board of Supervisors in connection with the Tamalpais Creek phase of the project were questioned in Kent's request for an injunction.

HEARING SET

Judge Gardiner set a hearing on the case for May 23.

The action follows weeks of efforts by residents of Kent Woodlands to stop the corps from destroying trees and foilage at Tamalpais Creek and replacing the natural growth with a green cyclone fence. Last month, several residents trying to guard the creek from cement lining were arrested.

Efforts by residents to get the Marin County Board of Supervisors to stop the work were also futile.

'BETTER DESIGN'

Marty Kent Jones, a leader of the Ad Hoc Citizens Committee to Save Tamalpais Creek, has emphasized the group is not against flood control. "We want flood control, but we want better design," she has said.

The corps had offered an altentative plan for Tam Creek for an extra $100,000 if residents would foot most of the bill. But fund raising attempts produced only $17,000. The corps maintains the project, including th Tamalpais Creek portion, "is essential to flood protection for some 220 homes in the area and for expansion of the College of Marin."

California Campus Tension Boils Over Three Places

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

More than 1,000 students retreated before advancing police outside the UCLA faculty club in Los Angeles. They chanted "pigs off campus" and screamed obscenities as they moved away from the building where a meeting of the board of regents was in progress. California Gov. Ronald Reagan attended the meeting at the 29,000-student campus.

The police swept the street clear of protesters after Chancellor Charles E. Young was drowned out by jeers when he asked the students to disperse.

Police used tear gas to rout 700 Stanford University protesters who set up flaming street barricades to block rush-hour traffic south of San Francisco. The students, protesting war research at the 11,700-student school, retreated to open fields nearby and police ducked hurled rocks as they chased protesters three-quarters of a mile.

Sixteen persons were arrested in the protest.

Pilot Lands Perfectly — Except Wheels-Up

A San Jose pilot, who forgot to put down his landing wheels, made a beautiful landing at Gnoss Field last night, a spokesman for Marin Aviation reported.

The pilot, whose identity was unknown, was not injured. The aircraft, a Cessna 320, had moderate damage to both propellers and flaps.

New Troubles Could Delay Lunar Orbits

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Technicians stopped a tiny helium leak in the Apollo 10 moonship early today but another potential problem, involving the cabin atmosphere, cropped up to threaten the countdown for Sunday's launch of the final trial run for a manned lunar landing.

Engineers worked steadily to correct the new difficulty without interrupting the countdown, aiming toward a 9:49 a.m. PDT launch tomorrow of Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan.

'WICK' PUZZLE

George E. Low, Apollo spacecraft manager, reported late this morning that an unexplained problem had developed in servicing the "wicks" in the command ship's atmosphere control system.

Low said the "wicks"—porous metal plates which extract moisture from the cabin air—must be thoroughly wetted before launch. For some reason yet undiscovered, he said, the plates were refusing to hold enough water.

"We do not have an indication now why they are not yet properly serviced," he said. "Until they are properly serviced, we cannot proceed with the launch."

TIME TO REPAIR

The countdown was to go into a 10-hour rest period at 4 p.m. today, which officials hoped would provide plenty of time for resolving the problem without a delay in the launch.

The astronauts, meanwhile, took today off. They rested up for the climactic final hours of preparing for the mission the United States hopes will pave the way for a moon landing by Apollo 11 in July.

Weathermen continued to predict satisfactory conditions for the moonport tomorrow and all other aspects of the mission were reported "go."

Apollo 10 is scheduled to orbit the moon a record 32 times and

Another Red Capsule Falls Onto Venus

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviets today dropped their second space capsure in as many days into Venus' atmosphere and hailed the accomplishment as a "wonderful contribution" to science. Western experts said something might have gone wrong.

An announcement from the Soviet news agency Tass said the Venus 6 space capsule parachuted into the planet's cloud bank 180 miles from the point where Venus 5's capsule hit the atmosphere a day earlier.

For 51 minutes, Venus 6 relayed back vital scientific data about the earth's nearest planet neighbor, just as Venus 5 had done for 53 minutes. Then, like Venus 5, today's capsule went dead following its 160 million-mile journey.

Western experts said the two capsules might not have landed softly on the surface as planned, perhaps damaging communications equipment. The Tass announcement did not mention a "soft landing" for either capsule, saying only they had "reached" the planet.

Demos Threaten To Roadblock Reagan's $6.2 Billion Budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly version of Gov. Ronald Reagan's $6.2 billion budget—certain to become the subject of a partisan fight—was in position today for a vote by the lower House.

But Democrats hinted they might stage a revolt against the $6,227,906,401 spending program for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

They want more emphasis on such urban-oriented problems as unemployment, jobs for youth and housing for the poor. Some of them pledged last year to press for increased attention to these areas.

Democrats also may use the budget, which needs a two thirds vote of the 80-member chamber, to force tax reform from the Republican-controlled Legislature.

SPECIAL ELECTION

The Assembly now is divided 39-39 with two vacancies. An election is scheduled Tuesday to fill the seat vacated by John G. Veneman, undersecretary of health, education and welfare. That will make the lineup 40-39 for the winning party, probably still not enough to unseat Assembly Republicans even with a Democratic victory.

The budget needs 54 votes to pass. This means Republicans will need at least 14 Democratic votes to send the spending program to the Senate.

The Ways and Means Committee yesterday unexpectedly approved the budget on a unanimous voice vote in its new form, $2.3 million more than the original money bill submitted by Reagan.

But Assemblyman Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda, committee vice chairman, said his vote in the panel did not tie him to favoring the bill on the floor.

Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada, Ways and Means chairman, disclosed that Democrats planned to present a "list of demands for changes" when the bill comes up for floor debate.

"The budget is a very tight budget," he said. "I just can't contemplate what the Democrats want. Their arguments generally will be more political than practical."

CAMPUS CURBS

Before acting, the committee adopted a rider by Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Piedmont, to forbid expenditure of any state money for state scholarships, loans, fellowships and grants-in-aid for any student convicted of participating in a violent demonstration.

The Mulford provision makes a presumption that any student who accepts state aid in attending school agrees "to observe the rules and regulations promulgated by the (university or college) governing authority."

The major—and unsuccessful—objections came from Democratic Assemblyman Charles R. Warren, Los Angeles, and John L. Burton, San Francisco. Warren said it added "another penalty" for the poor and Burton objected because it "singles out poor people," who need and get state help.

The rider is similar to a bill introduced by Lanterman and endorsed by the Assembly Select Committee on Campus Disturbances in a report made public Thursday.

In its final act, the committee approved a 5.5 per cent pay boost for 183,500 state employees, including professors at the University of California and state colleges.

Reagan offered the employees a pay raise totaling $61.5 million more than the current payroll. They got $63.5 million. The State Personnel Board had asked for $77.6 million and the California State Employees Association wanted $124.5 million.

Senators Eye Sale Of Part Of Cal Expo

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The future of the California Exposition and Fair remained questionable today after a Senate committee probed the financial condition of what its chairman called "one of the great fiascoes" of the state.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, and the other members of the Finance Committee decided yesterday to hear more about the complicated Cal Expo story before deciding on two budget items.

A $1.13-million item would service exposition bonds. But the future of Cal Expo rests with a $650,000 appropriation to finance it through fiscal 1969-70. Without it, the exposition would have to shut down after this year's state fair, around Labor Day.

"We'll have to figure out how to dispose of something," Collier commented at the end of the two-hour hearing in which legislative analayst A. Alan Post and Finance Department and Cal Expo officials unraveled its financial history.

But Collier refused to say whether he specifically favored selling all or part of the exposition, which last year managed to draw an average attendance of 5,000 a day.

DIVERS TOILING TO SALVAGE SUB

$50 Million Nuclear Craft Poses Giant Problem For Mare Island Yard Workers

VALLEJO (UPI) — Navy salvage experts today hoped to start pumping 1300 tons of seawater out of a $50 million submarine sitting on the bottom of San Francisco Bay under 34 feet of water.

The USS Guittaro, an attack submarine undergoing final fittings at Mare Island shipyard, sank to the bottom of the bay in five minutes Thursday night as water poured into a forward compartment.

There were no injuries as 20 workmen scrambled to safety. They were unable to close watertight doors because of construction work.

About 10 feet of conning tower remains above water.

The salvage operation will be so complex that the Navy yesterday flew in their supervisor of salvage for the entire Pacific, Cmdr. J. B. Orem, in from Pearl Harbor.

Rear Adm. Norbert Frankenberger, commander of the San Francisco Bay naval shipyards, said that "when we are satisfied we have taken care of the stability we will start pumping or blowing with air."

He explained that the greatest problem was to keep the 4,640-ton cigar-shaped vessel from rolling over during refloating attempts.

The navy could give no estimate of water damage to the sub's complex electronic equipment, although a spokesman said the figure could run into the millions.

He said the sub's nuclear reactor "was not aboard, thank God," and there is no danger of nuclear contamination.

He also declined all speculation as to the cause of the sinking pending investigation of the sub once it has been refloated.

The Guittaro was an advanced model of the Sturgeon class. The navy has built or started work on 26 Sturgeon class subs and has 10 more authorized.

Road Widening Contract Given

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A San Rafael contractor has submitted a low bid of $197,293 for widening and allied work on a section of Shoreline Highway near Stinson Beach.

The bid, submitted by Brown-Ely Co., was the lowest of three opened Wednesday by the state Division of Highways. A total of $250,000 is available for the project, which will include installation of guard rail and installation of turning lanes at the Panoramic Highway and Stinson Beach State Park intersections.

A contract is scheduled to be awarded in a month.

Package Size Shrinkage Hit As A 'Crime'

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal accused manufacturers today of commiting "economic crime" against consumers by quietly reducing the contents of their packaged products without making corresponding cuts in prices.

Rosenthal, chairman of the House special consumer subcommittee, cited several examples of product trimming he said took place without price changes or changes in the package size.

Did you know, for example, that the Betty Crocker Country Corn Flakes that was 11 ounces in 1965 is now 10 ounces?" the New York Democrat said.

"Are you aware that the Jergens Lotion that was 12½ ounces is now now 10½ ounces?" he added. "Some of you may be interested in knowing that the 21 ounce package of Serutan is now only 18 ounces."

Rosenthal made the remarks in a speech for the Nassau County Consumer Conference at Hofstra University.

'ENORMOUS' LIST

Staffers from Rosenthal's subcommittee said in Washington they have compiled "a rather extensive and enormous" list of products whose portions have been trimmed. The issue is to come up at committee hearings next month.

"When we talk about economic crime in America, we think of the bank embezzler or the Wall Street manipulator," said Rosenthal.

"Economic crime in America involves the widespread practice by manufacturers of cleverly shinking the contents of their packaged products without, at the same time, telling the consumer or reducing the price."

Rosenthal said listing the weight changes in small print without changing the package size has also deceived federal officials who must keep track of comparative prices from year to year.

Asked if the changes are a violation of the Truth-in-Packaging Act, a subcommittee staffer said, "This is something we're going to find out at the hearings."

ATTITUDE HIT

"What is incredible to me, however, is that the 'public-be-damned' attitude on the part of some producers extends to issues of health and safety," said Rosenthal.

He said manufacturers have been able since the 1940's to equip washing machine wringers with a $3 safety device to guard against arms being crushed in the machines

An industry-wide standard wasn't adopted until 1968, after 200,000 persons a year had been injured, Rosenthal said.

"The consumer revolution confronts the very integrity of the free enterprise system," he said. "If that system is to endure, its ultimate goal most be to provide goods and services that are fairly priced, safe and effective."

JACKASS FLATS, Nev. (UPI) — The test of a nuclear rocket system which might serve as a supply shuttle for moon colonists or a deep space probe has been postponed indefinitely.

The system, called Nerva for Nuclear Engine for Rocket Vehicle Application, was originally scheduled for a test Thursday. However, the Atomic Energy Commission rescheduled it for yesterday.

Yesterday's test was called off because of equipment failure.

Roosevelt Mends

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — The eldest son of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt recovered from a stab wound inflicted by his wife and said he would leave the hospital today or tomorrow. James Roosevelt, 61, was stabbed in the back by his third wife, Gladys, at the doorway of their mansion in Vesenaz, an expensive suburb of Geneva, at 11 p.m. Thursday. He managed to reach the house of a neighbor, who called an ambulance.

The former California Congressman underwent emergency surgery but was in good enough shape shortly after the operation to call his lawyers, who issued a statement identifying Roosevelt's assailant as his wife.

She was taken to a clinic for observation. The lawyers said Mrs. Roosevelt, 48, recently had been treated for severe depression.

Youth Aides Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three quarters of the city's juvenile probation officers were on strike today in an effort to force the Board of Supervisors to approve the hiring of additional officers when it meets Monday.

The probation officers struck yesterday over what they called their "intolerable work load." The officers average caseloads of over 88 youngsters compared with workloads of about 50 juvenile offenders in other counties.

The striking officers — 60 of the city's 82 — set up a picket line around the center yesterday but said they would not resume the line until Monday.

Sea Lions Dead?

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Federal biologists, studying fur seal migration off the Santa Barbara coast, will probe Monday a report from a conservationist that 150 sea lion pups are dead on San Miguel Island.

Ian McMillan, cattle rancher and member of a group called Defenders of Wildlife, said he saw the dead pups this week on islands touched by leaking oil from an undersea well.

Red Test Hint

UPPSALA, Sweden (UPI) — An underground explosion, apparently a Soviet nuclear weapons test, was recorded yesterday by the Uppsala Seismological Institute. Experts said the blast apparently occurred in Siberia.

FBI Nabs Kidnap Suspects

PETERSBURG, Va. (UPI) — FBI agents arrested two persons here early today on charges of kidnapping a 22-year-old University of Pennsylvania coed and holding her hostage for three days last week until her financier father paid $10,000 in ransom.

Dull

Miss Spriggs

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover identified the individuals arrested as Edward Lee Dull, 39, and Alvina Marie Spriggs, 21, both of whom were said to be living in Baltimore when they allegedly kidnapped Anne Kathryn Jenkins a week ago today.

Miss Jenkins, of Waterloo, Iowa, was freed last Tuesday and reported in a state of shock as a result of her three-day ordeal.

Penal Expert Quits

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Thomas Gaddis yesterday submitted his resignation as director of Project Newgate at the Oregon State Penitentiary, effective July 1, to take a private post.

Gaddis, 59, a University of Portland professor and the author of "Birdman of Alcatraz," developed Project Newgate — a college program for inmates — in 1967. It was the first of its kind in a U.S. prison.

Nurses Accept Pay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Nurses have approved a contract boosting their pay $85 monthly by January 1970 at major hospitals in San Francisco.

Administrators say the boost will raise costs to patients by about $10 to $15 a day.

The approval ended a strike threat at four hospitals. The agreement also applies at seven others in the Affiliated Hospitals of San Francisco.

Salaries, now ranging between $630 and $750 a month, will be boosted for some 1,300 nurses.

Student Killed

CORRIENTES, Argentina (UPI) — One student was killed and four were wounded yesterday when police opened fire on a demonstration against higher prices for meals at the local university. The food prices rose from 7 to 12 cents.

Negro Heads Church

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — A black man long in the forefront of the civil rights movement today took over as the head of the American Baptist Convention.

Dr. Thomas Kilgore Jr., pastor of the Second Baptist Church of Los Angeles, is the first man of his race to head the 1.5 million denomination in its 62-year history. He led the union organization and voter registration of tobacco workers in Winston-Salem, N.C., in 1943-44, supervised the New York office of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference from 1959 to 1963, helped organize the March of Washington in 1963, and is a leader in the NAACP.

Dedication Of Lands To Be Reviewed

How far can the planning commission go in requiring dedications of park lands or rights-of-way from private developers?

This and other legal questions will be discussed by the Marin County Planning Commission when it meets Monday at 9 a.m.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney and county supervisors have been invited to participate in the discussion.

Other items on the planning commission agenda for Monday include:

T. J. Nelsen's request for a use permit for a boat construction and repair shop on Donal J. Arques' property in Richardson Bay.

Johngold Corp.'s request for approval of a resort commercial plan to put in a Howard Johnson restaurant, motel and accessory service station on Richardson Bay in front of the Fireside Motel.

William Souza's request for permission to open a public firing range on his property near the Sonoma County border. He plans a firing rag range for pistols, rifles, shotguns and archery on the west side of Alexander Road between the Tomales-Petaluma Road and the Fallon Two-Rock Road.

The First Congregational Church in Santa Venetia, at the corner of North San Pedro and Merrydale roads, wants to operate a nursery school for up to 25 children in an existing church building.

Driver Injured

Jack Kermoian, 41, of 74 Spindrift Passage, Corte Madera, was treated for an injured right arm at Marin General Hospital last night after his car hit a guard rail on the Paradise Drive off-ramp of Highway 101 at 6:35 p.m. The California Highway Patrol reported Kermoian said his attention was diverted by a noise.

MARIN FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

12:07 p.m. Kentfield — Car fire at Laurel and Cedar avenues; damage estimated at $300 to a car owned by Joseph Granucci of 1663 Center Road, Novato.

3:50 p.m., Woodacre — A fire in a pickup truck owned by James M. Kardas at 15 Maple Avenue, estimated damage of $50 when debris loaded in back of truck caught on fire. Marin County firemen responded.

4:04 p.m., Woodacre — Estimated damage of $20 to the Woodacre Market on San Geronimo Valley Road when a short in a lighting fixture started a small fire. Marin County firemen responded.

7:12 p.m., Marin City — Grass fire in the 100 block of Drake Avenue; burned area three feet by 15 feet. Marin County firemen responded.

TODAY:

1:30 a.m., Novato — Estimated $3,000 damage to the 41 Montego Key home of Elmo P. Bianchi when an electrical short in the clothes dryer started fire which destroyed washer, dryer and did heavy heat and smoke damage to remainder of home.

Russell said he received a call at 10 p.m. from the Marin Municipal Water District dispatcher in Corte Madera to go to the 666th Radar Squadron installation at the top of Mount Tamalpais.

He arrived and found several juveniles had broken the gate on Ridgecrest Road near Rock Springs which closes off Mount Tamalpais State Park to visitors after darkness.

Russell said he observed 10 to 15 youths in the area and requested them to leave. The youths left.

A short while later Russell, Wallace and Head Park Ranger Otis Lyons reported they saw the same youths at the entrance to the Mountain Theater. They were again asked to disperse and did.

Lyons told Russell that he was closing tne park at Pan Toll Ranger Station and that all cars left in the park at that time would be impounded.

Deputies then found that the Bootjack Camp parking lot was "full of cars and male subjects," Russell said. The officers said they asked the youths to leave. Some did but others started hurling rocks at the two officers, and used abusive language, Russell reported.

When Russell and Wallace tried to place suspects into their patrol cars, the youths interfered with the arrests, Russell added. The deputies said they were struck with many rocks.

The crowd grew to 30 to 40 youths, Russell said, with the deputies being pushed by their attackers. At this point, to keep the youths from taking the prisoners, Russell said, he struck the youngest Rilla on the head with his baton.

The youths fled when seven deputies arrived as reinforcements, Russell said.

Forgery Case Hearing Slated

The case of Juanita Litteral, 18, of San Rafael has been refused by Marin Juvenile Court, and she pleaded innocent yesterday in municipal court to a charge of forging a money order believed to be stolen from a former postman.

A preliminary hearing was set for June 10.

A co-defendant, Eugene Richard Rudnick, 19, of San Rafael, also pleaded innocent to the same charge and his case was referred to the probation department for possible transferral to juvenile court.

Apartment Prowler Gets $675 Jewelry

Beverly I. Jonasen has reported to San Rafael police that someone entered her apartment at 1060 Los Gamos Road May 9 and stole $675 in jewelry from the master bedroom.

Entry was made through an open window. Taken were a diamond engagement ring valued at $350, three rings, a necklace, a wrist watch and a $100 set of earrings, police reported.

Store Guard Fires Shots At Suspects

An Emporium security guard fired three shots yesterday at a fleeing vehicle carrying three shoplifters who had taken three suits from the Northgate store, police said.

None of the suspects was believed hit, officers reported.

The guard, Thomas Pinkerton, told police that at 1:40 p.m. he saw two Mexican men and one Caucasian, in their 20s, leave the store carrying the dark-colored suits.

Pinkerton ran after the men as they got into their vehicle, a white Oldsmobile, ordering them to stop, police said.

Pinkerton said he saw one of the trio reach into the glove compartment and pull out what he believed was a .25 automatic. The auto then sped away — with Pinkerton firing at it, police reported.

The guard fired three shots — one which Pinkerton said struck the door behind the driver, one white hit the trunk and one possibly into the left rear tire, police said.

Officers said that the Emporium valued the suits at between $325 and $550.

Overturned Auto Injures Driver, 19

A 19-year-old Point Reyes Station youth was reported in good condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco following an accident at 11:15 p.m. yesterday on Wilson Hill Road, north of the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road.

The youth, Eugene Michael Haley, suffered possible broken legs and a back injury when his car failed to make a curve and overturned, the California Highway Patrol reported. A passenger, Colleen Martin, 17, of Olema, was treated for minor injuries at Novato General Hospital.

Stubbs Hearing Set In Sonoma Thursday

Douglas O. Stubbs, 20, of Cotati, will appear in Central Sonoma Municipal Court at 9:15 a.m. Thursday to enter a plea to a battery charge.

Stubbs was released yesterday on his own recognizance. He is accused of having struck Clayton Vaughn, 21, of Cotati, on the head with a breaker bar during an argument on May 10.

Drake Students Pick Football Prep Crews

Football season song leaders elected yesterday by Sir Francis Drake High School students were Jackie Cann, Michele Geoffrion, Chris Gonser, Chris King, Heidi Looper, Missie Mangels and Julie Mensing, the Drake News Bureau reported.

Novatan Earns Medal For Vietnam Rescue

First Lt. Harry Shaw Miller of Novato has been awarded the Soldier's Medal for saving the lives of the occupants of a capsizing sailboat while stationed in Vietnam in July 1967.

Miller, 25, who lives with his wife, Suzanne, at 11 Kaden Court, was presented the award by Maj. Gen. Charles Darnell, deputy Sixth Army commander.

Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Miller of San Rafael, is now a member of the 353rd Psychological Operations Battalion, an Army Reserve unit.

Miller, with two other soldiers, saw a sailboat containing a Vietnamese and an American floundering in Cam Ranh Bay in a tropical storm. Miller and his companions negotiated their boat 600 yards to the endangered men in 10-foot waves and rescued them.

Miller returned from Vietnam in January 1968.

The Soldier's Medal, the Army's highest noncombat decoration, is rarely received by an officer. It is ranked in the class of awards with the Congressional Medal of Honor.

"There is no telling how many other students have been taking the pills," Mrs. Rattray said.

The school was concerned enough, she said, to make an announcement over the school public address system Friday about the danger of seconal.

Police said that the capsules were being offered for sale around campus on a "three-for-a-$1" basis.

"We understand that the original 1,000 capsules have all been used up," a police officer said, "but that more are on their way to the area."

Several other incidents in the last two weeks have been attributed by police to the theft of the capsules.

Two weeks ago a young girl was left unconscious in the back of a car by friends after she had taken 13 of the capsules, police said.

And last night, a girl currently in juvenile hall was treated at Marin General Hospital for an overdose of seconal, hospital authorities said.

Blown Tire Injures East Bay Family

A Concord family was taken to Marin General Hospital last night after their car blew a tire and hit a telephone pole on Shoreline Highway, five miles north of Point Reyes Station, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said James Edward Marsh, 32; Rodney Marsh, 11, and Douglas Marsh, 8, were injured in the accident at about 9:50 p.m. and taken to the hospital. A hospital spokesman said Douglas was treated for a scraped forehead but had no record of the other two.

African Transplant Patient Worsens

News that the 59-year-old dentist's condition had worsened caused surprise here. Doctors earlier had said he was doing well and would be home in a couple of days.

Judge Hears Houseboat Arguments

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — U. S. District Court Judge George B. Harris took under study yesterday motions in the case of a group of houseboat owners fighting eviction from Richardson Bay at Waldo Point.

Joseph A. Forest, deputy Marin County counsel, asked Judge Harris to dismiss the suit. Carl Shapiro, attorney for the houseboat owners, asked for a temporary restraining order against the county's attempts to remove 50 houseboats until extensive arguments in the case are possible.

Shapiro also filed affidavits yesterday in support of his assertion that the county has been harrassing the houseboat owners.

Two county housing inspectors, Richard Larson and John Wolfe, were summoned to the witness stand by Forest.

"I was personally attacked two times," said Larson. "A hammer was thrown at me and there were many threats."

The county contends that the houseboats do not meet sewage disposal standards.

U.S. B52 bombers for the first time have begun raids against neighboring Cambodia in an effort to deprive Communist soldiers of sanctuaries within 35 miles of Saigon, U.S. military sources said today.

The sources, at outposts along the Cambodian frontier west of Saigon, said at least three Stratofort strikes hit the neutral nation in the past several days, all of them planned in advance.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese gunners during the night shelled 41 Allied bases and towns, sending two rockets into the edge of Saigon that wounded one woman. Overall damage and casualties were described as light in the sixth day of stepped-up salvos.

In one of the few barrages against major U.S. bases, three rockets slammed into the air base at Da Nang, killing one American Marine and damaging two warplanes, military spokesmen said. Some 30,000 Allied troops around Da Nang were on full alert for a Communist attack.

Fog Nearly Hides Carrier Homecoming

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A dense fog almost hid the giant 80,000-ton aircraft carrier Ranger today as it steamed under the Golden Gate Bridge after a fourth combat tour off Vietnam.

With visibility limited to about 100 yards, the ship's 5,000-man crew glimpsed only briefly a 150-foot welcome banner hung from the bridge.

tors marching on Berkeley's City Hall, near the 27,000-student University of California campus.

The soldiers and police herded the demonstrators six blocks back to the campus. There were occasional scuffles but no serious violence.

The protesters, including Berkeley students and "street people" from the city's hippie colony, were protesting Thursday's four-hour battle in which at least 128 persons were injured, many by birdshot fired by police.

Elsewhere:

Massachusetts — A Harvard University teaching fellow yesterday was sentenced to a year in jail for assault and battery on a dean in the April 9 takeover of University Hall. Carl D. Offner, 25, Darien, Conn., also was fined $20 on a trespassing charge. He appealed both findings and was released on personal recognizance. The sentence was believed to be the stiffest imposed on a student demonstrator in recent protests. A U.S. Court of Appeals in Boston yesterday granted bail to five Dartmouth College students jailed in the wake of a takeover of the administration building May 5. The court refused bail for 40 others. Each of the 45 was sentenced to 30 days in jail for the anti-ROTC takeover.

The helium leak, first reported yesterday, was the first and only potentially serious problem to develop during the long countdown.

The astronauts will spend nearly three days getting to the moon and putting their spacecraft into an orbit some 60 miles above it.

On Thursday, Stafford and Cernan will fly to within 50,000 feet of the moon's surface in the Apollo lunary landing spacecraft to take a close look at the landing site in the moon's Sea of Tranquality picked for the Apollo 11 moon-walking expedition, photograph it and checkout landing techniques.

Stafford and Cernan will fly up to 350 miles from Young in the command spacecraft to make man's closest pass over the surface of the moon, then rejoin Young, send the lunar lander into orbit toward the sun, and head home for a May 26 Pacific landing.

Physical Excellence Certificates Slated

Major Justice will present certificates of physical achievement to four other cadets, Richard S. Ades, James Blackburn, Edward Adjuria and John Kennedy. The ceremony will be at 2 p.m. on the parade ground.

Half Moon Bay Man Injured Near Fort

The California Highway Patrol said John T. Gravance was injured when his auto ripped up about 20 feet of guard rail at 1:45 a.m.

Petaluma Man Due In Court Monday

Howard Crump, 38, of Petaluma will appear in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court Monday to enter a plea to a charge of attempted burglary.

Crump, 28 Bridge Street, was found by police on May 4 in the vicinity of the Foster Freeze Restaurant, Petaluma, where several window screens had been slashed in an apparent burglary attempt.

OBITUARIES

Cardinal Josef Beran Dies

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Cardinal Josef Beran, the Czechoslovak primate who was imprisoned 18 years in his homeland, died in exile today. He was 80.

The Prague archbishop, who came to the Vatican in 1965 after his release by Communist authorities, died of cancer at the St. John Nepomuk Pontifical College where he made his home, a Vatican spokesman said.

Pope Paul VI, notified that Beran was dying, rushed to the college but arrived a few minutes too late. The Pope went to Beran's bedside and prayed.

Beran was one of three high-ranking East European churchmen who were imprisoned during the wave of religious persecution that swept over the Communist countries at the height of the cold war. The others were Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski of Poland, since restored to his post, and Cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty of Hungary, who was freed during the 1956 Hungarian uprising, took refuge in the American Embassy when the uprising failed and has lived there ever since.

Beran was imprisoned first by the Nazi conquerors of Czechoslovakia and then by the Communists when they seized control of the country in 1948.

His release by the Communists and his flight into exile followed a thaw in Vatican-Kremlin relations that had repercussions through much of Eastern Europe.

His death opens the prospect of Vatican-Czechoslovak negotiations on the appointment of a new archbishop for Prague, which has been run since 1965 by an apostolic administrator.

ARTHUR BAER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Humorist and cartoonist Arthur (Bugs) Baer died early today at New York Hospital after a long illness. He was 83 years old.

Baer acquired his nickname decades ago when he was a sports cartoonist for the old Washington Times. He was fond of embellishing his drawings with eccentric and outspoken insects.

Born in Philadelphia the seventh of 14 children to parents who were immigrants from Alsace-Lorraine, Baer quit school at 14 to become a lace designer. He quit that job six years later to work as an office boy for the old Philadelphia Ledger for $2 a week.

Baer soon won a job as a staff artist, then transferred to the Washington paper, where his captions and comments won him a reputation as a humorist.

Funeral services have not yet been arranged.

FLOYD HUFF

Funeral for Floyd Huff of Fairfax, a Sausalito taxi driver, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Sausalito Presbyterian Church.

Huff died Thursday at a local hospital following a short illness. He was 54.

A native of Newark, N. J., he had lived in New Jersey until moving to Fairfax last year.

He had been employed as an executive with several paint manufacturing firms in New Jersey and was a member of a New Jersey post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He is survived by his wife, Arlene; four sons, George C. of Tiburon, Bruce Owen of Marlton, N. J., Robert C. of New Jersey, and Michael D. Huff of Fairfax, a daughter, Loren Huff of Fairfax, and three grandchildren.

Contributions to the Marin County Heart Association are preferred.

EDWARD MACKENNA

Requiem Mass for Edward W. Mackenna, 68, of San Rafael, will be at 9:30 a.m. Monday at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael. Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

MacKenna, of 912 Fifth Avenue, died Thursday in a local hospital after a short illness. Retired, he was formerly a lubrication man for Bianco's Garage. A native of California, he had lived in Marin 60 years.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

MOUNT TAMALPAIS CEMETERY in the Heart of our County

Marin pioneers chose a site in the heart of our county as a final resting place for their families. Today this location—at the west end of Fifth Avenue in San Rafael—is still convenient to all Marin points.

Marinites who choose Mount Tamalpais do so with the assurance that its beauty will grow with the years. The interest from a quarter-million dollar endowment fund—twice the legal requirement—is dedicated to the constant care and improvement of this 57-acre site.

Perhaps—like many Marin families—you wish to make your own final arrangements to spare others difficult decisions. If so, we invite your inquiry or a personal visit.

Fraternal Living At School Brings Comments Pro And Con

DEAR HELEN:

I agree with "Support Wanted" when she said that sororities may be fine for some, but not for everyone. This also holds true of fraternities. I do not agree with your reply to her, Helen : "They can close you off from too many interesting people."

Perhaps the majority of college students today do feel that fraternities and sororities are more limiting than fulfilling, but these people have never belonged to a fraternal organization, so how do they know?

In the last three years I have befriended over sixty brothers, men I would otherwise never have met. We've worked, studied and enjoyed life together. We've met other people through mixers and we've sponsored functions for the entire student body.

True, there are those who wouldn't be happy in this atmosphere, but I'm glad I chose to pledge. Fraternity life has made my college years most rewarding. — A FRATERNITY BROTHER

DEAR HELEN:

As a recent college graduate and sorority president, I would like to address the girl whose parents were pushing sorority life on her.

Here are points to consider:

1. Sororities differ, sometimes drastically. A mother often feels that just because her house was tops on her campus, the same sorority will be "in" at other colleges. This is far from true. Mothers should let their daughters make their own choices.

2. It is very easy for a girl to lose her identity when she joins a sorority. A girl must be active to stand out among 70 other girls. Those girls who aren't do more harm than good to a sorority.

3. Sorority life often puts a great deal of pressure on the girl's academic studies, for the more she becomes involved in social life, the less time she has to study. A weak student may have trouble.

4. Social pressures of sorority life can sometimes be very frustrating for a girl who finds it hard to adjust.

The main point I want to make is that the decision to join a sorority must be the girl's and not her parent's. I have seen the girl who has been "forced" by society-minded parents, and it is a sad sight.

I am one hundered percent for sorority life — If a girl wants it. I joined, and was very active in college life. My husband did not join, and was equally active at college. — MRS. C.C.

DEAR HELEN:

One of our daughters joined a sorority, the other didn't. Both had wonderful times at college. The choice can't be made by parents! —MOTHER

DEAR HELEN:

I belonged to a high school sorority and quit. I was just a face in the group, not myself any more. I had to go along with acts and ideas I didn't like and I discovered I was getting to be as much of a snob as the leaders. — NO MORE

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Go Alone To Choose Pattern

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE:

When I finish reading your column, I am so excited about making something new I can hardly wait to get to the fabric shop. Then my friends and I spend hours looking at patterns. After awhile nothing looks great anymore and our enthusiasm drops off to the point of going home empty handed. Is there some magic to follow when you want to make a new dress or ensemble?—MRS. R.R.W.

DEAR MRS. R.R.W.:

This happens to so many women that I have worked out a solution. First, do your shopping alone.

Second, look through the fashion books first, also shop the better stores and try to plan the kind of ensemble you would like. With this vision in your mind, find a pattern that will fill your requirements. Most women "overlooked" — in other words, they look and look and finally every pattern looks the same. Remember that beautiful fabric and a simple pattern are the keynotes to any successful garment.

It's better to trust the good judgment of a woman in your fabric department who understands you and your needs. She isn't going to misdirect you because if she did, she would lose a valuable customer.

Mrs. Joanna Smith, Gardner, Mass. is this week's Tailor Trix winner for her suggestion:

"When the lace on your personal lingerie tears, you can repair it neatly in just a few seconds. Take a piece of the new lace seam binding, place it on the wrong side of the lace of your garment and weave it in place with small invisible running stitches. It won't show and because of the electicity of the lace it will give a little and prevent further tearing."

DEAR MRS. FARMER:

I have just finished making a tent dress out of cotton chiffon to be worn over a slim slipdress. What is the correct width of the hem on sheer fabrics?—MRS. G.M.

DEAR MRS. G.M.:

The width of the hem on sheer fabrics depends entirely upon the cut cf the garment. Because you mentioned that your chiffon dress is a tent style, I know the lower elge is cut on the bias. For any bias edge, you should make a rolled hem as narrow as it is possible to make because you couldn't ease in a wide hem and make it look even and smooth.

If the dress is cut full such as a shirtwaist style, where the hem is on the straight grain of the fabric, it is most attractive to use a very deep hem (perhaps anywhere from 6 to 10 inches). The extra hem width not only looks attractive in sheers but will make the dress hang better because of the extra weight.

DEAR EUNICE:

My spring coat is cut with an A-line style, and I don't like the fullness in the back. Since it has a center back seam, could I remove some of the fullness without changing the A-line of the coat? I am going to make a cotton coat for summer and don't want to make the same mistake again.—MRS. A.O.L

DEAR MRS. A.O.L.:

You will have to examine the side seams of the coat to determine if they have been cut with a straight seam or if they angle out in an A-line. Sometimes the center back is cut on a bias line to form extra fullness in the back only, and the side seams are cut on the straight grain.

If your coat is cut with an angle at the sides, it wouldn't change the overall shape to take some of the fullness out of the back. In fact, for your next coat, you may wish to eliminate the center back seam and lay the straight seam line on the fold of your fabric. Remember, it's the side seams that control the A-line shaping of any garment.

Frog closing, button loops, and ball buttons all can be easily made by following the instructions in Eunice Farmer's booklet "Spaghetti Straps and Rope Belts." For your copy send 10 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal.

Luncheons To Kick Off Tour Of Belvedere-Tiburon Homes

By MOLLY MARIN

Belvedere hostesses are planing a number of luncheons before the House Tour, sponsored by St. Stephens Guild Wednesday. Sharing the day with 40 friends from the Bay Area are Mrs. James Crittenden and Mrs. John Wiley who will give their pre-tour party at the Crittenden home in Belvedere. Mrs. James Atkin has invited 41 friends from San Francisco to lunch at her Corinthian Island home. Mrs. Robert Morrison, of Belvedere, will entertain before the tour, as will Mmes. Melvin Tyler and L. W. Jordan, both of Belvedere Lagoon. Mrs. Kenneth Merklin of Tiburon and Mrs. Richard Lowry of Tiburon will have guests at their homes before joining other house tourists at San Francisco Yacht Club, Belvedere.

Her 20 guests at the buffet-luncheon and "glory boat" tour at San Francisco Yacht Club, Belvedere, Wednesday, were invited by Mrs. Cabell Gwathmey for a special reason. Each had done some kindness for Mr. and Mrs. Gwathmey during their stay at Marin General Hospital following an automobile accident during the Christmas season.

THE TRADITION of boating season openings has attracted the younger set, and today junior salts of the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere held a parade of decorated small boats in Belvedere Cove. The youngsters, who are all involved in the club's junior sailing training program, were scheduled to see a film of sailing techniques and hear a talk by Jerry Leth on racing rules.

THE WILLIAM S. Solaris Jr., expects to move from San Francisco into the house that is being built for them on Racoon Strait, Tiburon, in early June. Their ocean sailing yacht, The Santana, is now in Newport Harbor, and they expect to sell it, and acquire a smaller one which will be berthed at the dock of their Marin home.

Their three children, Andrea, Gayle and William, are looking forward to the Marin move. Marion Solari was one of the hostesses at the Boat Tour given by the Women's Auxiliary of the San Francisco Yacht Club at the Belvedere harbor Wednesday. She was stationed on the racing yacht, Bohemia, owned by Peter Salz.

VISITING IN Belvedere is Mrs. John Falter of Philadelphia. Boo Falter, a former Belvedere resident, has been staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan La Rue, and she timed her visit to celebrate both her mother's and father's birthdays.

A NUMBER of Marin friends will attend the tea being given by Mrs. Eugene Wheary and her daughter, Molly, at the family's home in San Francisco Thursday.

Wins Scholarship

Robin M. Fagg of San Rafael has been awarded a Marshall Field World Year Book four year college scholarship in a contest for families of the publishing company. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fagg of San Rafael and is an honor student at Terra Linda High School.

Tomorrow Is Anniversary For Landmark Society

The Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society will celebrate its 10th anniversary at 4 p.m. tomorrow at Old St. Hilary's Church with a party highlighted by personal reminiscences of the society's achievements since its founding.

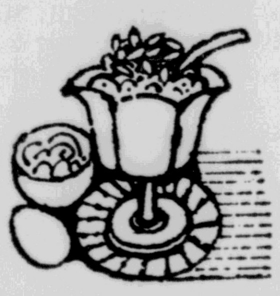
Mrs. Lemuel W. Allen of Belvedere, senior charter member, will be named honorary member for 1969, according to president Mrs. Robert Bastian. Other honorary members in past years include "Rosie," the goat lady, Caroline S. Livermore, Thomas Lacey, Thomas Crowley and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cuthbertson.

Mrs. Allen will also discuss old days in Belvedere, particularly reminiscing about the grocery store she and her husband owned on Beach Road.

Mrs. David Teather of Tiburon will autograph copies of her new book, "The Island of Six names," which recounts the history of Belvedere Island from 1834 to 1890.

Mrs. Bastian will read the names of charter nmembers still active in the organization and will describe the Landmarks Scoiety's campaigns to preserve Old St. Hilary's Church, the John Thomas Howell Botanical Garden and the Caroline S. Livermore Natural Preserve.

Strawberries' Appearance In Stores Heralds Spring



WASHINGTON (UPI) —The following guide to the nation's food buys for the weekend was prepared by the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that food shoppers will find good displays of meat and poultry and adequate supplies of some fresh fruits and vegetables in food stores and supermarkets this third weekend in May.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys continue to be the most abundant and available meats. Beef roasts and steaks are also considered abundant in most areas. Good selections of beef liver may also appear in some areas.

Bacon, ham, and smoked picnics should be conspicuously available in most areas along with Boston butts, roasts, and chops in some areas.

Maine sardines, canned pink salmon, and fish sticks and portions are the fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Fresh vegetables in good supply are cabbage, onions, and potatoes. Grapefruit, bananas, and oranges are the fruits in best supply in most areas along with strawberries in some areas.

USDA's plentiful foods list for May, in addition to turkeys, onions and Maine sardines, features canned and frozen green beans, canned and frozen corn, canned beets, and canned tomatoes and tomato products.

In the West:

Eggs are lower in all markets and red meats are higher. Poultry and butter prices remain largely unchanged. All sizes of eggs are lower.

Beef loins and ribs are higher while other cuts are generally higher.

Veal and calf are higher in San Francisco.

Fresh pork loins are higher and spareribs are higher. Other fresh pork cuts are higher. Smoked hams are higher in Portland and San Francisco. Sliced bacon is higher in California markets and slab bacon is lower in Portland.

Lamb is higher in Los Angeles.

Fryer and roaster chickens are higher in California markets.

Fruits and vegetables in best supply include: Apples, Bananas, avocados, grapefruit, strawberries, carrots, onions, tomatoes.

ON THE AGENDA

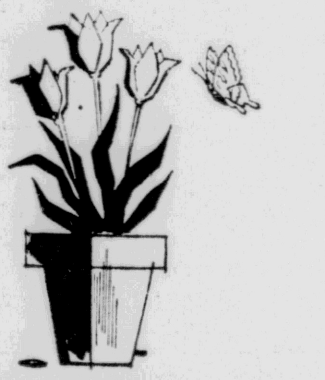
Senior Citizens Will Be Host For Needlework Ingathering

Plans are being completed for the annual Ingathering of San Rafael Branch of Needlework Guild of America to be held Tuesday, 1:30 p.m., at the San Rafael Recreation Center.

Senior Citizens' Needlework section, sponsored by the San Rafael Goldenaires, will be the hostess group. Mrs. Estelle Smith, director, will be tea chairman assisted by her section members.

Section presidents and directors have been sewing and collecting new garments and household articles. These will be distributed to the Red Cross, Sisters of the Holy Family, Clothes Closet of Marin City, Sunny Hills, St. Dorothy's Rest, St. Vincent's School for Boys and Sonoma State Hospital. Approximately 4,000 articles were furnished last year.

Serving as section presidents have been Miss Huldah Moorhead and Mmes. Carlo Caletti, Helen Ring, Ernest Giono, John MacPhail, J. J. Fischer, L. L. Walsh, Kenneth Larkins, Estella Smith and from Inverness Mmes. R. L. Griffith and Frank Giubbini. West Marin has had the leadership of Mrs. Nell McIsaac and Mrs. D. M. Springer.



THE VOLUNTEER Bureau of Marin is currently seeking to fill several different types of volunteer jobs. First, friendly women who would enjoy working with servicemen are needed to work with junior USO hostesses with activities on Bay Area military bases. Secondly, typists with an interest in art are needed to work weekends in Southern Marin.

The Volunteer Bureau also needs people of any age interested in assisting short-term visitors from foreign countries with sightseeing, learning to work telephones, handling currency, etc. Finally, women are being sought to help with a project which involves providing pets for shut-ins.

Anyone interested in these volunteer opportunities should contact the Volunteer Bureau at 725 A Street in San Rafael for further information.

EL MARINERO Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hear Mrs. Gregory A. Weingetz of San Francisco report on the resolutions passed at the 78th Continental Congress in Washington, D.C. at a meeting Monday at noon at the home of Mrs. Rowland King of San Rafael. Luncheon hostesses are Mmes. Boswell F. King, chairman; Herbert H. Gerlach, Gustave K. Zantow and Arthur Roth.

AN ORIENTATION meeting to help Air Force wives learn about benefits, rights and privileges will be offered by the Family Services Center at Hamilton Air Force Base on Tuesday from 7:30 to 11 p.m. and Wednesday from 9 a.m. to noon. The program will be held at the Family Services Center at the base, with child care available.

The sessions are open to all Air Force wives in Marin.

A CHARTER bus trip to the California Spring Garden and Home Show at the Oakland Coliseum will be made on Monday by the Marin Country Club Garden Club members. A meeting at 9:30 a.m. at the clubhouse will precede the bus departure at 10 a.m.

A MOTHER - DAUGHTER dinner is scheduled by the United Presbyterian Women of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Tiburon at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday at the church.

The Rev. Wiliam Perdue, new minister at Westminster Church, will be the speaker. A program of singing with guitar accompaniment will be given by representatives of the Westminster Youth Group, Andy Walker, Steve Macfarlane, John Broderick and Kai Stoeckenius.

Mrs. J. Benton Bostick is chairman; Mrs. J. Howard Heginbotham, reservations chairman.

THE PLEASANT VALLEY Parent - Teacher Association will hold a mother-daughter tea Tuesday, 7 p.m., in the West Novato School multi-purpose room. There will be a hat fashion show and entertainment will be by the Novato Rural Band.

ANIMAL AIDES of Marin will have a luncheon program Wednesday at the Marin Country Club in Novato. Speakers for the 12:30 p.m. event are Mrs. Elizabeth Deedy, secretary to the board of the College of Marin, and Ed Bettini. Mrs. Deedy will speak about scholarships for students interested in animal husbandry.

TRAVEL CLOTHES will be shown at "Ports of Call", the annual fashion show and luncheon held by the Women's Guild of St. Rita's Church in Fairfax, to take place this year at the Marin Country Club in Novato on Tuesday at 11 a.m.

Reservations chairmen are Mrs. Hayes Culpepper and Mrs. Leo Cronin. Proceeds are to be donated to the parish center building fund.

THE WOMEN'S SOCIETY of Christian Service of the Tamalpais Valley Methodist Church will have a rummage sale starting on Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at Kenny's Hall of the church located at Marin Avenue and Ash Street in Tamalpais Valley.

On Thursday and Friday hours will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Society president Mrs. Le Roy Post is in charge. Anyone wishing to donate items may call Mrs. Post for further information or pickup service.

THE SAUSALITO Yacht Club Women's Auxiliary will have a buffet luncheon and party on Wednesday with no-host cocktails at 11:30 a.m., luncheon at noon and games starting at 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Douglas Whitaker is chairman. Members and their guests may make up their own tables of bridge. Providing instruction in dominoes will be Mrs. Edward Murray, and cribbage will be taught by Mrs. S. C. Stapp.

Reservations chairmen are Mmes. James Doody, Otto Swenson and Mrs. Whitaker.

MEMBERS OF the Marin County Medical Receptionists and the Marin County Association of Medical Assistants will be the guests of the Center Medical Hospital Wednesday at a luncheon at the hospital in Kentfield.

Following the noon luncheon they will be given a tour of the hospital and have an opportunity to meet the staff.

MRS. ISABEL GILBERT, nurse, psychiatric aide and medical hypnotist, will speak at the meeting May 21 of the Marin YW-Wives. The author of the paperback book, "The Hypnotic I," Mrs. Gilbert will speak on "Self-hypnosis, a Tool For Releasing Tensions and Changing Behavior Patterns." Mrs. Gilbert works with patients who wish to quit smoking, lose weight or overcome other problems.

The meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. at the First Congregational Church, Santa Venetia.

The Retired Officers Wives Club will host A Day at the Races on Wednesday with a bus leaving from the north end of the Northgate shopping center at 10:15 a.m. Mrs. Charles Gillooly and Mrs. Paul Clinq-Mars are hostesses. Lunch will be at Golden Gate Field Turf Club.

HELEN VAN CLEAVE PARK will present the program for the reading section of the Community Church Club in Mill Valley at its meeting Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in the church parish hall.

Mrs. Park will talk on "Ladies of Marin." She has selected her subject from a book she is writing on the early history of the women of Marin.

An interior decorator, Mrs. Park has lived in Marin since 1937. She is vice president of the Marin County Historical Society and editor of its bulletin. She is assisting in research on a new history of Marin County which the historical society will publish.

MRS. KURT LEVI of Mill Valley has been elected president of the Mill Valley Cooperative Nursery School for the 1969-70 school year.

Elected to office with Mrs. Levi were Mmes. Herb Briggs of Mill Valley, vice president; Huey Johnson of Mill Valley, treasurer; Ronald Supinski of Mill Valley, secretary; Floyd Heckman of Mill Valley, membership chairman; Jim Scatena of Mill Valley; Jeppe Edens of Tiburon, council; and Mrs. Michael Durrie of Mill Valley, ways and means chairman.

Haneys Give Their Recipe For Continual Happiness

LAWNDALE (AP) — Oliver A. Haney cooks breakfast and his wife cleans up the kitchen. For dinner, they trade off the chores.

And there, say the Haneys, is their prescription for a happy marriage—helping each other. Haney, 92, and his wife, 88, have been married 70 years.

"Besides," says Haney, "I never wanted a divorce because I just haven't seen anybody I like better."

"I think women today demand too much," says Mrs. Haney. "Our life has not been easy. We've worked all our lives. We never had a lot of money, but we never bought anything on time either."

The Haneys, physically and mentally alert, have lived here for 17 years. Before that he alternated working on farms and oil fields in California and Oklahoma.

"We've probably moved more times than anybody in the United States," says Mrs. Haney. "In the old oil field days, whenever you got a promotion you moved into a new house. So if there were six promotions in a year, you moved six times."

But, she added, that didn't stop her from being a full-time mother to their five children: "I never remember ever leaving them with anybody. We took them with us to parties and on vacations. I can't see other people raising your kids."

Last year Mrs. Haney canned 64 quarts of apricot jam—from their own trees—because that's the only kind her husband likes. She also put up 50 quarts of homegrown tomatoes.

Classical Music Concert To Climax Year's Effort

By BARBARA HOSMER

Because a handful of Marin City women felt that the fine arts were being overlooked in their community and decided to do something about it, a series of cultural events and scholarships have been made available to Marin City people through the past five years.

Tomorrow the free concert of classical music by the Bach to Mozart group augmented by symphony and opera members at 8 p.m. at the Manzanita Center in Marin City is this year's culmination of efforts by the Marin Art and Culture Club, which was formed by the women in January, 1965.

"The Marin City kids were interested in sports and some kinds of music, but nothing really about the fine arts," explains club president Mrs. Alvin Bynum of Marin.

"Mrs. Beatrice Dukes, the founder and first president, had the idea and the club was started to promote interest in the arts for Marin City High School students. The club is a liaison between the school and the community to find students who would be interested in continuing study in fine arts fields," she said.

Each year the club has given a scholarship to a Tamalpais High School student from Marin City selected by the school committee. Recipients have been Gwen Brown, who studied piano at Dominican and now is married and continuing music studies in Germany; Mitchell Howard, a commercial artist who has exhibited at the Sausalito Arts Fair; Emma Price, a student in design at San Francisco State College; and Robert Shivers, a San Francisco State student who is a ceramics and art instructor for classes at the Southern Marin Boys Club.

The Marin Art and Culture Club scholarship for 1969 will be awarded in the next few weeks, made possible by funds raised from donations.

The club began and has continued sponsoring a single concert each May, beginning with a concert by vocalist Alma Banks Wells and George Dukes, pianist.

The club's first officers were Mmes. Dukes, Bynum, Lillian Hebert, Betty Times, Velma Patton and Elmese Bell.

The Art and Culture Club also sponsors the annual Negro History Week in Marin City each February. And it has committees for music, art, drama, photo and recording, social, and literary interests.

One of the most fun things the women members do is sponsor evening "trimnastics" classes twice a week through six weeks of the summer, for anyone interested.

"We meet people and have fun doing it," remarks Mrs. Bynum about the exercise sessions. Out of 32 enrolled last summer 28 were still coming by the end of the course, she said. Maude Wells and Billie Johnson were the volunteer instructors.

She stresses that the Art and Culture Club membership is open to all Marinites, and its patrons include many persons from throughout the Bay Area and persons active in the fine arts fields.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A new guide for press chairmen of organizations which are interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is now available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

SENIOR CITIZENS

Two Active Women Are Nominated

A Novato grandmother, who has compiled more than 2,000 hours of work as a hospital volunteer, and a Fairfax woman who served as founding secretary of the Fairfax Senior Citizens Association, are nominees for Marin County's Senior Citizen of the Year award.

Mrs. Tallitsch has served as president of the grandmothers club for two years nad as treasurer of the Sylvan Circle, Druids, for 15 years.

She is a past president of the Novato Volunteer Firemen's Auxiliary and has served as corresponding and recording secretary with the Novato Senior Citizens.

Besides, Mrs. Tallitsch has been a 4-H cooking leader and a member of the Open Door Society of the Presbyterian Church in Novato.

A native of Chicago, she has been a resident of Novato since 1952.

Nominee of the Fairfax Senior Citizens Association is Mrs. Leah Jarrett of 51 Park Road, Fairfax, a resident of Marin for 25 years.

Mrs. Jarrett, who retired from the Internal Revenue Service in 1958, has been active in several organizations.

She has served as treasurer of Marin Chapter 400, National Association of Retired Civil Employees, corresponding secretary of the Fairfax Women' Club, and historian of the Sequois Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

A founding member of the Fairfax Senior Association, Mrs. Jarrett is retiring president of Ladies Auxiliary of Marin Barracks 550, Veterans of World War I.

Mrs. Jarrett is a member of the American Association of Retired Persons, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Marin Senior Association, the Goldenaires, and the Marin Audubon Society.

Iturbi Resigns Orchestra Post In Canada City

The 73-year-old pianist-conductor, who accepted a three-year contract in 1968, asked to be released for personal reasons, officials said yesterday.

Philharmonic Society president Smiley Raborn Jr. said he accepted Iturbi's resignation "with deep regret." Raborn said the Philharmonic will have a number of guest conductors from whom a successor to Iturbi may be chosen.

An internationally acclaimed concert pianist, Iturbi began a second career as conductor in 1933.

He was principal conductor of the Rochester Philharmonic from 1936 to 1947.

Tiburon Rec Cash Asked For Youth

The Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission will ask the city to spend $900 on summer recreation programs for Tiburon Peninsula youngsters.

The commission, meeting Thursday night, allocated $300 to the Reed School District's kindergarten-eighth grade recreation program, $350 for a teen-age recreation program and $250 toward refurbishing the mermaid as a teen-age drop-in center.

All of these projects will be a cooperative effort with the City of Belvedere, according to Russell L. Melquist, assistant to the city manager.

The commission had allocated $1,000 in its 1969-70 budget proposal for summer recreation programs.

A group of Peninsula teenagers, headed by Rob Wayne, told the commission work on the ark, presently stored on Tiburon Peninsula Club property, would cost approximately $1,850, Melquist said.

The Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission Tuesay recommended that its council donate $200, and Thursday the county parks and recreation commission urged a $500 county donation toward the project.

Commissioners appointed commissionr Polly O. Smith to meet with Belvedere representative Wendy Buchen to work out guidelines for the organized teen-age program.

In addition, chairman George Ellman was directed to determine if any of Tiburon's contribution to the school district's program would be spent on Granada School children. If so, Ellman said he would urge the town of Corte Madera and Marin County to make some contribution toward the program.

The Reed School District has allocated $2,200 for the summer program with Belvedere and Tiburon each contributing $300.

The commission also named David H. Teather, T. G. Knight and George McKegney to develop criteria for the summer work program and Theater as the commission's representative on a subcommittee to study the need for a human rights commission miniboard in Tiburon.

Drivers Jailed

Gerald Anthony McMahon, 28, of 1133 Elm Drive, Novato, was ordered yesterday by Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court to spend two days in County Jail for drunken driving Thursday on Highway 101.

SPRING COMES TO LOCH NESS

Monster Hunters Throng Edge Of Lake To Catch Old 'Nessie'

DRUMNADROCHIT, Scotland (UPI)—Monster-hunters from all over the world travelled the high road to Scotland today in pursuit of the Loch Ness monster.

As the official hunting season opened, Nessie, who lurks deep in the murky waters of Loch Ness—Scotland's largest and most beautiful lake—was keeping out of sight.

For the past few days, monster-watchers — many of whom start a hunting day at the crack of dawn—have stood at the lake's edge and craned their necks in hopes of getting a peek at the elusive underwater creature whom Scots have decided is simply "shy."

'FEARSOME BEASTIE'

Some say Nessie is an overgrown sea-cow. Others think she is a long-necked seal. Centuries-old reports tell of a huge hunch-backed "fearsome beastie" with an eel-like neck and a mammoth head gliding serenely through the cold loch waters.

No one seems to know just what exactly Nessie is, but there isn't a Scot around Drumnadrochit who won't swear by his clan colors he's seen her.

"The Loch Ness monster is not heritage, not legend—it is fact," said William Bremmer, manager of the Drumnadrochit Hotel.

Bremmer, like many Scots, is as protective as a father if he thinks anyone is endangering Nessie's welfare.

SUB CRITICIZED

University of Chicago biochemist Roy Mackal, who leads a team of American scientists in the search each year, is bringing in a submarine next month to try and discover once and for all what is behind the legend.

Bremmer calls Mackal's project "That damned American submarine." Lord Lovat, chief of the Fraser Clan, simply claims it is sheer "bullying," and has said he will ask police to invoke special laws to protect the monster from being "molested."

Police don't know exactly what to do about Lord Lovat's request. "Now if it were a grouse, a hare, or a salmon, we could arrest people for poaching or attempting to kill the damned thing out of season," said a policeman. "But how can you have a law to protect a monster we don't even know exists?"

Mackal brought the wrath of many a local Scot down on himself last year when he armed his student volunteers with crossbows of the type which was forbidden by the Lateran Council of Europe in 1139 as "too murderous a weapon for Christians to employ."

The bows, which students never got a chance to use, were designed to fire hollow-tipped arrows into Nessie which could be pulled back filled with tissue for laboratory analysis.

Mackal's submarine will be used for the same purpose as the crossbow—to pluck a piece of skin about the size of a cigarette from Nessie's hide.

Romney Tells Housing Plans

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney says the federal government is preparing preliminary plans for a massive urban housing program to be implemented after the end of the Vietnam war.

The Republican cabinet member also took time in yesterday's speech before the San Francisco Commonwealth Club to defend the Safeguard antiballistic missile system. He called the system "an investment in a stable world of peace and order within which we can direct our resources and energies to meeting our challenges at home."

Romney said the views of local officials were being sought by Washington to be incorporated into the housing plan. "It's high time we got rid of the idea that Washington knows best," Romney said. There's just as much judgment and experience and ability at the state and local levels."

The former Michigan governor said the nation now has its "greatest housing shortage than at any other time in our history," but he added "if we can aggregate the housing market and thereby attract new investment and proven methods, we can build housing in the needed volume and reverse its soaring cost."

Romney said the Nixon Administration has made no decision as to how much money will be alloted to housing problems in peacetime. He added, however, that the "biggest single source of stimulating the economy is in the housing market."

Tenor To Present Dominican Concert

Dominican College Department of Music will present tenor Melvyn Poll, accompanied by Pianist Alden Gilchirst, in a public concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Angelico Hall on the San Rafael campus.

The program will include three songs by Verdi which are seldom performed; the Benjamin Britten song cycle "On This Island" and works by Haydn, Brahms and Mozart.

U.S. Cautioned Not To Be Over-Anxious In Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The United States should involve itself in Asian affairs only to the degree that the Pacific Basin nations ask for its help, according to a State Department official.

Under Secretary of State U. Alexis Johnson yesterday told a meeting of businessmen from several nations on the Pacific that the United States no longer will take the initiative in establishing political, economic and security arrangements in the Pacific. He said this policy change results from "a change in the mood of the American people."

"They will be cautious about undertaking new commitments," he said. "They are being somewhat impatient with carrying what many consider to be a disproportionate share of the burden of security and economic assistance abroad.

'PROPER QUESTION'

"They are asking more and more frequently what other countries are doing to help themselves and each other to share these burdens. It is a good and proper question."

His talk keynoted the second general meeting of the Pacific Basin Economic Cooperation Committee, which got its official start last May during a two-day meeting in Sydney, Australia.

Business leaders from Australia, Canada, Japan, New Zealand and the United States are gathered for discussions on how to strengthen economic and cultural ties among the five member countries.

Heading the committee is Shigeo Nagano, president of the Fuji Iron and Steel Co. of Japan. Other chairmen include Sir Edward Warren of Australia, A. Olaf Wolff of Canada, R. G. Speirs of New Zealand and Ransom M. Cook of the United States. All members of the group participate as private individuals.

The conference runs through the weekend.

TRADE CITED

Dr. Weldon B. Gibson of Stanford Research Institute, director of the San Francisco meeting, pointed out that its significance "can be easily seen when one realizes that between 1962 and 1967 trade among the five member nations increased from $26 billion a year to $48 billion a year. Today, about 43 per cent of their total trade is with each other.

"This situation calls for a concerted effort to improve those ties which can contribute to the economic development of the entire region."

Song Festival For Boys Club

A festival of song, culminating a mongh long fund-raising campaign in Southern Marin churches benefitting the Boys Club of Southern Marin will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

The concert will feature performances by individuals and groups and community singing. Highlighting the concert will be the George Duke Trio and Duke's singing group, the Ninth Wave.

Song leader will be the Rev. Fred Small of Marin City.

The first telephone talk, New York to San Francisco, was on Jan. 25, 1915, by Alexander Graham Bell and Thomas A. Watson.

Lou Grant draws "SMALL WORLD"
. . . now in the I-J

Lou Grant, nationally famous editorial cartoonist, is the author-artist of this new capsule cartoon, now appearing in the Independent-Journal. The new feature will mirror the vital issues of the day in a nutshell — a one-column nutshell, that is.

Grant has received 24 national cartooning awards. Five times running he has won the Freedoms Foundation Gold Medal. He is a winner of the "Brotherhood Award" of the National Conference of Christians and Jews four years in a row; winner of the Los Angeles Newspaper Publishers top award for the best cartoon on Freedom of the Press. Look for his new "mini-cartoon" in the I-J. "Small World," with a big wallop.

Hearing Set In Fatal Wreck

Michael Roth, 21, of Fairfax, will appear in Sonoma County Superior Court on Wednesday for possible sentencing on a manslaughter charge.

The charge against Roth, who changed his innocent plea to guilty, stems from the March 15 death of Mrs. Margaret McIntrye, 45, of Petaluma, in an auto accident on the Petaluma-Tomales Road.

The California Highway Patrol said the car driven by Roth entered a curve too fast and struck the car in which Mrs. McIntrye was a passenger. An additional charge of felony drunken driving was dropped at the time of change of plea.

Tires Stolen

Employees of Elmer J. Freethy Co., the contractor working on the flood control project near the College of Marin, has reported that three tires and wheels were stolen from a truck. They were valued at $200, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Mill Valley Library Wins Another Honor

The Mill Valley Public Library has been named one of the 16 winners of the 1969 Honor Awards given by the American Institute of Architects.

The 16 were chosen from among 456 nationwide entries.

The nine-man AIA jury said of the building, finished in 1966 at a cost of $493,000: "Sited among the redwoods, the preservation of which was a condition of its design, the library is appealing and inviting from any point of view."

Designer of the library was Donn Emmons of the Mill Valley firm of Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons.

Long Trail To U.S. Citizenship

An Austrian farm boy who had dreamed of being a veterinarian since he was a child, and the daughter of one of the few Jewish families who never left Jerusalem are among Marin's newest citizens.

Dr. Gideon Yehuda Sorokin and his wife, Esther, met while both were serving in the intelligence section of the Israeli Army—she as his secretary.

Dr. Sorokin was naturalized last month in U. S. District Court in San Francisco and his wife became a citizen Tuesday.

He had been a citizen of Israel, the country his family chose when they fled German occupation of their native Vienna, Austria, in 1938.

After their army service and marriage, the couple went to Italy where she studied singing and he became a veterinarian. He then practiced in Israel for five years, and his wife, a lyric soprano, performed in Italy, Cypress, France and England.

His major interest, however, was in small animal surgery and in 1961 the couple moved to Zurich, Switzerland, where he became a graduate assistant in his chosen field.

When that year ended, the Sorokins came to the United States — attracted by the economic and professional possibilities available to veterinarians.

The family was sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture because Sorokin agreed to work for it at a time when "they were desperate for veterinarians."

During the four-year period he was with the department, he also taught at the University of Auburn in Alabama, and did graduate work; moved to Montana, New York, and finally, California.

"I think no other government in the world would do something like that," he said as he spoke of the advantages offered him by the agriculture department.

Sorokin, who still has a farm in Israel, is devoted to the profession he chose as a child.

"I think the happiness of a man depends on his profession, his family and his health," he said, recalling a short period of time in which he was unable to practice. "I was very unhappy then. I didn't know what to do with myself," he said.

His wife has continued her singing career, appearing throughout the country, and locally, on television and radio. She sings folk songs, semi-classical and classical music.

Her professional name is Zohara, Hebrew for glittering.

The couple has three daughters, Dafna, Orna and Lisa Tamar. Dafna, who will graduate from Terra Linda High School this year, will leave June 17 for Europe and Israel, a trip she will finance with money she has saved by clipping and caring for dogs, her father reported proudly.

Besides their professional activities, Dr. and Mrs. Sorokin, of 427 Hibiscus Way, San Rafael, have appeared before several Marin groups to lecture on Mid-East politics and are also active in the Marin Jewish Community Center.

Other Marin and Southern Sonoma residents naturalized last month were:

San Rafael: Mrs. Audrey Gordon of 1825 Lincoln Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gottlieb of 105 C Street; Mrs. Jill Frances Guppy of 2 Gilbert Street; Eva Maria O'Doul of 68 Merrydale Road; Mrs. Frank Flores Ventura of 102 Merrydale Road;

San Anselmo: Apollonia Luise Pritchett of 32 Agatha Court; Olivia Eugenia Savant of 24 Cypress Road; Mr. and Mrs. Hanns Czermak of 31 Longview Avenue;

Greenbrae: Albert Lucas of 87 Paseo Way;

County Farm Officials Oppose Ban On DDT

KELSEYVILLE, Calif. (UPI)—A State Senate bill to outlaw the bug killer DDT and other pesticides in California has drawn opposition from county agricultural commissioners.

At its annual meeting yesterday the State Association of County Agricultural Commissioners unanimously adopted two resolutions stating it opposed the bill and favored the continued use of agricultural chemicals on the condition they were properly regulated.

County commissioners have the job of regulating use of pesticides under the supervision of the State Agriculture Department.

Copies of the measures will be sent to State Agriculture Director Jerry W. Fielder and the Senate Agriculture Committee.

The bill by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, specifically bans the sale, possession and use of DDT and other pesticides which fail to break down after application.

Conservationists and others have warned that DDT and other pesticides threaten humans and fish and wildlife.

Earlier in the week Fielder told the commissioners the use of DDT "is on its way out and it is only a question of how and when."

Poll Will Open In Sleepy Hollow

The Sleepy Hollow Homes Association's pool will be open for the three-day Memorial Day weekend, it was announced at the association's meeting Thursday.

Plans for the summer youth recreation program will be set at the directors' next meeting at 8 p.m. on June 5 in the clubhouse, reported vice president Merritt A. Robinson.

The directors studied, but took no action on a proposal that the county's slope ordinance governing hillside residential development be extended to include Sleepy Hollow lots up to on acre.

Farm Bureau Asks Freeze On Poison

LOS ANGELES (AP) —California Farm Bureau President Allan Grant says his organization, representing 60,000 farm families, wants an immediate one-year moratorium on the use of the pesticide DDT.

Grant told newsmen yesterday the bureau's executive board voted on the ban earlier this week. On Thursday, State Agriculture Director Jerry W. Fielder said, "We who regulate the use of pesticides in California must take an active role here as to protect agriculture, everybody's food supply and our environment as well."

Conservationists backing a bill before the state legislature say DDT is contaminating parts of the environment. The bill would ban the pesticide in California.

Talks Cancelled On Food Stamps

Regularly scheduled public briefings on the county food stamp program have been canceled because of poor attendance.

"It isn't economical to continue the Monday briefings," said Joseph Phelps, management analyst for the department of public social services.

Hereafter, briefings will be given only when a city or civic group asks for it.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

One in six persons dying as a result of an auto accident has a ruptured aorta. The victim sustains a crushing chest injury involving this main artery that carries blood from the heart to the rest of the body.

Death occurs immediately if the injury produces a large hole in the vessel. This, however, does not always happen.

THE AORTIC WALL is thick and composed of three distinct layers. A small tear on the inside of the vessel may allow blood to escape between layers. The artery balloons out (aneurysm) slowly and several hours may elapse before the wall ruptures.

Diagnosis is not difficult and the victim's life might be saved if he gets to a hospital or clinic where the facilities and equipment for chest and vascular surgery are available. The damaged aorta must be reconstructed and in many instances a plastic graft is needed.

Injuries of the extremities may also involve the blood vessels. When main arteries are damaged, gangrene and infection may ensue.

An exploratory operation usually is advised when the extremity is pale and cool, and there is loss of sensation. The lack of a pulse in the wrist or ankle may also mean that the circulation is cut off.

AN ARTERIAL GRAFT may save the limb provided the procedure is done within 6 hours. The large vessel that has been severed with a knife or penetrating object is sewn together, usually with good results.

In severe limb damage, the surgeon must decide whether to amputate or try to rejoin all the parts. Often, amputation followed by the use of a well-fitting prosthesis is best.

MOST SURGEONS try to save the limb when they believe the final result will be a serviceable extremity. There are instances in which a totally separated limb was reattached via careful surgical technic.

But in the majority, the end result is all for naught when the extremity cannot be moved because the nerves failed to regenerate.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

MUMPS IN ONE JAW

S. D. writes: In mumps, if swelling occurs in only one jaw, can the child get mumps on the other side at a later date?

REPLY

Yes, provided it occurs within 14 days. The other jaw usually becomes involved during the course of the attack. This is not a new infection but represents spread from one gland to another. Immunity develops after the disease has subsided. Conversely, other organisms besides mumps viruses may attack the parotid glands at a later date, causing a mumpslike swelling. This condition should not be interpreted as mumps.

LEGS IN REVOLT IN 80s

W. R. L. writes: I am a young fellow in my 86th year on terra firma. Until 2 years ago, I never required the services of a physician. Then my legs began to revolt, refusing to heed the brain impulses to walk straight ahead. One leg wants to go west, the other east. This condition, which seems to be worsening, has me worried. What must I do to obtain normal action?

REPLY

Methinks you need something to improve that circulation. There are several products that might prove helpful.

TUBERCULAR EYELID

A reader writes: Can tuberculosis affect the eyelids?

REPLY

Yes, but this form of tuberculosis is rare in the United States.

THREAT TO SOUTH

When today's hand was played, South was threatened by the loss of a diamond, two hearts and a trump. He managed to lose all of them.

South took the ace of diamonds and led out the ace and king of spades in the hope of dropping the queen. When he had no luck, South took the top clubs and ruffed a club.

West shrewdly refused to overruff, and now South could get to dummy with the ace of hearts to ruff another club but then couldn't get back to dummy to cash the last club. Down one.

SHOULD USE FORCE

If West had overruffed declarer on the third round of clubs, dummy's nine of spades would have become an additional entry; but South didn't have to rely on an error to get this trump entry to dummy. After winning the ace of diamonds, South leads a club to dummy's king, a trump to the ace, a club to the ace, and then ruffs a club with the jack of spades.

West refuses to overruff, but now South creates an entry to dummy by force: he leads the deuce of spades.

QUEEN TAKE

West must take the queen of spades, can cash one diamond and can then lead a heart to dummy's ace. Declarer ruffs another club with a high trump and leads the five of spades to dummy's nine. This draws the last trump and permits declarer to cash dummy's last club, assuring the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ 9 8 3

♣ A K 5 3 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER:

Bid one club.

You have 11 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton, barely enough for an optional opening bid. You decide to bid rather than to pass because you have A-K in one suit and ace in another — an especially fine high-card holding.

Egypt Plans To Fix The Shaky Pyramids

CAIRO (UPI) — Some of Egypt's most famous monuments will soon get much-needed facelifts.

A project for restoration of sections of the Sphinx and of the Cheops Pyramids near here has been started by the government's archaeological department. Officials said parts of these monuments are near collapse.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, May 17, the 137th day of 1969 with 228 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1875 the first Kentucky Derby was run at Churchill Downs in Louisville and was won by a horse named Aristides.

In 1954, in a unanimous decision, the Supreme Court ruled racial segregation in public schools unconstitutional.

In 1968 an estimated 100,000 strikers occupied dozens of French factories as turmoil in that country went into its fifth day.

A thought for the day: Bernard de Voto said, "Pessimism is only the name that men of weak nerves give to wisdom."

Prescriptions And Addiction Linked

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Excessive prescription of drugs by physicians is a major cause of drug addiction, according to the chief psychiatrist of a Baltimore area private psychiatric hospital.

Dr. James Drinkard of Sheppard Pratt Hospital, in recent testimony to a State Senate Committee, said prescription of drugs by doctors is increasing at a dangerous rate and can be corrected only by strict adherence to American Medical Association guidelines.

AT BAPTIST SEMINARY

Urban Institute Monday

"The Strategy of the Christian Mission in Urban America," will be the theme of the second annual Urban Church Institute beginning at 7 p.m. Monday at the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Strawberry.

Registration for the 11-day institute which will run through May 30 is still open at the seminary, according to Dr. Francis M. DuBose, institute director.

Three featured lecturers will be Dr. Edward V. Hill, pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church, Los Angeles; Dr. Robert Lee, professor of Christian Social Ethics and director of the Institute of Ethics and Society at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, and Dr. Ivan Vallier, research sociologist and associate director of the Institute of International Studies at the University of California, Berkeley.

From the seminary speakers will include President Harold K. Graves, Dr. Richard B. Cunningham, professor of systematic theology and philosophy; Dr. Roger Skelton, professor of religious education; Dr. J. Lyn Elder, professor of pastoral care, and Dr. DuBose.

Also speaking will be Southern Baptist denominational leaders J. N. Evans, secretary of the Department of Metropolitan Missions; Dr. Harold Lindsey, associate director of the Division of Evangelism; Dr. Gerald Palmer, secretary of the Department of Language Missions, and Dr. Victor Glass, secretary of the Department of Work With National Baptists.

Other denominational personnel speaking will include Mrs. Noble Y. Beall, Baptist centers consultant with the Department of Christian Social Ministries; Dr. Ed Seabough, associate secretary of the Department of Missionary Personnel, and Dr. Richard Estes, secretary of the Department of Work With Non-Evangelicals.

California convention leaders at the institute will be Dr. Robert D. Hughes, executive secretary-treasurer; Dr. Ralph E. Longshore, assistant executive secretary and director of the Division of Missions, and Jack O'Neal, director of Work With National Baptists.

Two hours of seminary credit will be given to those completing the course.

Covenant Church Sets Dinner, Drama Night

Highlight of the spring season at the Marin Covenant Church will be an evening of dinner and drama, thematically entitled "The Mask and the Cross," to be held on Sunday, June 1, at 6:30 p.m., in the Marinwood Community Center, Lucas Valley and Miller Creek roads.

Following the buffet dinner, the Covenant Players of Encino will present selections of contemporary Christian drama. The founder, writer, and director of the Covenant Players is Charles Tanner, a member of the Hollywood Screen Producers' Guild. The group has no direct relationship, however, with the Covenant Church, despite its name similarity.

The Covenant Players was founded in 1963 as a group dealing exclusively with contemporary drama concerned with the human condition. Today they have a traveling company of over 80 players and have given over 90,000 performances in the United States. Each of their plays, whether brief of lengthy, is designed to relate historic Christian fatih to current life situations.

REV. BUEL L. LIMING
To lead conference

Church Plans Conference On The Bible

An eight-day Bible conference will begin at Calvary Baptist Church, Larkspur, with an evening session Wednesday.

The daily 7:30 p.m. meetings will be augmented by an 11 a.m. session Sunday, May 25.

Rev. Buel L. Liming of Cornelius, Ore., author of several pamphlets, Bible charts and booklets, will be the speaker for the conference.

Liming, who employs magic and a ventriloquist's dummy in his lessons for children, will use illustrated wall charts to emphasize his message to persons attending the conference. Smaller charts, notes and outlines also will be available.

The theme for the conference is "The Life and Ministry of Jesus Christ," as recorded in the Gospels. Rev. Liming plans to give special attention to Christ's death and resurrection and the meaning those events hold for persons living in 1969.

Marinite Attending National Assembly

Mrs. Mack Page of St. Andrew Presbyterian Church is currently attending the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, USA, in San Antonio, Tex., as a delegate from the Synod of the Golden Gate.

Mrs. Page, originally an alternate, replaced a delegate from the Mendocino Presbytery who could not attend.

Special Course In Christian Ethics Is Set

Dr. T. B. Maston, retired professor of Christian ethics at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Tex., will be the guest lecturer in a special course in Christian ethics July 14-25 at the Golden Gate Baptist Theolocical Seminary in Strawberry.

Registration for the summer school course will be from 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m. Monday, June 16 and July 14 in the registrar's office at the seminary.

Dr. Matson received his doctorate in philosophy from Yale University and taught at Southwestern Seminary from 1922 to 1963. He is the author of 11 books on Christian ethics and related subjects.

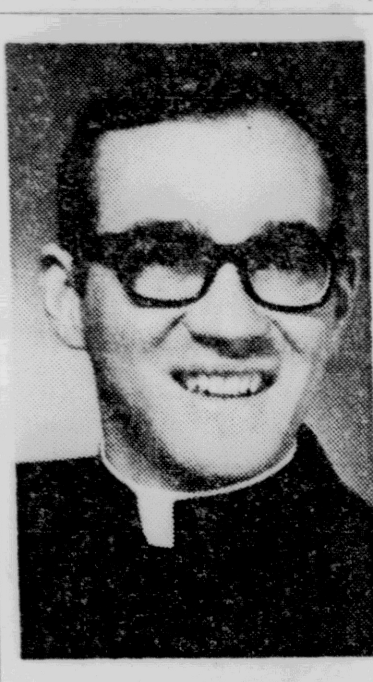
Tiburon Parish Sets Baseball Game Day

A trip to the San Francisco Giants-Pittsburgh Pirates baseball game with dinner following at the parish hall will be held May 24 for the men of St. Hilary's Catholic Church in Tiburon.

Transportation to Candlestick Park will leave the church at noon. The trip is sponsored by the lectors, ushers and finance committee of the church. Further information is available from Alexander Agagan, Donald McEntee, or J. B. McGuire.

Guest Speaker

Chaplain Ralph Bronkema of Hamilton Air Force Base will speak at the 11 a.m. worship service tomorrow at Bethel Baptist Church in Novato.



REV. DENNIS J. STEIK

Minister To Be Installed

Rev. Donald M. Rayment will be formally installed as pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Novato at the church at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Rayment will be installed by a committee of the Presbytery of the Redwoods consisting of Rev. Willard Fredericksen, pastor of the San Geronimo Valley United Presbyterian Church; Rev. James Upshaw of the Christ Presbyterian Church of Terra Linda, also Rev. David Esler, professor at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo; Rev. Ralph Bolin of Napa; elder Robert Hall of the Novato church, and elder Thomas Matthews from Lafayette-Orinda Community Presbyterian Church.

An informal reception will follow the installation service.

Church Crusade In Congo Capital

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — Kinshasa, capital of the African Republic of Congo, will be flooded with evangelistic literature prepared by Light-for-the-Lost, the literature missions program of the Assemblies of God.

The foreign missions department of the 8,500-church denomonation has appointed veteran missionary William Lovick to establish an evangelistic center in Kinshasa. Present plans call for conducting a series of "Good News Crusades" in the area as an initial effort.

The literature will be distributed before, during and after the crusades.

Baha'i Open House

Members of the Bahai's Faith in Marin County will observe the 125th anniversary of the faith with an open house Thursday, at 8 p.m. at 248 Mount Shasta, Lucas Valley.

Mission Sets First Ever Ordination

Rev. Dennis J. Steik, S.M., will be ordained a Roman Catholic priest next Sunday at St. Raphael's Church in the first ordination rite ever held at the mission parish in San Rafael.

Steik, 26, of Bellflower, will be ordained into the Marist Order by Most Rev. Thomas J. Wade, a former missionary in the Solomon Islands.

Ronald S. Exley, S.M., of San Francisco, will be ordained a deacon of the church during the same ceremony, scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

Father Steik will say his first concelebrated mass of Thanksgiving June 8 at his home parish, St. Bernard, in Bellflower. Exley will assist as deacon and Rev. William J. Dunn, Marist vocation director, and Rev. Thomas J. F. Ryan, a seminary classmate, will be co-celebrants.

Steik entered St. Peter Chanel Seminary, Philadelphia, in 1956. After six years in the minor seminary he began his novitiate year at Rhinebeck, N.Y.

He was graduated from the University of San Deigo in 1965 with a bachelor of arts degree in philosophy. He has also studied at the Catholic University of America, the University of San Francisco and Dominican College, San Rafael, during summers.

During the past year he worked as a deacon at a Catholic parish in Alexandria, Va., concentrating mainly on duties with teen-agers and adult discussion groups.

Minister Looks Back At 50 Years' Work

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) The insights one minister gained from nearly 50 years in training seminarians are given in a new book, "In Quest of a Ministry," by Julian Price Love (John Knox Press).

Dr. Love sees a great variety among students for the ministry — "naturals" and a few "flat failures." But he finds an underlying unity among them and concludes that "the great majority of these men are an honor to the work of the kingdom."

Marriage Survey

THE HAGUE (UPI) — Official statistics show that 13.2 per cent of Dutch Catholics entering marriage do so with a non-Catholic partner. In nearly 50 per cent of these cases, the partner does not belong to any church.

PENTECOSTALS

No-Frills Church Making Big Gains

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

They are sometimes referred to derisively as "Holy Rollers." The polite name is Pentecostals.

No one knows exactly how many there are in America, but the total is well over 2 million. And the Pentecostal movement is growing much faster than any of the mainstream Protestant bodies.

There are 22 organized Pentecostal denominations, ranging in size from the Assemblies of God with more than 500,000 members to the Pentacostal Fire-Baptised Holiness Church, which has only about 500 members.

OTHER BRANCHES

There also are thousands of local Pentacostal congregations that are not affiliated with any denomination. Many of them include in their names such cluewords as "Holiness" or "Full Gospel." Although they are found in all 50 states, their heaviest concentration is in the South, the West and the Midwest.

It's rare to find a Pentecostal congregation housed in the costly kind of church building which other Protestant bodies seem to consider essential to corporate Christian witness.

The typical Pentecostal church is a simple frame building or rented store-front. The latter type, particularly, abounds in inner city areas which have been largely abandoned by older communions.

CHURCH OF POOR

The Pentacostal movement has become modern America's "church of the poor," which is one reason why it's growing so rapidly.

Pentecostalism developed out of the great wave of religious revivals that swept through the United States near the turn of this century. Its early adherents came mainly from Baptist and Methodist backgrounds, and it still draws many converts from these communions.

The name of the movement is taken from the Day of Pentecost—the occasion described in the second chapter of the Book of Acts on which the disciples were "filled with the Holy Spirit" and found themselves able to speak and understand many strange languages which they had never learned.

Pentecostals hold that this ecstatic experience—with they refer to as "fire baptism," "baptism of the spirit," or simply "the second baptism"—is still available to true believers, and that it is the sign and hallmark of authentic Christian conversion.

They also believe that modern Christians who are filled with the spirit can become, like the first apostles, channels for divine healing of the sick.

NEW LOOK

For a long time, "tongue speaking" and spiritual healing were regarded in most mainstream churches as a peculiar aberration of the Pentecostals. But in recent years, there has been a "charismatic revival" in many of the old-line denominations. Today, speaking in tongues and other external manifestations of "spirit baptism" may be encountered among small but dedicated groups of Lutherans, Roman Catholics, Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Methodists and Baptists. Pentecostal groups also flourish at Yale, Princeton, Michigan State, Iowa State, Notre Dame, Holy Cross and numerous other colleges.

However, tongue-speaking still has outspoken critics—as it has since the time of St. Paul, whose rather dim view of the phenomenon is expressed in the 14th Chapter of I Corinthians. The principal criticism, now as in Paul's time, is that it is more conducive to excessive emotionalism than to the edification of non-belivers.

Pentecostals would be the first to acknowledge that their worship services are distinguished by a free expression of feelings and uninhibited exuberance not often encountered in other Protestant churches. Pentecostals at worship shout, clap hands, sing, march, and fall to the floor in trances. It was the latter which gave rise to the nickname, "Holy Rollers."

Although there are some variations in doctrine from one Pentecostal group to another, they are all ultra-fundamentalist in orientation. They hold that the Bible is "verbally infallible," and are inclined to read it literally.

They practice two "ordinances (not sacraments)—baptism and the Lord's Supper. The latter often is accompanied by foot-washing. Some Pentecostal bodies are pacifist, opposing all war on the basis of Jesus' statements about non-resistance to evil and turning the other cheek.

WESLEY DOCTRINE

In common with certain non-Pentecostal bodies such as the Church of the Nazarene, they place great emphasis on John Wesley's doctrine of "entire sanctification." This doctrine teaches that the Holy Spirit achieves such a purifying of the hearts and motives of real "twice-born" Christians that they are freed from their natural proclivity toward sin and are rendered capable of perfect holiness, here and now in this earthly life.

This teaching is, of course, sharply contrary to Martin Luther's view of the human condition, which may explain why Pentecostalism has never had a strong attraction for persons of Lutheran background.

In striving for holiness, many Pentecostals are extremely austere in their personal habits. They disapprove of drinking, smoking, dancing, card-playing and any kind of "frivolity" (even reading a newspaper) on the sabbath.

EVANGELISTIC DRIVE

One of the most admirable things about Pentecostals is the enormous amount of effort they put into evangelism, both at home and abroad. The Assemblies of God, for example, have a special concern for the spiritual needs of prisoners. They conduct worship services, supply Bibles and other literature, and provide trained counselors for federal, state, county and city prisons across the nation.

They also support nearly 900 foreign missionaries in 75 countries at a cost of more than $11 million a year—an expenditure of money and manpower for missions that should shame many denominations five or six times as large.

Novato Church Sets Missionary Sessions

Bethel Baptist Church of Novato will hold a three-day missionary conference, "Witnessing to the World," beginning next Friday.

The conference will feature presentations by several missionaries, including Dr. Gordon R. Lahrson, missionary from the American Baptist Convention in Valley Forge, Pa., and regional representative for Europe for the American Baptist Foreign Mission Societies.

Other speakers will include Dorothy Helman and Donna Marie Becker of the Campus Crusade, John Starsh, a missionary pilot-mechanic serving in the Congo for the Missionary Aviation Fellowship of Fullerton, and James Bowman, station manager of radio KGEI, Far East Broadcasting Co. of Belmont.

Strash will speak at the conference's first session at Bethel at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Bowman will speak at 6 p.m. Saturday; Lahrson will conduct the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday and Misses Helman and Becker will speak at the closing prgram at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

A brunch for the youth of the church will be held from 10 a.m. Saturday at the Philip Dickinson home at 716 Plaza Del Mar.

Friendship Day Luncheon Is Set

The First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael will join in a Friendship Day tomorrow with the Ingleside Presbyterian Church of San Francisco. The public is invited to attend.

A smorgasboard luncheon at the San Rafael church will begin at noon, followed by a program of entertainment featuring members of both congregations.

Donations will be accepted for a Friendship Fund, which is to be used to finance a summer day camp for children operated by the San Francisco church.

Biafran Program

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lutheran World Relief, overseas material aid agency, has earmarked $250,000 for relief and rehabilitation projects in Nigeria-Biafra in the remaining months of the year. The appropriation brings to $450,000 the total allocated for programs in Nigeria-Biafra by the agency during the past five months.

First Ecumenical Session Is Held

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 14-member committee which is studying the possibility of Roman Catholic membership in the National Council of Churches has held its first meeting. Protestant and Catholic leaders indicated they were pleased with the results.

A council spokesman said the committee, appointed last year by the National Council's Executive Committee and the U.S. Catholic Bishops' Committee for Ecumenical and Interreligious Affairs, would limit itself to studying the question, and would not present a plan for membership.

Youth Unrest And Religion

NEW YORK (UPI)—Student unrest around the world has "religious overtones" which merit the concern of Christian educators, says a statement issued at a meeting of Lutheran education specialists in Geneva, Switzerland.

The Lutheran Council (USA) reports the attending churchmen urged the church to "declare its readiness for forthright dialogue with youth on their real questions. The statement added:

"The present generation of youth in its protest activities seems at times to be asking for an authentic Christianity, expressing a religious concern and looking for something that corresponds to what we proclaim."

Development Aid

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—During its executive committee meeting, the World Council of Churches reported members in Canada and Europe have set aside more than $10 million to be used for development in the world's emerging nations. The WCC reports that more member churches are expected to follow suit.

. . . while it is day
Every honest task done in the spirit of helpfulness for someone's need can be a tribute to, and a gift from, the Living Christ. Faith in Jesus Christ motivates many people to unselfish dedication and service. Of such is the Church.
The world needs more disciples whose lives are carved out of sacrifice and love. Christ did it best. Rapt attention to Him could change the world.

Redwood Captures Division Track Title

Redwood High School, with a little help from its friends, became the first Marin County Athletic League school to win the Division II Track and Field meet yesterday, besting a strong Vallejo entry at Santa Rosa Junior College.

The Giants piled up 41 points, to edge Vallejo which wound up in second with 35 points.

San Rafael's strong B team, paced by triple winner Dennis Silva, took the Class B title with 39 points, ahead of Santa Rosa's runnerup 21 points. Tamalpais, the MCAL meet champ, was third with 19, same as Napa and Terra Linda. Montgomery was next with 16, followed by Piner with 15 and Hogan Redwood with 14 points.

Montgomery of Santa Rosa was third in the varsity competition with 29 points, followed by Hogan with 22, Tamalpais with 21½, Drake with 10½, Novato with 10, Ukiah with seven and Terra Linda with six.

The meet comprised schools from the Golden Gate Bridge to the Oregon border.

Brian Hicks, who barely made it into the division meet on a jumpoff, won the pole vault with a 13-4 vault, bettering his own best jump of 13-3 and tying the school record and all-time county mark set by Collie Janda in 1964. Rick Earhart of Drake was third at 13-0 and MCAL champ Mark Jones of Terra Linda was third at 12-9.

The Giants got a big boost in the 880 where Todd Norris turned in a best ever time of 1:58.2 to win and Rob Williams, who almost missed the division, finished second on a clutch 1:59.4.

Luther Brown of Tamalpais helped out heavily, winning the 125-yard high hurdles in a hot 14.7 in an event considered a Vallejo strong mark.

Brown also won the 220 in a beautiful 22.3 to become the league's only double winner.

Phil Russell won the two-mile in 9:51.6 to give the Giants another boost and they needed it after Vallejo went one-two-three in the low hurdles.

Mark Lewis of Marin Catholic, who finished second in the league meet, won the high jump with a 6-0 effort.

Jim Upchurch, Vallejo's fabled halfback, won the 100 in ten flat, just an eyelash ahead of Phil Emswiler of Novato, who also turned in a ten flat.

Redwood.'s mile relay team didn't win but helped create the hottest race of the day as Norris almost pulled it out on the last leg with a fantastic 48.5 split, which didn't quite catch Vallejo. Vallejo won in a super meet record of 3:22.2 but Redwood as second at 3:22.4, four seconds faster than it's season best of 3:26.0.

Dave Stancliffe of Drake won the mile, reversing the league finish by beating MCAL meet champ Matt Bowen of Tamalpais with a 4:28.3 finish. Bowen was second at 4:28.7.

Silva won the 70 high hurdles in 8.8, the 180 lows in 20.5 and the long jump in 21-2½, duplicating his triple win effort of the MCAL meet.

Ron Elijah of Novato upset Tam's Mike Arago in the two mile, winning in 10:06 while Arago, the league champ, finished second. Dick Stoltz of Redwood won the 880 in 2:04.0 while Dave Moore of Terra Linda took the 100 in 10.4. Rich Tierney of Drake took the 220, just ahead of Moore. Dave Waxman of San Rafael won the discus in 115-7 while Steve Hall of Redwood won the shot with a 47-3 toss.

Stu Hotuling of Petaluma won the mile in 4:34.0 and Rick Lewis of Terra Linda won the B pole vault on an 11-6 vault.

Official Scoring Can Be A Challenge Sometimes

PHILADELPHIA — When pitchers are changed during an inning, the relief pitcher shall not be charged with any run scored by a runner who was on base at the time he entered the game.

The corollary sounds complicated. An example clarifies it: P1 walks A. P 2 relieves P1 and B forces A. C triples, B scoring. Charge run scored by B to P1.

The intent of the basic rule and its corollary is to charge each pitcher with the number of runners he puts on base, not individual runners.

Exceptions To The Rules

There are equitable exceptions to the rule and corollary. A preceding pitcher is absolved of responsibility if the runners he left on base are put out independent of action by a batter facing the relief pitcher. That sounds like double talk but means a pitcher's responsibility for a runner ends if the runner is caught stealing or picked off base.

It would seem that the basic rule, corollary and exceptions covered all possible situations. Don't you believe it. The official scorer in the series opener between the Giants and Pirates at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh Monday night was faced with a situation in which he didn't know whether Gaylord Perry or Joe Gibson should be charged with the defeat.

Then In Comes Gibbon

The score was tied 3-3 in the ninth with one out when Manny Sanguillen doubled. Perry then was relieved by Gibbon. Rookie Richie Hebner singled to right. Sanguillen was out at the plate on a perfect throw by Ken Henderson to Jack Hiatt. Hebner went to second on the throw.

The official scorer originally charged the defeat to Perry. Then he changed his decision and charged it to Gibbon. But the scorer frankly stated he wasn't sure Gibbon should get the defeat because Hebner wouldn't have reached second base except for the plate play on Sanguillen. And Hebner never could have scored from first on Oliver's single.

It Was A Mandatory Play

The play at the plate on Sanguillen wasn't any fielder's choice. It was a mandatory play. The game would have been over if it had not been successful.

What happened while it was being made was incidental, i.e., Hebner's taking second on the throw. And the subsequent walk to Stargell, intentional or not, became academic.

The scorer reached a proper decision, a common sense one, by charging Gibbon with the defeat.

Heavy Artillery In Prep Baseball

The Marin County Athletic League baseball war is technically over, but they're still firing big artillery in minor skirmishes.

In yesterday's games, Novato, have wrapped up the title last Tuesday, took time out to bumble and stumble to a 10-5 loss to runnerup Terra Linda.

Surprising first-year entry San Marin clinched at least a tie for third place by humbling Tamalpais, 9-0. And Marin Catholic and Redwood moved over for company in the cellar, the Wildcats edging Drake, 7-6 and the Giants finally unwinding for a 17-0 thrashing of San Rafael. All four teams have 5-8 records with one game left.

EIGHT ERRORS

Eight Novato errors helped Mike Timmel earn an imperfect 11-hit victory over the Hornets while Terra Linda socked it to Steve McNally for 11 hits, three by Bob Nadell.

San Marin got an outstanding two-hit pitching performance out of Dennis Bueler, who registered the first win by a Mustang pitcher other than Steve Francis.

Meanwhile, the usually light-hitting Mustangs lashed out for 13 hits, three each by Clark Jamison of the Pirates Chuck Jacobson and Bruce Holberg.

Redwood erupted for 16 hits in breaking a long lean spell of non-hitting while pitcher Roger Smith twirled a masterful two-hitter. Rafael Gallardo got both hits for the Bulldogs.

Rick Denning and Steve Olson of Marin Catholic and Bob Sutherland of Drake hit homers and

Only One Outcome In Softball Play

Three games were scheduled yesterday in San Rafael Recreation Department softball play but only one had a solid outcome.

Brandon Tire topped Trailboat, 6-3, but in the other two games, Perry's Delictessen and Salts played to a 9-9 tie and Wright's Richfield won a forfeit decision over Timmer Realty.

Ladies Handicap Golf Meet Over

The Marin Country Club Women's Golf Club wound up its spring handicap tournament yesterday in Novato.

The results:

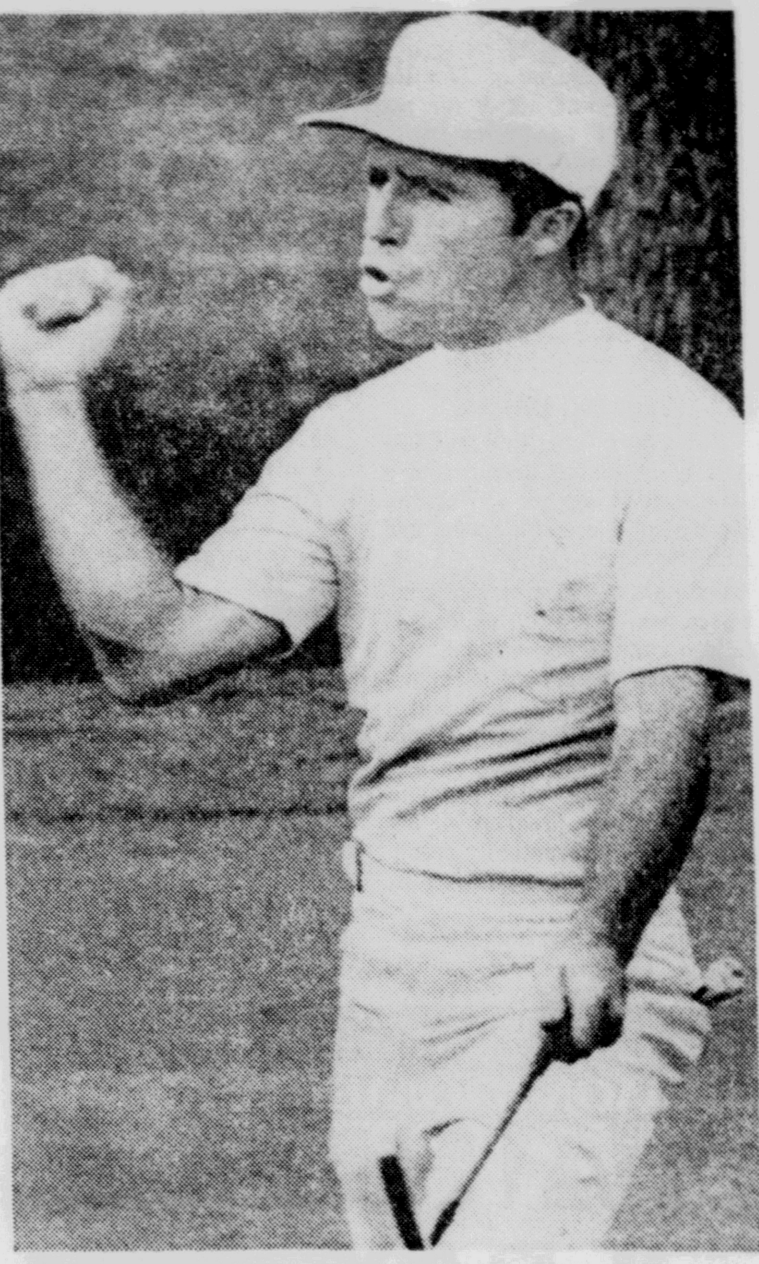
Mrs. William Weiland d. Mrs. William Sichel, 5-3; Mrs. Clyde Rossi d. Mrs. Felix Mola, 6-4; Mrs. Darrell Altermatt d. Mrs. Carl Johnson, 6-4; Mrs. Paul Williams d. Mrs. Stan Friese, two-up; Mrs. Foster Manning d. Mrs. Joseph Rice, 3-2.

Mrs. Roberts Wins Low Gross Honors

Mrs. Don Roberts won low gross honors at the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club's Guest Day tournament yesterday with a 76.

Mrs. Frank Kern took low net and Class A honors with a 78-18—60. Tops in Class B were Mesdames R. D. Risser and E. A. Philbin with scores of 87-22—65 while Mrs. E. J. Halm topped the Class C field with a 92-25—67.

They're Hot At Colonial



HE MADE IT — Gary Player shows his approval after sinking a 35-foot putt on the 18th hole to give him a second-place tie after the second round of the Colonial Open in Fort Worth, Tex. (UPI Telephoto)

Yancey Fires Record 65 Round To Lead Pack

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Bert Yancey went into today's third round of the $125,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament with a record-matching 65 in the book and a menacing quartet of veterans looming over his shoulder.

Yancey's five-under-par round yesterday tied the competitive course record for the 7,175 yard, par 70 Colonial Country Club course — set by Ben Hogan 1946—and staked the one-time West Point cadet to a two-stroke lead at 136.

But the lead was far from secure with scrambling Gary Player, poweful Jack Nicklaus, Billy Maxwell and Jack Montgomery all at 138 and another trio another shot back at 139. They are Australian Bruce Crompton, Charles Coody and Gardner Dickinson.

HE'S PROUD

"I'm proud of this," Yancey said, and he kept his voice emotionless and he didn't crack a smile as he described his round.

"It's as good as I have ever played. It's as rewarding a round as I've ever had because I still consider this a tough golf course."

Player agreed. "This is really a great golf course," the little South African said. "It's a fractional thing, the difference between a birdie and a bogey on this course. For instance, I had a bogey on 17 and played that hole better than I did 18, where I got a birdie."

But the elite field continued to punish the course, rebuilt this year when a flood control project forced the straightening of the Trinity River that spears through the layout.

ONE BOGEY

Yancey, a moody product of Tallahassee, Fla., had only one bogey and six birds in his round. His bogey came on the third hole, where he hit a tree, found a trap and missed a 10-foot putt. A monster putt of 40 feet on No. 8 capped as tring of three consecutive birds, and he canned putts of 15, 26 and 6 feet for others.

Player was bewildered by his round, a 68, and his performance overall. He had seven birdies and five bogeys yesterday, and in two rounds has 10 birds, an eagle, 10 bogeys and 15 pars.

"I can't explain it," he said. "And I can't believe it. How could you have 10 bogeys and still be in contention. What's the record here for birdies in 36 holes? I've got 12."

"You've got 10 and an eagle," someone said.

TWO BIRDS

"I count the eagle as two birds," he said.

Nicklaus and Maxwell each had a par 70 and Montgomery a 68. Dickinson had a 68, Coody a 69 and Crampton a 69. Bruce's round was interrupted by a snake hunt, with police taking some pot shots at a water moccasin near the 18th green.

Arnold Palmer, Frank Beard and leading money winner Gene Littler all had 68s and moved into contention at 141. Billy Casper, however, took a 74 for 145. Julius Boros had a second straight 72 and Masters champion George Archer went to a 74 for 147, just making the cut.

Odom Registers Seventh Victory

CLEVELAND (UPI) — It wasn't his most artistic victory but John Odom today is the biggest winner in the major leagues.

The 23-year-old righthander walked five and gave up seven hits but was tough when he needed to be as he blanked the Cleveland Indians, 3-0, last night to record his seventh win in eight decisions.

Odom got hitting help from Dick Green, who belted a two-run homer in the seventh and Danny Cater who added a solo shot in the ninth.

Cleveland starter and loser Mike Paul, making his first start of the season, stopped the A's without a hit for the first five innings before Bert Campaneris doubled with one out in the sixth.

Big Tiger Question: Where Is Horton?

ST. PAUL-MINNESOTA (AP) — Where is Willie Horton?

The 26-year-old Detroit Tigers outfielder, suspended indefinitely for not accompanying the World Champions to the Twin Cities, was expected to be back in uniform today against the Minnesota Twins in a nationally televised game.

Horton, who led the Tigers in home runs with 36 and batted .285 as they won the 1968 American League pennant, took himself out of a Thursday night game in the seventh inning against the Chicago White Sox and missed the team's charter flight to the Twin Cities.

And he had not reported to Tiger officials early today.

Manager Mayo Smith said Horton, roundly booed in the team's homestand before leaving for the Twin Cities, was under indefinite suspension "until he decides to rejoin his teammates."

ALL UPSET

Detroit General Manager Jim Campbell said "Horton is all upset. He's never been booed before. This was the first time."

Campbell said he talked with Horton's attorney by telephone, and he said Horton would arrive in time for today's game.

But Horton did not show up last night when the Tigers' game against the Twins was rained out.

"He was fighting the slump," said Smith, "and fighting himself. I guess it was an emotional thing with him. The harder he tried the worse it became."

BATTING SLUMP

Horton was batting only .213 and had struck out 34 times in 108 official at-bats before he jumped the team.

For every game he misses, it is costing him a reported $340, of his estimated $60,000 annual salary.

Detroit officials refused comment on a report Horton was boycotting the team because he wanted to be traded.

"In all fairness to Willie and the ball club," said Campbell, "I have no comment."

Destruction Derby

UCLA Captures Baseball Crown

The UCLA Bruins are the champions of the Pacific-8 Conference baseball battle.

The Bruins, behind the hard-hitting duo of Steve Price and Jake Molina, posted a 9-4 victory over University of Southern California yesterday to grab the crown.

The win gave the Bruins a 16-4 Pac-8 record, one game better than that of Stanford but conference commissioner Tom Hamilton has ruled that in the event of a tie, UCLA will be declared the winner because of its series edge over the Indians.

Allen Ruins Giants, 3-1

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Rich Allen has some strange ideas, but none of them are with that 40-ounce warclub he calls a bat.

This was a typical week in the life of Allen. He tore up the baseball, helping the Philadelphia Phillies win a couple of games after a six-game losing streak. Off the field, he continued on his controversial way.

Allen slammed another of his moon shots last night to trigger a 3-1 victory for the Phillies over the San Francisco Giants. It came in the fifth inning with Don Money on base, erasing a Giants' 1-0 lead.

In the last two nights the 27-year-old Allen has had six hits in seven-at-bats, driven home four runs and scored six. He was 4-for-4 Thursday night against Cincinnati and 2-for-3 last night.

Despite his heroics, the fans continue to boo, although it appears that the cheers are starting to drown out the hoots. He tipped his hat once this week and almost brought the house down.

CONTROVERSIAL

Off the field, he's still an independent, controversial figure. He granted an interview to a visiting writer, then refused to allow pictures to be taken to go with the story. Not even the Phillies' publicity director could change his mind. Earlier in the week, he got a hunch in the face when he told a guy at Garden State Race track booing the jockeys to "cool it."

Maybe he has the right idea. Give him a bat and let him play ball. Pay no attention to anything else he does. He was discussing the poor attendance at Connie Mack Stadium—the Phillies are almost 100,000 off for the same number of games last year.

He told a reporter: "I wish Mr. Carpenter (owner Bob Carpenter of the Phillies) had enough money to let us play ball with nobody here but the players. No people, no reporters, no television cameras, no radio, just us, because I love this game, really love it. It's the other stuff. The fewer people, the better for me. I'm sorry the man is losing money, but I don't miss 'em (the fans)."

It may be hard to understand Allen's outlook off the field, but it's no trick to appreciate him on the field. He came up in the fifth against Mike McCormick with two out and Money at first. He went for a bad pitch for a strike, then ripped one that sailed over a 20-foot-tall sign atop the leftfield roof, for his sixth round-tripper.

It was at least 350 feet away and some 85 feet high. The Giants never caught up.

In the eighth, Allen started a one-run rally with a single, scoring when Deron Johnson and John Callison followed with singles. Woody Fryman, who won his fourth in five decisions, did not need the insurance run as he retired the Giants in the ninth.

The only run off Fryman came in the fourth when Willie Mays led off with his fourth homer of the season and 591st of his career. San Francisco threatened in the sixth with two on and none out. But Fryman struck out a pair, intentionally loaded the bases with a walk and then got Hal Lanier with a popup.

COLLEGE NOTES

Coach Read Has A Few Problems

By RALPH CHATOIAN

If you want to get some reaction out of calm and cool Dick Read, just ask him if he's got any hot prospects for next season's College of Marin football team.

I tried it.

"I don't even know where we're going to play, let alone who is going to play," the Tars grid coach retorted. "We don't have a football field and we're looking into playing our games during the afternoons on some of the local high school fields. We still have to hold a meeting with the coaches and administration to iron these things out. Then I'll call a meeting to see who we have out." Sept. 10 is the completion date for the new field, but Read doubts it will be done then.

OUTSTANDING YOUNG MAN, that Bill Gillingham of Sonoma State College. A former track and field ace at Tamalpais High in Mill Valley and College of Marin, he has rewritten quite a few records for the Rohnert Park school's track and field team this season.

He's done such a tall job, the senior biology major has been selected for inclusion in the 1969 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America," and annual biographical compilation featuring accomplishments of about 5,000 athletes throughout the country.

Here's the Sonoma State records Bill now holds: 440-yard dash — 50.1; 880 — 1:53.1; 800 meters — 1:52.4; mile — 4:18.0; 1500 meters — 3:53.2; two-mile — 9:35.5; three-mile — 14:48.9.

Gillingham also finished ninth in the 1968 cross-country championships, was elected captain of the cross-country team and the track and field team (twice). Bill will be working for his teaching credential during the 1969-70 school year at Sonoma State.

BASEBALL IS over for the Sonoma State Cossacks, and it was a long season, the team winning just four of 21 conference games and eight of 30 overall. Pitcher-infielder Bing Kunzig was the batting leader, ending the season with a .338 average. Second baseman Jeff Barker was the only other .300 hitter on the team, at .314.

Kunzig, a senior from San Francisco, also was the top pitcher for the Cossacks, the righthander ending with a 4.20 earned run average and a 3-6 win loss record in Far West Conference action. He struck out 34 and walked 26 in 68⅔ innings of work.

Novato Opens Against Diablo Valley Champ

Novato High School will carry the Marin County Athletic League banner into the expanded Redwood High School Tournament of Champions May 29-31.

They'll face the Diablo Valley Champion on opening day at 8 p.m. Antioch is leading the Diablo Valley League with a 10-4 record.

Two more leagues have been added to the tournament this season. The San Francisco Triple A League and the Mission Valley League have joined the spring baseball fray.

The Hornets have gone through the season so far with a 19-3 record, boasting an 11-1 league mark. Two of their losses came in the Pacifica Tournament while the other was to San Rafael in league play.

The league has had only one champion in the tournament. That came when Marin Catholic won it in 1966. Terra Linda lost in the finals to Oakland Tech last year.

Other leagues represented in the tournament are Alameda, Oakland, East Bay Catholic, Hayward, North Bay and North Peninsula.

San Rafael Nine Takes To Road

The San Rafael Braves, their roster padded with two imposing newcomers, take their wares to Maryville tomorrow for a 1 p.m. doubleheader.

Novatan Tom Corder, the do-everything shortstop and hitting star at San Jose State, and Mike Terry, College of Marin's 9-1 All-Camino Norte Conference hurler, have been added to the team.

Terry and Steve Miller will do the hurling against the Giants, who have a 6-0 record to the Braves' 1-3 mark.

By GARY TISCHLER

This weekend's massive sixth annual Marin Invitational Class A swim meet at Novato High School points out an obvious need, and it isn't more swimmers.

There will be enough swimmers, 700 of them, at the meet, but what's missing, and what has been missing, is some kind of permanent structure to house this kind of meet and further provide some kind of focus point for the growing and active interest in swimming.

With a few king-sized bureaucratic miracles, it may not be missing much longer.

Carney Campion of San Rafael, a long-time active fan and promoter of age-group swimming, along with numerous swimming boosters, clubs and organizers that may also include tennis fans, has long seen the need for a kind of super recreational complex on the county level, encompassing swimming, diving and tennis.

TALKING DREAM

For a long time, this was just sort of a talking dream and a conversation opener ("Wouldn't it be nice") at swim meets and club meetings.

Campion is serving as chairman of a group called Marin Athletic and Recreation Sponsors (MARS), a group whose specific purpose is to promote and facilitate a program of action that would eventually result in just such a recreational complex.

So far, the group has been organized, interested parties (Marin age group swim clubs, tennis clubs, ballet Aquacade, Red Cross programs, etc.) have been consulted and local governmental bodies have been approached, and pleaded with, as to the feasibility of such a project.

Campion has talked with city level groups (the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department) county (Marin County Board of Supervisors), planners and directors of all sorts. They have listened politely but have made no commitment as yet.

MANY ADVANTAGES

Campion, an enthusiast and organizer par excellance, points to the myriad advantages of such a complex: It could centralize Marin swimming activities, it would be for public use primarily, it could house and hold meets of national importance both in tennis and swimming, bringing added prestige, money and interest to the county. In short, it has unlimited use.

The problems in turning a conversation piece, even an officially organized dream, into a concrete reality are many.

The principal one, if not the immediate one, is money. Such an undertaking is bound to wind up as something more than your old swimming hole. It could run well over $1 million.

DIRTY WORD

How do you get the money in a county where "taxes" is a very dirty five-letter word? Bond issues could be raised. It could be done through a joint-powers agreement between cities and county, or through partial federal aid. But that would all be in the future.

Right now, there are no plans for the complex, no inches and feet dimensions, cost studies or architect's drawings, building sites or lists of construction materials.

What MARS and Campion are doing first and foremost is to act as a catalyst that will mushroom and steamroller interest in the proposed complex.

FOCAL POINT

Certainly there is a need for some kind of swimming and tennis focal point in the county. Marin's swimming activities are scattered all over the county and outside, from age-group to high school level. There simply is no one place to go.

Whether enough people will become actively interested beyond the point of talking and wishing, only time will tell. MARS and Carney Campion hope that the answer will be plenty of people.

Finley Buys Big Share In Casinos

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Charles O. Finley, controversial owner of the Oakland Athletics, has bought a large block of shares in a corporation which owns three Las Vegas gambling casinos.

Finley confirmed yesterday he purchased 30,000 shares in Parvin-Dohrmann Corp., which operates the Alladin Hotel and Casino and the Stardust Hotel and Casino on the Las Vegas Strip and the Fremont Hotel in downtown Las Vegas. The stock sold for 104½ a share Friday on the American Stock Exchange, down 14½ points from Thursday.

Drivers Face Qualifications At Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Speedway demon drivers challenged the records and their own bravery today as 500-mile time trials opened with dapper little Mario Andretti favored for the coveted pole position.

Weather permitting, qualifications before an anticipated crowd of more than 250,000 were scheduled to open this morning with the pole berth—the inside position on the first row for the Memorial Day race—going to the fastest first day racer.

There was a 60 per cent change of rain.

There appeared little doubt that the one and four-lap records of 171.953 and 171.559 m.p.h. would be eclipsed if the weather was favorable.

Only one turbocar was entered this time and its status for this weekend's trials was doubtful. Andy Granatelli, meanwhile, entered an 11-car team headed by Andretti and former winner Graham Hill.

ABM Or Lack Of It Not Key To World Peace

There is much questioning by scientists as to whether Safeguard antiballistic missiles could do the job of knocking down enemy missiles before they reached their targets, but there is no question that they can produce plenty of noisy explosions.

They have done it already, while still on the drawing boards.

Lost, unfortunately, amid the sound and fury of the scientific-military argument over the ABM system are greater questions bearing on the peace and survival of the world.

DEFENSE SECY. Melvin Laird keeps insisting that the Soviet Union will soon have missile superiority if we do not at once start building two ABM installations (though whether those two installations would make much difference boggles us as much as it boggles some of the scientists).

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said on his recent California visit: "Only the President holds all the facts and all the responsibility. He, alone, must answer for now and eternity the question: What does America need in the way of security to enable us to construct a long-lasting peace?"

President Nixon wants the two Safeguard installations. Earlier he wanted 15 installations.

ON THE OPPOSITE side are scientists, senators and some military men who say that the two installations woud be useless, that the ABMs would not do what they are intended to do, and that the installations would merely escalate the arms race and serve no security purpose.

Overlooked is the fact that whether or not the United States builds these two installations will have no great effect on world tensions.

Whether Safeguard authorization would give Nixon a trump card in disarmament talks with the Russians (as he says it would) or whether it would increase their distrust and cause them to further step up their own armaments (as opponents say it would), installation or non-installation of the ABMs really will not solve anything.

IF A HALT is to be called to the arms race, if the tensions that divide the world are to be lessened, then the attention, scientific inquiry and argument now centered on the missile proposal need to be turned in another direction.

They need to be turned on what the United States can do to help the cause of peace without stripping itself of the power to defend itself.

A good first place to look might be at some of the more than 400 overseas military bases the United States is maintaining around the world.

Many of these bases have long outlived the purposes for which they are established. Many of them are thorns in the sides of otherwise friendly countries, and of no military value to the United States unless it embarks on an aggressive war.

Another place to look might be at the arms aid given by the U.S. to other countries "to contain communism." We ought to have learned by now that the guns we provide can be fired at us. There are better ways to support friendly nations than by arming them.

THERE ARE MANY other ways in which the U.S.A. could start turning the world toward peace instead of war. If the determination, energy and skill were applied to them that is being applied to the ABM dispute, many of them could be found and accomplished.

To Ban Or Not To Ban?

Why ban DDT? This is the question many people must be asking. The late Rachel Carson gave us the answer 10 years ago in her widely acclaimed book, "Silent Spring." She stated simply that we don't know enough about the long-term effects of DDT and the other clorinated hydrocarbons on man and other animals to permit their uncontrolled use.

Since her book was bublished, an entire body of literature by respected scientists has implicated these potent poisons in the deaths of many unintended animal victims. The thing that makes the chlorinated hydrocarbons such a potential menace is that under natural conditions they are very slow to break down. Thus, they build up into higher and higher concentrations in the oceans off our coasts, where the run-off from our fields finally takes them.

Just this past month, two more kinds of aquatic life were found to be badly affected by DDT residue — pelicans and our bay crabs. And the long-term effects on man are still largely unknown.

For sake of our natural environment, if not for our own health, it seems some kind of control is in order.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to the young members of Terra Nova who have set themselves the public service task of cleaning up Marin beaches. And a hefty BRICKBAT to the thief who stole the bicycle of one of the Terra Nova youths while they were cleaning up Strawberry Point last weekend.

BRICKBATS to the San Anselmo City Council for the stiff-backed stubbornness that prevents selection of a new mayor, and for starting to tinker with the plans by Peat, Marwick & Livingston, traffic engineers, for the Hub intersection. The Hub city councilmen should have learned their inability as engineers when they messed up the Sir Francis Drake Boulevard widening project.

BOUQUET to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District for getting things moving on a San Francisco-Marin bicycle trail by agreeing to erect an $11,500 bridge for bikes connecting with the Golden Gate span.

Open Campus Creates Problems

It was most interesting to read the article in your May 13 issue concerning the plans . . . at Tamalpais High School to discuss the possibility of an open campus policy. Even more interesting was the fact that Tamalpais High School had open campus until 1965 when it was closed because of "neighborhood protests over litter, trespassing, and off-campus brawls among students."

Here in Terra Linda the high school has had a "trial" open campus on a limited basis since last October. There have not been off-campus brawls, to my knowledge, but littering and trespassing are only two of the problems. . . . To these, let me add the following:

1. Increase parking and traffic problems to residential areas.

2. Increase daytime burglaries and thefts at nearby homes.

3. Increased vandalism to cars parked on nearby streets.

4. Intense "necking" in parked cars and on surrounding hillsides by students.

5. Foul language used by groups who eat lunch in parked cars in front of homes where pre-school children play.

6. Loitering near the campus by individuals and groups who are not students at Terra Linda High School.

7. Excessive speeding by students and "visitors" in residential areas where small children play.

. . . We appeared at the school board meeting (and) were told to accept the situation as a community problem. . . . We then attended a meeting (with) the Student Council of Terra Linda High School. . . . Nothing has been solved. . . .

When administrators give a privilege . . . to an entire student body, they must take the necessary action to see that those who violate its governing policies are punished or restricted. This is not being done at Terra Linda High School, and the sad part is, no one seems to care . . .

'I Will Be What I Will': True For God And Man

By RABBI HAIM KEMELMAN

We recall in biblical narrative how Moses sought a clear communion sing, a definitive approach to communication with the God-forces of redemption.

But Moses was rebutted by a terse explanation instead of a clear definition: "I will be what I will be." (The traditional translation, "I am what I am," from the original, lacks precision. "Ehye asher ehye," in Hebrew literally means "I will be what I will be.")

"I WILL BE what I will be," God says to man. I will be what every person finds me to be to himself; what every individual soul makes me to be within himself; what every man makes of himself to be, by allowing the divine spirit to become a steady resident of his soul, in shaping his thoughts, his daily life and his future destiny.

God, individual salvation, redemption grace, are not dictionary definitions, worded formulas, but rather are the dialect of the soul. And as you are unable to describe the soul, you can't define its communicaition.

One thing is clear: the gate to individual salvation is open to all the common and forgotten people of whom Lincoln spoke as being loved by God because he created so many of them.

ALL WE NEED is to believe in ourselves and in the part of the Messiah which is implanted within us, making it possible for us to elicit those redeeming powers that will restore to us the harmonies of heaven and earth and bring healing to both body and soul. And when we come to experience such mystical ecstasy, we gain a joyous and cheerful affirmation of the goodness of life and the worthwhileness of our individual purpose in living.

We can't see God, but we can have a vision of Divinity. By making ourselves visible to Him, we find Him in our hearts. And those who believe that God speaks only to them and that His salvation is the favored monopoly of a select few have adopted for themselves a very small and marginal God with a dwarfed soul for His residence.

God is not some men; God is all men. God is not in my faith alone; God is in all faiths.

DESCARTES summed it up this way: "I think, therefore I am." Not "I am what I am," but I am what I make of myself: I am what I think, I am what I feel, I am what I believe, I am what I envision, I am what I dare, I am what I dream.

W. Macneile Dixon speaks of material things as senseless nonentities because they can never become conscious of themselves and are therefore incapable of outsoaring themselves and rising above their sources. But man is different. "The 'I'," he said, "is the window through which every man that ever was born looks out upon the scene of existence. Flung open at his birth, shuttered at his death, at this window through which no one else can every look, this untransferable viewpoint, each one of us sits all his life long."

Theft Is 'Reward' For Worthy Service

The Saturday I- J(May 10) ran a picture on the front page showing us what is being done to clean up the beach. This is an extremely commendable thing to do — especially by volunteers — but one of these volunteers paid dearly for this generosity of time. This young man came to the beach on his bike, a bike he had paid out of his own earnings as an I-J paper boy. Within a half hour the bike was stolen!

Powerful Forces Join Fight For Safeguard ABM System

WASHINGTON — The big guns of the military-industrial-political complex are being leveled at opponents of the Nixon administration's Safeguard antiballistic missile program. The latest blast comes from the national strategy committee of the American Security Council, a conservative organization heavily weighted with those who over the years have been professional cold war warriors.

Of the 30 members of a special subcommittee signing a report entitled, "The ABM and the Changed Strategic Military Balance," 13 are retired admirals or generals. Of these, several have had connections with defense industry.

STRESSING NOT only Russian capabilities but Russian intentions, as interpreted by the committee, the report makes some astonishing statements. The Russians are "outpacing the United States" in strategic weaponry, according to the report, "because they exercise over-all control over the economy and can suppress public opposition that might arise." Then the report adds: "In the United States, on the other hand, the needs of national defense can be obscured or delayed by emphasis on domestic needs or wants."

This seems to carry the implication that if this country could only supress opposition, the nation's domestic needs would not get in the way of spending for weapons.

The report states that the United States has carefully tailored its nuclear arsenal to exclude all weapons designed to initiate an attack or with such an attack could even be credibly threatened.

AS THE ABM dispute gathers momentum, with a vote in the Senate likely in mid-June, it is bound to become more divisive and envenomed.

The power of the American Security Council in the struggle over the ABM cannot be discounted. Started by two ex-FBI men, it carries on a variety of activities. Out of huge files in Chicago the council provides security clearance for the employees of corporations that are council contributors.

At a comfortable estate in Virginia the council operates the Institute for American Strategy. This is a super-board of directors for the military-industrial complex. The participants include the top military and the top defense contractors. On one occasion the entire Joint Chiefs of Staff was brought down by helicopter. A speaker at a recent session was the chief of staff of the army, Gen. Wiliam C. Westmoreland.

THE COUNCIL puts on a radio program with a thousand stations using the tapes, which is said to have the widest coverage of any single program. The usual speaker is former Rep. Walter Judd. The principal angel is Patrick J. Frawley, the California industrialist. Frawley puts up $100,000 a year to present the program as a public service for one of his companies, Schick Razor.

The strategy committee has enlisted several distinguished scientists, including Eugene Wigner, a Nobel laureate. But they confront on the opposing side the science advisers of three former presidents and most of the scientific community. The lines are being sharply drawn in an historic contest.

If We Have No ABM, What Can We Scrap For Disarmament?

WASHINGTON — You can talk about the antiballistic missile system from now until doomsday (I'm sorry I had to use that word), but you still go around in circles.

One of the strongest proponents of the ABM system is a friend of mine who has been assigned by the Pentagon to convince skeptics like myself that we really need an ABM system. Since they have no funds yet, I bought him a drink.

"I DON'T THINK I could make a stronger argument for the ABM," he said, "than the fact that Secretary Laird has revealed the Soviets will have a first-strike nuclear capability by 1975."

"That's pretty strong," I admitted. "But how come Secretary Laird found out about this first-strike Soviet capability and Secretaries NcNamara and Clifford knew nothing about it?"

"Laird reads more."

"Look, a few months ago you told me that the reason we needed an ABM system was to protect our cities from Soviet missiles. Then you said it was to protect our cities from Red Chinese missiles. After that, you said it was impossible to protect the cities so we had to protect our missile launching sites. Now you say we need it because the Soviets are building new first-strike missiles. Then you said it was to protect our cities from Red Chinese missiles. After that, you said it was impossible to protect the cities so we had to protect our missile launching sites. Now you say we need it because the Soviets are building new first-strike missiles. Why don't you make up your mind?"

"ACTUALLY, it's a little of this and a little of that," he said, unperturbed. "We know we need the system, but we're not quite sure what we need it for. It has many uses.

"For example, the Soviets are building an ABM System around Moscow. Now we know it doesn't work, but we're not certain the Soviets know it doesn't work. So if we build an ABM system, they'll find out ours doesn't work, and then they'll have to assume their system doesn't work either."

"I get it," I said excitedly. "If we didn't have an ABM system, the Soviets might put too much value on the one they have."

"RIGHTO. Now we also have to think in terms of disarmament. When we have a disarmament meeting with the Soviets, we're going to have to give up something. Right?"

"Of course. That is what disarmament is all about."

"We don't want to give up something that could endanger the security of the country, so, if we have the ABM system, we can give that up instead. Of course, if we didn't have an ABM system for disarmament purposes, we'd have to invent one."

"I know there are many scientists and Nobel prize winners who are attacking the system, but what they don't realize is that if they say the system won't work, the Soviets will be encouraged to go ahead with their offensive missiles, and the more missiles they stockpile the more they will be encouraged to try a first strike."

"BUT WHY?" "Because Secretary Laird says so."

"What about the [illegible]"

"That's all anyone ever thinks about when you mention the ABM in this country — money," my friend said in disgust. "Instead of worrying about what it's going to cost, you should get down on your knees and say 'Thank God I can live in a country that can afford an antiballistic missile system.' "

"Sometimes," I said ashamedly, "Americans don't know how lucky they really are."

What You Don't Know About OIL and GAS FUNDS May Be Costing You Money

Particularly if you are in the middle to high income brackets. Oil and Gas Funds are speculative investments which offer one highly attractive feature — the same tax write-offs and depreciation allowances available to major oil companies.

A seminar on this little-known aspect of investing will be held in San Rafael, Monday, May 19, 8:00 p.m., Bank of Marin Building, 3rd Floor Conference Room.

Jack Phillip Investment Services, Petaluma, in affiliation with Bonner Bell Investment Services, Incorporated, Walnut Creek, are hosting the seminar. Reservations may be made by calling 479-5200 in San Rafael.

EUGENE E. CRAWFORD
Honored architect

Mill Valley Architect Is Given Honor

Eugene A. Crawford of Mill Valley, a partner in the architectural firm of Crawford and Banning in San Rafael, has been elected to the College of Fellows of the American Institute of Architects for outstanding achievement.

Crawford, a member of the institute for 22 years, served as president of the Northern California Chapter in 1964, and is now vice president and president-designate of the California Council.

His work has included a variety of projects, among them office buildings for the Bank of Marin, the Northwestern and Marin County Savings and Loan associations and the Marin Municipal Water District.

Current projects include work for Chico State College, Tamalpais High School District and Marin County.

He also has served as a lecturer in architectural design at the University of California at Berkeley.

Crawford is a member of the Marin County Board of Appeals and a member of the board of directors of the Marin Builders Exchange.

Street Lighting Panel Studying New Locations

The Greenbrae Property Owners Association, concerned over a large number of burglaries in its community, is conducting a survey to determine where extra street lights should be placed.

Association directors voted Wednesday night to ask the Larkspur City Council to provide the extra lights and requested to ask the Larkspur City Council to provide the extra lights and requested that the cost be spread over several years, according to Mrs. Beth Reilly, association secretary.

In other action at the meeting, directors voted to support the Save the Bay Alliance, which is backing a strong conservation bill for San Francisco Bay; appropriated $150 for local Cub Scout and Boy Scout work; appointed Thomas H. Ring as legislative chairman, and said they would discuss with the County of Marin possible refurbishing at the Los Sombres playground.

$750,000 Is Asked In Telephone Case

San Rafael attorney Thomas G. Fitzgerald has filed suit against the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. asking $750,000 damages and charging that the phone company damaged his career by disconnecting his phone.

Fitzgerald claimed that the company had violated its obligation under the Public Utilities Commission regulations by requiring a large deposit as well as payment for back charges before reconnecting his phone.

The attorney said that the company said he owed $134 in back bills on April 15 and threatened to disconnect the phone. The company wanted the bill paid as well as an additional deposit of $240.

Although he more than paid the bill by sending the phone company $160, the phone was still disconnected he claimed for a period of 13 days.

Fitzgerald claimed in the suit, which was filed Thursday in Alameda County Superior Court, that his professional reputation had been damaged. He also said that in the past 22 years he had "dutifully paid to the defendant in a generally timely fashion an estimated 40 to 50 thousand dollars."

Fitzgerald said today he filed the suit to test the company's practice of requiring such deposits before restoring service.

Party Leader Pleads Innocent

Irvin H. Sutley Jr., Leader of the Sonoma County Peace and Freedom Party, pleaded innocent to possession of marijuana in Sonoma County Superior Court yesterday with trial set for July 15.

Judge Lincoln F. Mahan received a motion to dismiss the case because of insufficient evidence and will rule on it Tuesday. An earlier motion to suppress evidence had been denied.

Sutley was arrested March 2 by Cotati police and later claimed the arrest was an act of political harassment.

$500 Gift To Humane Society

Mrs. Spencer Smiley, retiring president of the Marin County Cat Fanciers, has presented a check for $500 from the organization to the Marin Humane Society. The gift was made from proceeds of the All Breed Cat Show held in March by the club.

Directing A Marin Tradition

MARIN-BORN Robin Jackson, now a College of Marin faculty member, is the director of this year's Mountain Play, to be performed tomorrow and May 25 in Cushing Memorial Amphitheater on Mount Tamalpais. Jackson is directing a cast of 150 in "The World We Live In" by Joseph and Carol Capek.

A native Marinite will be at the helm tomorrow when a cast of 150 persons presents "The World We Live In" as the 1969 production of the county's traditional Mountain Play.

Robin Jackson, Ross-born, College of Marin drama instructor, is the director of this year's outdoor spectacle on Mount Tamalpais, which will have its first of two successive Sunday performances in the amphitheater tomorrow at 2 p.m.

HE SAW HIS first Mountain Play "in 1947 or 1948," a performance of the oft-repeated "Tamalpa."

"But I never thought then that some day I would be directing a Mountain Play," he admits.

Since then, he has returned to Cushing Memorial Amphitheater on Tam several times as a Mountain Play spectator.

Once he almost appeared in one of the plays. Coincidentally, it was "The World We Live In," the same epic to be performed tomorrow and the following Sunday.

"I WAS IN the cast," he recalls. "Then I had an opportunity to crew on a yacht. And I accepted it, instead."

Jackson says he has felt an affection for Mount Tamalpais all my life, "probably because my folks loved the mountain. We used to hike and ride — my dad kept horses — on Tam all the time. It became an old friend."

Jackson worked his way through school as a tree surgeon. After college, he and another youth decided to take up geology and mineralology. They headed for Trinity County where they spent six months hiking, often through snow, and collecting samples.

"THEN ONE day," Jackson relates, "we decided to hunt for bigger game. We took off for British Columbia, the Yukon Territory and Alaska to do some prospecting."

There was still the flavor of the Wild West "complete with barroom brawls and shady dance hall ladies" in those untamed regions, Jackson recalls.

When he returned to California, it was to more schooling, teaching and the theater. He taught drama at Westmoor High School for four years. And for the past three years he has been with the College of Marin faculty.

HE HAS appeared with the San Francisco Repertory Company and with the Reno Little Theater.

His past also includes service as a U.S. Marine Corps captain in the Orient — because of his experience with stagecraft, he was placed in charge of the construction of an orphanage on Okinawa — and as a private investigator.

His hobbies also represent a wide range of interests.

He remains an avid hiker and is a skilled mountain climber. But his favorite sport is automobile racing as a sports car and formula car driver.

HE IS currently co-owner of an off-road racing Ford Cortina that placed 15th in the Baja California 1,000-mile road race from Ensenada to La Paz.

Of the theater, he says: "I direct by trying to get my actors to free themselves from inhibitions."

And to get his actors to be "themselves," he has developed "theater games."

"We'll play tag or dodge ball," he says, "all in the effort to encourage this freedom from inhibitions."

AS IMPORTANT for the director as encouraging the best possible performance from an actor, he says, is the blending of all these individual performances into a cohesive whole. "A company should blend together very much like a symphony orchestra, or a football team. The director is the conductor or coach."

Jackson does not believe in working from rigid, set rules.

In "The World We Live In,' Jackson is working with familiar material.

HE DIRECTED the same play as a College of Marin production in December, 1968.

But its performance there, indoors, and on Mount Tamalpais, outdoors, are two very different things, he points out.

"The philosophy of the play remains the same," he says, "but the style must differ radically."

At the College of Marin performances, the audience sat in swivel chairs in the center, while the actors played their roles on a circular stage that surrounded the spectators.

AT THE amphitheater, the arrangement will be the traditional one of the stage area to the front, with the audience seated around it. But there is all that wide open space that makes the Mountain Play quite unlike any other Northern California production.

Of his cast of 150, Jackson says, approximately 50 are College of Marin students who performed earlier in the school production.

"We are going to make use of electronics and live music," he says. "We'll have some surprises for our audience, all designed to get them involved in our play."

JACKSON'S WIFE, also named Robin, is a talented actress who will appear in this year's Mountain Play. They have a daughter, Melissa, a year and a half old, who, her father says, "will be in the 1975 Mountain Play."

There's no doubt in Jackson's or anyone else's mind but what the Mountain Play will still be performed in 1975, and for many years thereafter.

A Marin fixture, it has been going on since 1913.

TOMORROW and the May 25 performance will mark the 52nd Mountain Play.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at Tyrrell's in Mill Valley, Talbot of Tiburon in Strawberry Town and Country Village, B. F. Edward's Stationery in Novato, Cottage Book Store in San Rafael and Orrick Travel in San Anselmo.

ROBIN JACKSON poses with his wife, also Robin, and with daughter Melissa, a year and a half old. Mrs. Jackson is in the cast of tomorrow's Mountain Play, directed by her husband. But Melissa, says her father, will have to wait a few years.

WORKING with a patient suffering from a leg injury, David M. Heizer carefully fits a leg brace so as to assure a correct fit in every detail that will permit the man to walk with the least possible amount of inconvenience. Heizer, certified orthonist, is director of the orthotic department at Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital of Northern California in Kentfield. His department is unique in non-governmental hospitals in the West.

A Marin Hospital Pioneers With An Important Service

Center Medical Offers A Unique Orthotics Department To Patients

After hospitalization, she could not place any weight on the leg. She was fitted with a long leg brace and a full calf-laced orthotic device. Now she can walk normally.

He was fitted with a long leg brace to protect his injured limb after the cast was removed. Today he again walks and rides his motorcycle.

A 30-YEAR-OLD East Bay man suffered a fractured neck in an industrial accident, but fortunately had no nerve damage. Any sudden movement, any slight jar could have severed the critical nerves and ended his life or totally paralyzed him.

He was fitted with a curvical brace designed to stabilize the spine and head and provide slight traction to the neck. Now after a year of wearing the brace, his doctors say he can resume normal activity without the orthotic aid.

A 21-year-old San Francisco man is a quadriplegic due to a ski accident, unable to use any of his limbs normally.

USING A combination of electrical power and gravity, the splints are put into motion by the movement of his shoulder against a switch in his wheelchair. The orthotic devices open and close his fingers, and while he can never expect the full use of his limbs, he has attained some degree of independent movement.

These Bay Area residents are four of the more than 200 persons, young and old, who owe their present physical mobility to their private physicians and to the unduplicated physical rehabilitation services offered by the specially equipped and staffed orthotics department of Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital of Northern California.

THE 100-BED, 10 - year - old Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital in Kentfield is the only non-governmental hospital in the West to provide this much needed service to the area it serves.

The orthotic department at Center Medical is unique in that the braces and other orthotic devices used by patients are actually designed and manufactured in the hospital. This eliminates the need for patients to travel long distances for fittings in a non-hospital setting, and allows maximum personal service to be given patients in the hospital or in their home by members of the Center Medical orthotic department or physical and occupational therapy personnel.

THE DEPARTMENT is under the direction of David M. Heizer, certified orthonist, and one of less than 2,000 such specialists in the nation certified by the American Board for Certification in Orthotics.

Heizer works under the direction of the patients' personal physicians, in close cooperation with the nursing staff at Center Medical and Rehabilitation, and with large and well-staffed physical and occupational therapy departments of the hospital.

Thirty-nine years old, Heizer was certified in 1961, and before coming to Center Medical and Rehabilitation, was in charge of the bracing post-polio, post-surgical, and rheumatoid arthritic services at Ranch Los Amigos Hospital in Southern California.

HIS DAILY schedule may include the creation of a plaster mold from the torso of a Marin County government employee with a spinal condition which calls for a special brace if the man is to continue to hold his job.

Heizer may then move to the huge sewing machine in his department where he carefully sews leather to form an integral part of a leg brace for a 68-year-old woman with physical problems caused by age and

"Why Can't Spots Be Removed From My Dress?"

They can, but you won't like it. Your dress is a blend of natural and synthetic fibers. A feature of this combination is difficulty in spot removal. Natural fibers such as cotton, wool and silk absorb dyes which penetrate the entire fiber. Synthetic fibers repel moisture and dyes. Dyes applied to synthetics remain on the surface. When a dress like yours becomes spotted, the spot removal agents or the friction of applying them may remove the spot, but may also remove the dye which is only on the surface of the synthetic fibers. The natural fibers with which the synthetics are blended retain their color and you have a color difference which appears like a spot and cannot be removed.

It is hoped that the textile colorists will, some day, overcome this problem. Until they do, however, spot removal on a blend of synthetic and natural fibers, or even an all synthetic fiber garment, is not only a problem, but impossible.

AT THE SEWING machine, David M. Heizer inserts a seam in leather that will assure a perfect fit. The Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital staff member is one of fewer than 2,000 certified orthonists in the country.

frequent falls. He may then select exactly the right piece of stainless steel or aluminum which may be curved and fitted to an electrically - operated hinge splint for a hitherto useless arm or fingers.

WHEN THE skilled hands of Heizer exactingly fit the final combination of leather, aluminum, stainless steel, or in some cases plastics, to the torso or limbs of the patient, the success story has only begun.

The entire medical and hospital team of the patient's physician, the Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital nursing staff, and the therapy experts work together with the patient on a long-term program designed to show the patient how to use and live with his new orthotic devices, and how, over weeks, months, and sometimes years, to use the devices to return to physical normality.

"THE PATIENT'S family is just as important as the patient himself," Heizer says, "because they, too, must know how to use the orthotic devices and how to help the patient in his road to recovery."

Major causes of accidents which demand the use of orthotic aids, according to Heizer, include auto accidents and industrial accidents in young and middle-aged persons, and falls or other disabilities in older persons.

Another important need for orthotic devices is caused by uninjured people in their 30s, 40s and 50s who have just allowed themselves to "get out of shape," Heizer says.

"SENSIBLE daily exercise habits, under the counsel of the family physician, can prevent the need for most such aids," Heizer continues.

Why has Center Medical and Rehabiliation Hospital of Marin County pioneered a fully developed orthotics department in a non-government facility?

Donald C. Barksdale, hospital administrator and a leader in Northern California hospital activities, says "the function of any community hospital is to provide maximum services to the area it serves. One of the basic functions of good hospital planning is to try to provide unduplicated services to save hospital patients unnecessary costs for staff and facilities which may not be used full time if several different hospitals in the same locality offer the same services.

"No non-government hospital in the West offers a complete orthotics department service, so a year ago we developed the department. And proof of its need is shown by our past record of service and by our ever growing list of patients being served."

ANGEL ISLAND'S FUTURE

By GIL PEARSON

If the future of Alcatraz Island remains clouded by conflicting plans and ideas, at least the fate of San Francisco Bay's second and larger island, Angel Island, is beginning to take on a clearer focus.

Some people like the picture scheduled for development from the revised Angel Island master plan approved by the California State Park and Recreation Commission. And some don't.

But at least President Richard M. Nixon's junking of the prior administration's plans for a "thick" anti-ballistic missile defense system for 25 major metropolitan areas, including San Francisco, has cleared the air for all an all-civilian usage of the island.

"The planned Sentinel base on Angel Island is a dead duck," said Les Houde, Army Corps of Engineers information officer, in response to our query in Sacramento.

"ARE THERE any other army plans for using Angel Island?" we pressed.

"There is none," replied Houde, "and this includes the existing Nike sites and all the 100 governmental structures abandoned to the state in 1963."

For further information on Angel Island's state park future, we barged in on Harry Dean Jr., who supervises the master plan section of the California State Department of Parks and Recreation.

Even as we settled in a chair, his secretary glided into the office and handed him the then latest revisions of Angel's master plan, dripping wet from the press.

"EVEN IN the event," he said, "the army should change its mind about using this land in any way, they would have to condemn the whole island. Meanwhile you can offer these revisions as our statement in meeting as far as possible the desires of the many differing interests we've encountered in numerous presentations to the public."

Located in the bay just off the tip of Belvedere-Tiburon Peninsula and thus isolated from the activities of the vast metropolitan complex surrounding it, Angel Island represents a unique phenomenon in the state park system.

It provides a car-less, exhaust-free atmosphere devoid of parking lots, extensive road systems and gas stations. Visitors can thus enjoy rare quiet and leisure while experiencing outstanding views of the bay.

AESTHETICALLY and historically the island portends great interest. Its solitude provides habitat for a varied bird, animal and plant life.

Angel Island was first a haven for Indians as is established at unearthed tribal sites in the Ayala Cove, North Garrison, East Garrison, Upper West Garrison and north of Point Stuart. As white men appeared, a rich and interesting history evolved.

The island was actually discovered by the Portola expedition of 1769 and was later explored by Ayala who used Ayala Cove as an anchorage and a base for his exploration of San Francisco Bay in 1775.

DURING THE Spanish and Mexican rule, it remained an anchorage, refueling and watering stop, and eventually became a cattle ranch. The earliest record of U.S. occupancy was 1863 and this continued until 1962 when the Nike missile installation was declared obsolete.

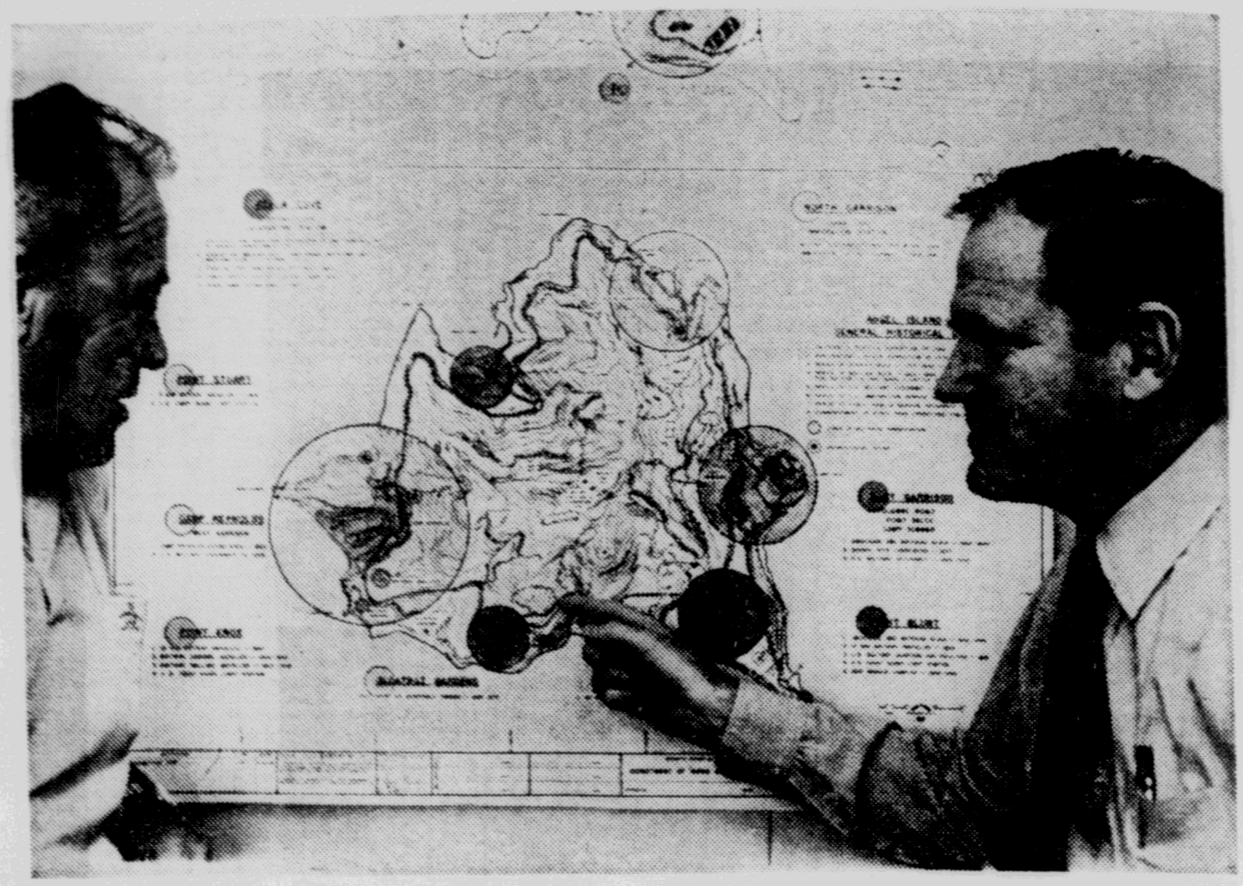
In 1905, North Garrison became the U.S Immigration Station for the West Coast. East Garrison was a U.S. military camp from 1899 to 1962, and Camp Reynolds, or West Garrison, was established during the Civil War in 1863 and remained in military occupancy until 1946.

THE ENTIRE island comprises some 730 acres and is located within the limits of the city of Tiburon; Ayala Cove being approximately one mile from the city waterfront.



HARRY DEAN JR., right, in charge of the master plan section of the California State Parks and Recreation Department, uses a map on the wall of his office to explain to writer Gil Pearson some of the details of the revised master plan for Angel Island State park development. A master plan map is reproduced on pages M10 and M11.

It is essentially a small mountain rising out of San Francisco Bay to a height of about 750 feet. The terrain is characterized by steep wooded slopes with limited gentle slopes suitable for development.

"What is your starting point in setting up proposals for civilian-use development of this property?" we asked Dean, who has been drafting and reworking Angel Island master plans over the past six years.

Waving an arm indicating the half dozen charts he had hung on his walls for us, Dean laid out the fundamental considerations:

"The first parcel, acquired in 1954, comprised about 37 acres and embraced what is principally known as Ayala Cove. The restrictions were that all the lands were to be used for 'historic monument purposes only' for a 20-year period.

"Parcel two, comprising about 184 acres, came with a 25-year restriction for 'historic monument purposes only,' ending in December of 1983. This parcel included a triangular shaped piece extending from Point Campbell to Mount Livermore and back down to a point between Point Ione and Point Stuart.

"THE LAST parcel acquired had a similar restriction 'in perpetuity.' This was about 517 acres and took in the remainder of the island with the exception of the small Coast Guard reservations at Point Stuart, Point Knox and Point Blunt."

It should be pointed out that the phrase "for historic monument purposes only" is not interpreted as being restrictive in the sense that facilities necessary for visitor enjoyment of the historic portions of the island cannot be developed.

It is assumed, Dean explained, that facilities necessary to house visitors, to transport them, to provide them with minimum services, and to interpret the history of the property, is permitted under the terms of the patents.

THE PRINCIPAL remaining considerations for further acquisition are a mainland base, and the tidelands surrounding the island out to about the 30-fathom line.

Since the area surrounding the Ayala Cove was the first portion of the island to be deeded to the state, the presently available public facilities are confined to this location. These include a 21-unit picnic area, two-group picnic areas accommodating 250 people, a pier and landing dock for private and tour boats, and an entrance facility.

The remaining areas of the island are occupied by former army and other governmental facilities which are in an advanced state of disrepair and hazardous condition. The island is now served by a loop road which provides the main access to the principal areas and will be retained for that purpose.

ACCESS TO the island (under the masterplan will be restricted to two major areas, Ayala Cove and East Garrison. Landing at any other point on the island will not be permitted in order to control use, for fire protection, and for protection of boat owners.

Beaching of boats would also not be permitted, except possibly on the extreme westerly part of Point Blunt where access to the upland is virtually impossible.

Ayala Cove would be the principal landing on the west side of the island and would be available to both tour and private boats. No attempt would be made to provide individual boat slips, but moorings would be available.

A TERMINUS point for the scenic transportation tram would be located here as well as provision for bicycle rentals.

North Garrison is visioned as the one most adaptable for overnight camping. All of the existing buildings in the area will be removed. Because of limited area, it is felt that multiple-use camping sites should be developed. These would be capable of handling groups or individual families.

It is anticipated that each campsite would be provided with a shelter. These shelters will be of minimum construction with roll-up canvas sides and wood roofs.

A camp store might be provided as well as some type of recreation shelter which could serve as a large dining facility for large groups. It is conceivable that these groups might contract for catering services by a master concessionaire on the island.

EAST GARRISON would be the main entrance on the east side serving both tour and private boats. It was proposed that at least two tour boats would be provided here, along with individual anchorages for private boats. Plans for a more elaborate marina were dropped.

There is opportunity at this area to develop overnight facilities other than camping. It is visualized that this might be done by converting the existing officers housing into overnight accommodations. Also an interpretive center would be located here and perhaps the main headquarters for the island, as well as a campfire center and possibly a small restaurant.

OUR CONVERSATION with Harry Dean took place just prior to the meeting at which the State Parks and Recreation Commission approved the master plan, after first revising downward from 10,000 to 7,000 the maximum number of persons to be accommodated daily on the island park, eliminating the east side marina, and making other changes.

Convention accommodations and some other facilities had been deleted earlier.

Despite the changes made by the commissioners, some conservation groups continued to oppose the master plan and its development proposals, holding that the island should be retained insofar as possible in its natural state.

AND TIBURON City Councilman Anne Ellinwood presented a Tiburon resolution urging that there be day use only of the island.

"Our big headache," Harry Dean has emphasized, "is the securing of a mainland base for warehousing, docking and employee parking." Tiburon, he said, had indicated it was not interested in providing a parking area for Angel Island.

CONTACTED BY this writer, Tiburon City Manager Lawnence Rose said: "I'd have to agree with that conclusion," and pointed out that the council and other town officials "must consider the island development program from all its aspects" and not just the tourist business potential.

In her presentation before the state park commissioners, Councilman Ellinwood had stressed the concern of that city over "impacted" downtown traffic worsened by visitors bound for the island.

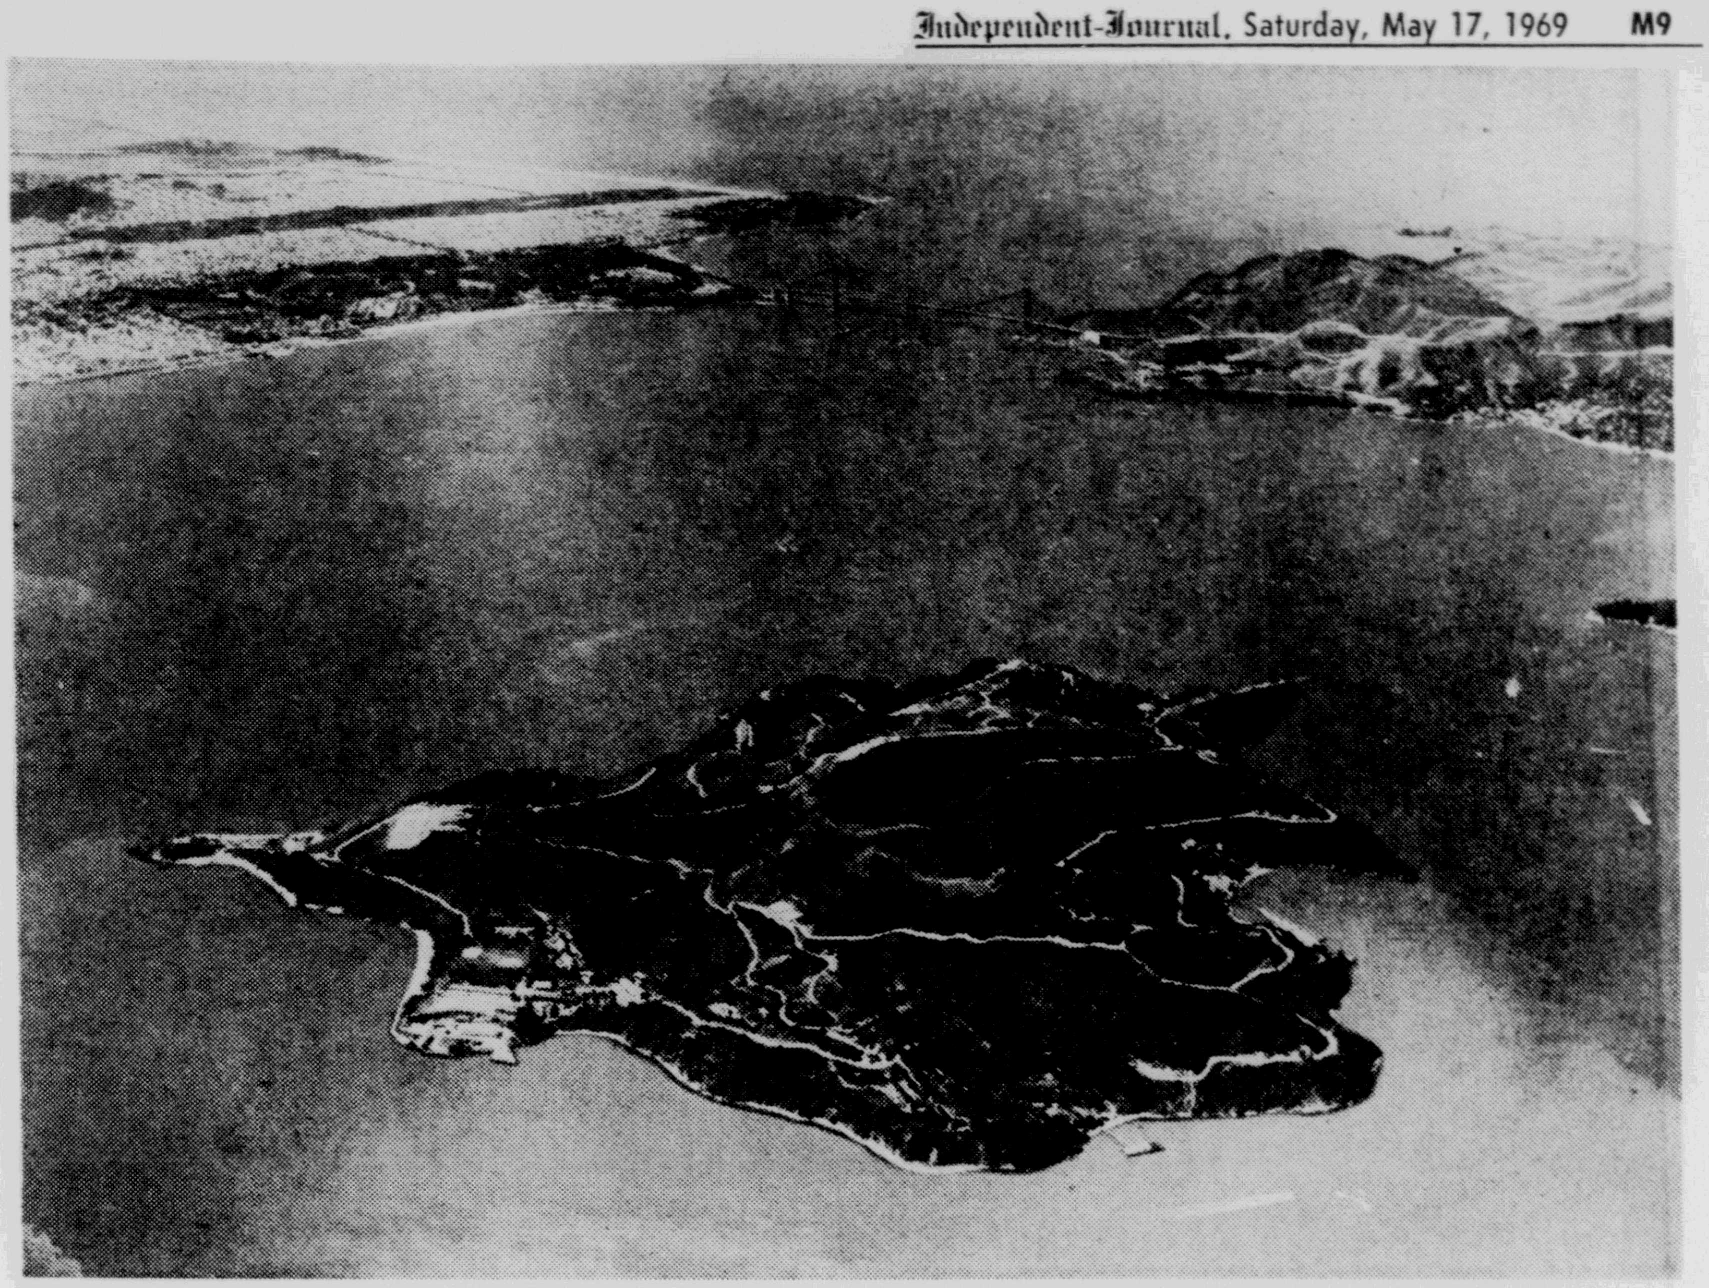
On the other hand, Ben Farlatti, business man, president of Tiburon's chamber of commerce and director on the executive committee of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitor's Bureau, says:

"WE'VE GOT to get a tax base of some sort from Angel Island development which will benefit both the city and the county — taxes on sales and on business licenses."

Implementation of the Angel Island master plan lies yet a good many years in the future, to be carried out as funds become available.

But at least a course has been charted.

And, as we said, some like it. And some do not.



ANGEL ISLAND, a mile off the tip of the Belvedere-Tiburon Peninsula, is now free for civilian development as a recreational center and attraction, with the military no longer interested in it as a missile site.

THIS CALIFORNIA State Department of Parks and Recreation map of the Angel Island State Park master plan was redrawn in December, 1967, to show revisions up to that date. Since then, there were additional revisions prior to its adoption by the State Parks and Recreation Commission that are indicated in part by the cross-outs — elimination of the marina and convention facilities at East Garrison, a downward revision of some capacity figures, etc. Despite these changes, the map gives an instructive general picture of the proposed future development of the island as a recreation area.

Summer Is Fiesta Time In Mexico; Here's A Sampling

There's Everything From Flying Birdmen To July Fourth Picnic

Are feathered men flying around your head? And little people splashing you with water for no reason at all?

And did you say that you just saw a statue riding through the street in a white Cadillac?

No, you're not going out of your mind.

Instead, you're in Mexico, enjoying some of the zaniest, most exciting festivals this side of the moon in June and July. Here's what you can look forward to, according to Mexicana Airlines, which provides jet flights to Mexico from Los Angeles, Chicago and San Antonio.

THE MOVEABLE Feast of Corpus Christi comes early this year, falling on June 6. For centuries, it has been the traditional day when the "valadores" or "flying birdmen" perform near Veracruz in the town of Papantla, the vanilla bean capital of the world.

Once seen only there and in the special plaza in Mexico City, reserved for them since preconquest and colonial days, the voladores gained world-wide fame through their sensational pole dance at the New York World's Fair, and most recently, at Hemis-Fair in San Antonio.

On a tiny disc atop the tallest tree which can be found in the forest and brought to Papantla's plaza, a flute-playing Totonac Indian stomps his feet while four feathered friends leap off and sail into space. Tied securely at the waist by ropes entwining the pole, they encircle it 13 times in descending to the ground 90 feet below.

PROGRESS HAS brought a nightly performance of the birdmen to an Acapulco hotel for those who can't visit Papantla on Corpus Christi Day.

Mexico City turns off its many fountains on June 24 — for that is St. John the Baptist Day, when children revel in dousing passersby with water. For this holiday, many Mexicans visit nearby spas, of which the country has hundreds.

During late June in the Guadalajara area there are many fiestas to greet the little Virgin of Zapopan, who leaves her own Basilica to go visiting all the churches of the Jalisco capital until Oct. 12.

For pilgrims who insist on visiting her high altar when she is gone, there is a stand-in image for the revered original who meanwhile travels from church to church in a white Cadillac.

JULY IN Mexico's capital will start off with a bang at the annual Fourth of July picnic held on the grounds of the American High School July 5 this year. Many residents of Mexico see one another only at this picnic when such north of the border organizations as the American Legion, Daughters of the American Revolution and others join with south of the border Shriners, Salvation Army, Boy and Girl Scouts and a dozen more groups in the American Society-sponsored event.

Bands play, the ambassador speaks, awards are given to outstanding students at the American School Foundation, of which half the students are Mexican, and cooperating organizations open booths selling hot dogs, hamburgers and baked beans a la Boston. There are baseball games, contests and the old reliable sack races.

It's such an important fund-raising event that the sponsors take out insurance against loss due to rain.

ELSEWHERE, there's the Feast of the Virgin of Carmen, with particularly lively celebrations in the gulf port of Isla del Carmen. These usually start a week before July 16.

Santa Ana Chiautempan, an easy drive from Mexico City, celebrates the feast of its patr ness for several days arou July 26.

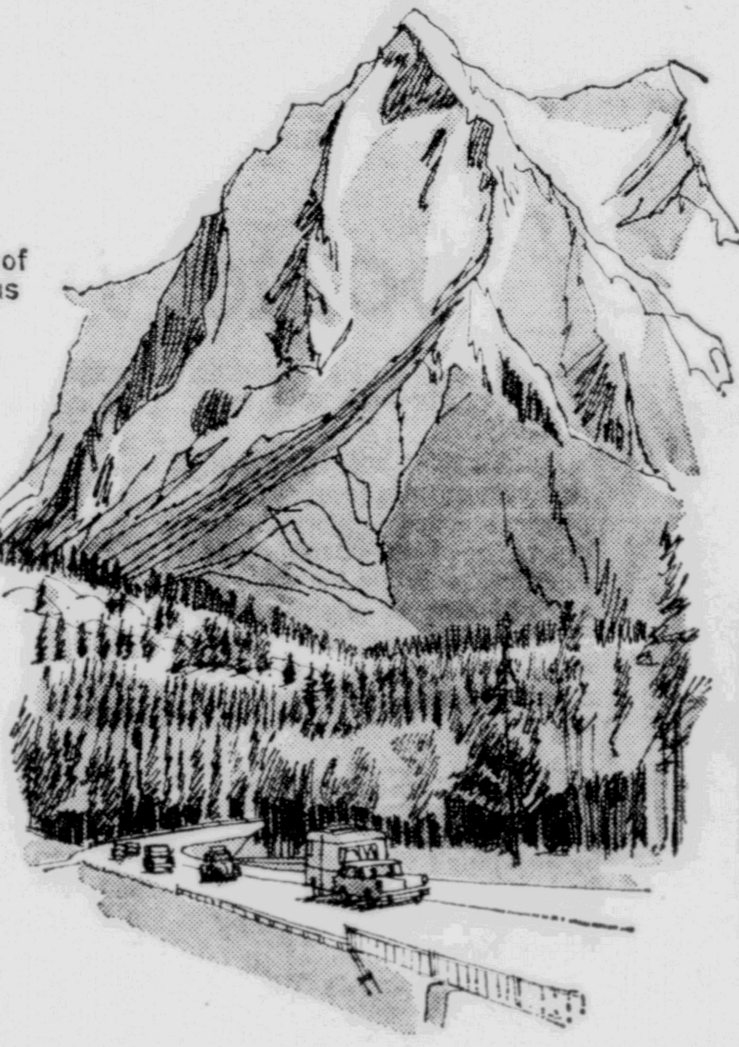
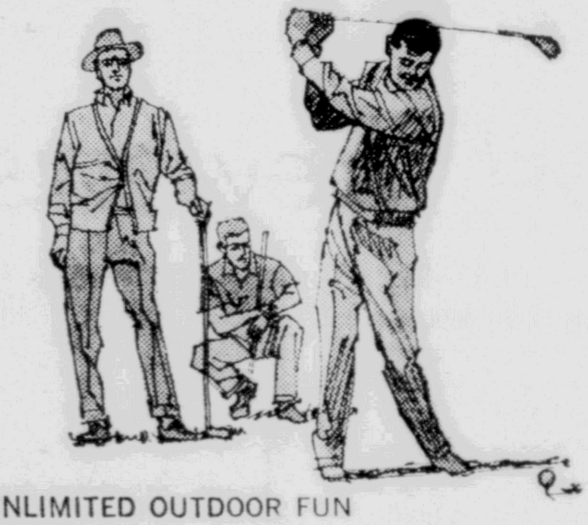
UNSPOILED SCENIC GRANDEUR

In British Columbia, you can get back to nature in some of the finest scenic and recreational areas on earth, from the magnificent mountain reaches of the Rogers Pass to the vast wilderness area of Manning Park. Excellent roads, numerous camping and picnic sites make it easy for you to leave the daily bustle for a holiday in the grand outdoors.





UNLIMITED OUTDOOR FUN

From the resort-rimmed lakes of the Okanagan Valley to the sandy beaches of Vancouver Island, British Columbia offers endless opportunity for swimming, boating and water-skiing. There's great trout and salmon fishing, too . . . golf on some of the world's loveliest courses . . . and scenic adventures like the 330-mile cruise along the fabled Inside Passage.

Discover what vacations are all about – send today for our full-color Visitor's Kit. Then start planning your trip to beautiful British Columbia.

FASCINATING CITIES

Vancouver, on the southern mainland, boasts one of the finest harbour-and-mountain settings in the world. Its fabulous parks and beaches are matched by an exciting, cosmopolitan atmosphere and sparkling night life. Across Georgia Strait on Vancouver Island is the capital city of Victoria, aptly called "Canada's City of Gardens".

FRIENDLY FOREIGN CHARM

You'll notice touches of British tradition throughout the province, particularly in Victoria, where Old English shops and Victorian landmarks co-exist with ultra-modern hotels, motels and office towers. A quaint custom you'll really appreciate: the currency exchanges in your favor.

COLORFUL GOLD RUSH TOWNS

At Fort Steele in the East Kootenays and Barkerville in the Cariboo, you can re-live British Columbia's colorful past. Both centres are old-time Gold Rush towns, now extensively restored and featuring daily music hall shows, stage coach rides and a rich assortment of relics from a century ago.

The Land Of Black Magic And Duvalier

One of the more curious and intriguing products of this spring publishing season has to be "The Invisibles: Voodoo Gods in Haiti" by Francis Huxley.

The son of Sir Julian and nephew of Aldous Huxley, himself an anthropologist of considerable repute, spent nine months in the Caribbean country. He was there, not as a tourist, but as an observer, with voodoo as his principal interest. And before he left Haiti he was more than a spectator. He had been an active participant in voodoo rites.

To an astonishing degree, Francis Huxley succeeded in winning the confidence of the Haitians, to the extent that he was permitted to attend rituals and hear secrets that few other caucasians have ever shared.

For his book Huxley deliberately has chosen a narrative technique. He gives us factual, very detailed accounts of what he saw and did in one experience with black magic and metaphysics after another. The accumulative effect leaves the reader himself almost entranced, as weird is piled on weird, mysterious on mysterious. Huxley largely withholds his conclusions until the book's closing chapter, and one is not certain until then whether he has become cynic or convert.

What are those conclusions?

"The secret in voodoo was not the knowledge of passwords, initiates' gestures and the like, but an internal process which the rites could encourage and often stimulate, and which was secret only because everyone had to find out for themselves," he writes.

Every ceremony of voodoo, he continues, has as its purpose "a process of incubation" — to invoke a particular loa (spirit god) into possessing or mounting a human being or servitor, so that the person then takes on the character of that loa and acts and speaks as that god."

"The loa are the fruit of the ceremony," he explains, "and could not exist without it; they exist because the ritual has heated the dancers in their exertions, infected them with their peculiar rhythm (set by the drums), and at last confused them into the ultimate obedience of possession."

The loa then, Huxley concludes, "not only can inhabit anyone but do inhabit everyone. Every pattern of muscular tension betrays some hidden phychological attitude . . . . The problem facing voodoo is to allow the force of these buried attitudes to be acted out." Hysterical conversion, he says, is but a partial explanation. What occurs is a wedding of conscious attitudes, including the carefully learned characteristics of the loas, to corresponding unconscious attitudes, with a real possession then resulting.

"The morality of voodoo thus has its own laws, sadly complicated by the poverty of the island and terrifying inheritance from the days of slavery," Huxley asserts.

Huxley becomes difficult to understand and accept when he engages in more fragile analysis of some of the special aspects of voodoo such as the use of fire and water.

His book is important, not alone for what it tells us about black magic practices, but also for what it tells us about Haiti and Haitians. Their plight is not a happy one. Saddled with the despotic government of Francois Duvalier, living in abject poverty and filth, the Haitians must also carry the additional burdens of rampant superstition and fear.

An assessment of one magistrate of voodoo and its practitioners seems fully justified: "They are a vice. They do nothing but draw Haiti back into the darkness."

It is a classic example of a religion turned demoralizing instead of uplifting.

Say the Haitians themselves: "Why is this? Why are we so miserable?" And: "You'd say really that God put a curse on this country." And: "Don't trust Haitians. . . . They're earthworms, they're poison."

Tourists are captivated by the beauty of the Haitian landscape and climate, the quaintness of the villages and farms, the handsomeness of the people. But underneath this glossy veneer is a wretched government, a squalid standard of living, and a black magic mixed with metaphysics that infects the country and controls the national pulse, encouraging inertia, defeat, fear, suspicion, avarice, dishonesty and an unrealistic remanticism.

"We are well called Haitian because we all hate each other," runs a Haitian proverb.

With unhappy people like these living in hunger, filth and ignorance and under a tyrant's yoke, barely off our Atlantic coast, one wonders why we have had to go thousands of miles across the Pacific to find a people to help with our men and money. The Vietnamese were never in danger of falling to the dismal level of misery that is already the daily experience and ordeal of Haitians.

Short Reviews Of Some New Reading

Genius And Humility

EXPERIENCES by Arnold Toynbee; Oxford University Press, 417 pages, $8.75. Reviewed by Jeff Greer.

An autobiography, a slim book of poetry (if you're classicist enough to read it), one man's views on religion and more of the insights to world history that have made Toynbee famous, give this book's buyer a lot for the money.

The genius and the humility of the man can be amazing: his crediting his insight of the past and present to a classical education and long, searching down-to-earth trips through the Old World and Asia, and his glimpses of Man's future to a "third Greek education" at the hands of metropolitan planner C.A. Doxiadia are typical. Also typical is his gentle lament that his aversion to mathematics and science robbed him of a chance better to understand the future.

Such touches mollify the concern that most American readers must feel when Toynbee holds up to them the mirror that shows how most of the world regards the U.S. -- as a militaristic power wearing the mantle of the Axis and other conquerors.

Although warning that words he wrote in 1968 may be outdated by mid-1969 publication of his book, Toynbee's evaluation of the Southeast Asia and Mideastern turmoils still holds up remarkably well.

And the personal philosophy octogenarian Toynbee has achieved may give him the strength to face whatever the world faces in eternity.

A Fond Look

So many books have been written about California that the subject might be supposed to be more worked out than the gravel of the Mother Lode streams. But W. H. Hutchinson, Chico writer and teacher, has come up with one a little different.

His "California: Two Centuries of Man, Land, and Growth in the Golden State" is a fond look at our state, with enough history to put it in perspective.

Hutchinson is primarily a reporter, and a good one. He reports the accomplishments and misadventures of Californians from the dons to the developers without ever mounting the soapbox to launch into lectures.

The result is an appreciation of the achievements and the present problems of this land of ours. Hutchinson's "California" is probably the most realistic appraisal of the state ever to see print. And on top of that, it is written breezily and very readably.

Besides being well illustrated, the volume also contains appendices listing California governors — both Spanish and American — listing the dates of establishment of pueblos and missions, formation of counties, etc. It thus provides a bonus as a handy reference work.

Esthetic Gardening

The publisher offers this as having been "created for everyone who has ever loved a garden," and adds:

"It is an unusual book, more concerned with the art of gardening than with its techniques, more concerned with the gardener's feelings than with his skills."

And concludes that it is "the most beautiful book of gardens and flowers ever produced."

Whether that self-praise is fully justified or not, unquestionably the book is a most impressive addition to the ranks of large, quality gift volumes, particularly from the pictorial standpoint.

It is a collaborative endeavor on the part of nature photographer Josephine von Miklos and writer Evelyn Fiore. They have set out to capture something of "the history, the beauty, the riches" of the "Gardener's World." Thanks to Miss von Miklos' camera artistry, and to the care taken in the reproduction of her photographs, most of them in color, the beauty and the riches are there. They are less successful with the history, because of the scope of their subject, but Mrs. Fiore's text nevertheless makes interesting and informative reading.

They begin with the early gardens of antiquity and the Middle Ages, illustrated with reproduced art treasures. Next come the stories of some of the more magnificent and famous gardens of our own era. A wonderfully illustrated chapter tells the story of "the cycle of life" in the plant world. And the remainder of the book is given over to plantings for particular environments, plus special material on flowers in the cities and inside the home, closing with a chapter on the spiritual importance to man of the garden as a place for meditation and silence.

Not to be confused with manuals on "how to garden," the book is a tastefully and beautifully done exploration of the more esthetic side of gardening. And the Von Miklos photos are superb.

Boyd Stumbles

THE FANTASY WORLD OF PETER STONE AND OTHER FABLES by Malcolm Boyd; Harper & Row, 120 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Rev. Malcolm Boyd, the non-conformist Episcopal priest, burst upon the public conscience with his best-selling "Are You Running With Me, Jesus?" Unfortunately, ever since, Father Boyd has been more stumbling than running, and he still hasn't found his footing in this little book.

Father Boyd has created a series of small stories, or as he prefers, fables, to illustrate myths and foibles of our contemporary society -- the pressure of conformity, race prejudice, overly-organized religion, etc. The technique sounds imaginative enough. But, unhappily, as used here, it seems simplistic and condescending. And one begins to think that there is still a lot to be said of the old-fashioned sermon.

Poetry Omnibus

ELIZABETH BISHOP: THE COMPLETE POEMS by Elizabeth Bishop; Farrar, Straus, and Giroux, 210 pages, $7.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Back in 1955 a combined edition of "North & South" and "A Cold Spring" won for Elizabeth Bishop the Pulitzer Prize, an award much applauded by her fellow poets.

This omnibus reprints that work plus a subsequent collection "Questions of Travel," and additional poems until now unpublished.

There's a conversational quality to Mrs. Bishop's poems, That, however, should not be taken to mean that her writing is commonplace. It is a vibrant kind of conversation, in which she takes note of things around her in a pointed, yet fresh manner and style that capture our ears and minds.

When she asks: "Oh, why should a hen have been run over on West 4th Street in the middle of summer?," we share her curiosity. And when she writes: "Oh, but it is dirty. — this little filling station, oil-soaked, oil-permeated to a disturbing over-all/black translucency/ Be careful with that match!," we too experience her impressions and concern.

Unquestionably, Elizabeth Bishop is a poet gifted with an unusual talent for communication. When she speaks, we understand perfectly what she is saying. And somehow, it always seems exactly right.

A World Sliding Toward War, And Mediocrity At The Brakes

By DON KEOWN

BRITISH PRIME MINISTER Neville Chamberlain, left, and German Chancellor Adolf Hitler were in a grim mood when they faced the camera in 1938 prior to the signing of the Munich agreement that resulted in the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia. Leonard Mosley has written a history of a Europe sliding toward World War II in his "On Borrowed Time."

ON BORROWED TIME by Leonard Mosley; Random House, 508 pages, $8.95.

Of World War II, Leonard Mosley writes: "It was Adolf Hitler's war. . . . " But he adds that "the weakness, stupidity, ignorance and maladroitness" of men in power in Great Britain and France did much to encourage the German madman.

The summarization is from Mosley's "On Borrowed Time," a sweeping but carefully documented overview by the London Daily Express correspondent and critic of the momentous events of 1938 and 1939 that led, miscalculation by miscalculation, to the most devastating war mankind has ever endured.

Germany's players were Hitler, irrational but shrewd, utterly incapable of morality, and his sychopantic court of like evil souls headed by the scheming Joacham von Ribbentrop and the clownish Hermann Goring.

England's representatives were Neville Chamberlain and Lord Edward Halifax, as naive a pair as ever directed the affairs of any government. But Mosley shows that Chamberlain was an habitual practitioner of deceit as well.

In France the cards were dealt to Edouard Daladier, capable of brief flashes of conscience and insight, but vacillating and inconsistent, and Georges Bonnet, a defeatist of the first and worst order.

In Italy, Benito Mussolini alternately blustered and cringed, a cowardly blowhard without a worthwhile card in his hand, and with his incompetent son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, as his No. 2 man.

In Moscow, there were Josef Stalin — "a wicked old scoundrel" — and the equally cynical and inscrutible Vyacheslav Molotov, playing their cards closely and ruthlessly.

Across the Atlantic, Franklin D. Roosevelt had perhaps the clearest understanding of all the heads of major states of the perilous potential of Naziism. But he was hamstrung by the isolationism of his people, typified by his own ambassador to England, Joseph F. Kennedy and by the national hero, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Thus the unbraked world slide toward war was largely a failure in leadership for which the common people were to pay a frightful price.

In reporting that slide, Mosley sweeps aside a number of misconceptions and myths that have grown up around the diplomatic conniving and military maneuvering that preceded hostiities. For instance, the picture of Poland as a small, peaceful, freedom-loving democracy bullied by her neighbor.

Mosley reminds us that Poland was actually an autocracy ruled by an inept military triumvirate. That its anti-Semitism was exceeded in virulence in Europe only by that of Germany. That when the much more democratic, and more formidable militarily, Czechoslovakia fell, victim of German ambition and French and British treachery, Poland unhesitatingly seized the opportunity to grab a share of the spoils.

Then when Hitler turned his greed toward Poland, the response of the Polish leaders was something less than the example of idealism it is sometimes now pictured to have been.

Through blundering, Mosley writes, Chamberlain and Daladier had committed their nations to stake their futures on the fate, and to some extent the decisions, of what was in 1939 "one of the shabbiest and most pathetic nations in Europe." A Ruamanian diplomat said "Poland is the least moral country in Europe" (hardly possible, considering Germany's presence). Mosley speaks often of the "blind and arrogant" Poles. Liddell Hart was somewhat kinder in describing them as "the most romantic and least realistic people in Europe."

It becomes clear that the Poles, or rather their scruffy leaders, contributed substantially to their own downfall, and to the bloodbath for mankind that ensued.

Mosley also calls into question the belief that the surprise 1939 non-aggression pact with Hitler's Germany was entirely a matter of Russian perfidy. He demonstrates that Stalin and his associates had considerable reason for suspecting that Britain and France were plotting to involve Russia and Germany in a war of mutual destruction while they sat by as spectators. He endorses, too, the view that the Soviet Union stood ready to act against German expansion at the time of the Czechoslovakian crisis, but that Britain and France undercut the Communists with the disgraceful surrender at Munich.

Because Mosley's book is both broad in scope and crowded with detail, it is certain to trigger arguments and quibbling. Undoubtedly, the writer has had to choose at times between conflicting sources. And sometimes he has had to speculate to fill historical voids. But his judgment and reasoning seem sound.

Nor has he succumbed to the temptations of national pride and given the British the best of it. Far from it. Even the German side of the picture is accorded objectivity.

As a result, Moeley has written a book of immeasurable historical value that is immensely readable, providing perspective where perspective has been missing.

It is a book, too, that should cause us to bring into question the quality of our present-day world leaders. Are the stupidity, duplicity, arrogance and ambition that spelled disaster in 1938 and 1939 no longer with us in high places? Or are they still here with new faces and in different places, brewing new miseries for mankind?

"REDWOOD COUNTRY and the Big Trees of the Sierra" is a pictorial study by the Sunset editorial staff of the giant coastal redwoods and sequoias that grace our state, although in diminishing numbers.

Prepared under the editorship of Robert Iacopi, it is not a conservationists' appeal, but more a travel guide, telling about the pockets where these largest of all living things still exist and about the environment around them. There is also some colorful history and some interesting botanical information. Suggestions are made for weekend trips and vacations among the big trees. And along with the 100-plus photographs are helpful maps.

Operating on their "home grounds," the Sunset staffers have compiled an enlightening and useful study of the world's most famous trees. And if an outright plea for conservation is not the $1.95 book's purpose, any tool that increases our knowledge of these giants of the forests cannot help but nudge us in that direction. To know them is, for most of us, to appreciate them and to desire their preservation.

SCRIBNER'S HAS published the 28th annual John Findley Green Foundation Lecture, delivered by C. P. Snow Nov. 12, 1968, at Westminister College in Fulton, Mo., as a very small $2.95 booklet under the title "The Stage of Siege."

That is the address in which Snow, stating that "I have been nearer to despair this year than ever in my life," warned that the world is courting massive and disastrous famine with its unchecked population growth and with its inequitable distribution of existing food supplies.

"One hears young people asking for a cause," he said. "The cause is here. It is the biggest single cause in history . . . . Peace. Food. No more people than the earth can take. That is the cause."

NEWEST paperback in the University of California Press Natural History Guides series being edited by Arthur C. Smith is Woodbridge Metcalf's "Introduced Trees of Central California."

Its purpose is to assist in the identification of trees that have been brought in from foreign lands and from other regions of the United States, and that have survived in coastal, central valley and foothill California, and to provide some basic botanical information on these species. There are helpful illustrations by Mary and Fred Pomeroy and Mary Foley Benson.

The book is priced at $2.25.

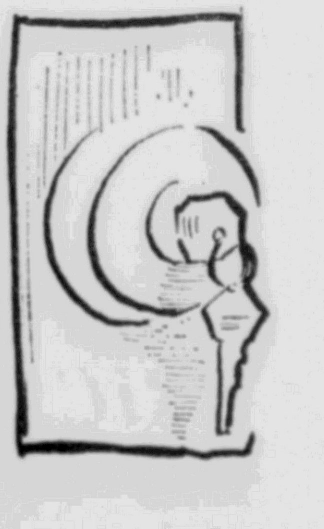
Sleuths & Suspense

ARTHUR by John Alexander Graham; Harper & Row, 179 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

John Alexander Graham, a young mathematics instructor at Wellesley College, has created a most improbable character in Arthur Silverman, Harvard graduate student, and has succeeded in making him interesting to the reader.

Arthur finds himself the alibi witness for one suspect in a beach murder. Intrigued, he involves himself more deeply in the case, and eventually becomes a full-fledged sleuth.

It is highly unlikely that witnesses and suspects would subject themselves to interrogation from an amateur detective without credentials. But in Graham's book they do. And eventually, Arthur, with the aid of his girl friend, solves the puzzle with the help of a clue that is a bit on the obvious side.



Not "top drawer" Harper & Row suspense fiction, perhaps, but a very good performance for a first novelist who, we are happy to learn, plans more. A nice feeling for humor is among his strongpoints.

CAREFREE

The many cares that bothered me
All left me yesterday.
Lost them in hills above the sea,
Lost them in winds at play,
Lost them in pounding of the surf,
While listening to the seas.
Lost them as cattle grazed on turf,
Beneath the towering trees.

Those foolish fears of what might be,
I cast them all away.
Lost them as I gazed out to sea,
Lost them in greening hay.
Lost them in whisper of the trees—
Where fears may die; and I am gay,
And all my thoughts are free.

POINT REYES LOUISA M. BURGER

HI TEMP!

Comes now, Young Spring
With luscious lips
Ready to kiss and
Breasts that are a'dancing.

Blonde, red-flaming hair,
Brunette!

Man, I digs it,
It's in the air!

The Stereo Scene—A Dylan Disc

By MARY CAMPBELL

When a Bob Dylan record comes out, the record world shakes, with or without a concurrent earthquake in California.

Nobody knows what Dylan will do this time; it may be a lot different from what he did the last time; a lot of fans and critics aren't going to like the new direction; eventually other people who record are going to try to do the same thing.

The nasal Midwestern twang is suddenly gone; the voice sounds higher, lighter and as if it had been sweetened with a little maple syrup. Listeners call radio stations. Has he taken voice lessons or diction lessons? Is it really Dylan singing? Some kind of put on? Like nearly every question since the Dylan mystique started, nobody knows for sure. It certainly sounds like diction lessons.

The album is all country. "John Wesley Harding" had a country sound, but there were a couple of songs, like "I Dreamed I Saw St. Augustine" and "Ballad of Frankie Lee and Judas Priest" that had some of Dylan's former obscure imagery.

Nothing is obscure in "Nashville Skyline." The songs are straight out and simple, like "I'll Be Your Baby Tonight." Titles include "To Be Alone with You," "I Threw it all Away," "Tonight I'll Be Staying." It's country love and love lost songs.

"Nashville Skyline Rag" is a pleasing instrumental. "Peggy Day" has a light lyric; "Country Pie" a catchy tune.

This isn't a startling Dylan album. The songs are pleasant but more ordinary than usual. Dylan's voice sounds less distinctive without the twang.

But still this is Bob Dylan and if we don't love the album initially (when Dylan went electric some fans were intensely furious), after a short period of adjustment we'll accept it. Personally, the only Bob Dylan song we ever heard sung by somebody else that we liked better than Dylan doing it himself is "Mr. Tambourine Man" by the Byrds, and we're not always positive about that opinion.

Columbia Records applied for gold record certification for "Nashville Skyline" while it was being shipped to stores.

During the past 10 years, over 200 California swimming pool companies either went under or changed their names. A lot of nice people wound up taking a bath instead of a swim.

The best way to avoid pool sharks and fishy deals is to deal with a pool company whose responsibility is established and documented. Over 40,000 people have made their decision for Anthony pools, the largest pool company in the world. The only one listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock Exchanges. Building pools for 25 years at low competitive prices and providing prompt service and superb engineering—Anthony's reputation is as solid as its pool foundations.

If you're planning to take the plunge, look to Anthony who makes pool buying absolutely sharkproof! Fill out the coupon. Or phone. Now!

How Will Your Garden Look After Spring Has Sprung?

But how will it look this summer? Will it then be as drab and dreary as it it bright and colorful today?

The answers will depend to a large extent upon the number of summer-flowering shrubs you have growing in your landscape, ready to take over after the rhododendrons, azaleas, fuchsias and camellias have completed their color show.

IF A QUICK survey indicates trouble ahead, it is not yet too late to set out shrubs that will produce the needed color.

For instance, the Bottle Brush is a fast grower and a free bloomer. In fact, it blooms several times a year. And it is extremely hardy.

It gets its name from its blooms that resemble the brushes used to wash bottles. And it is available in tree as well as shrub form.

Then there is the Hibiscus which Marinites, with their mild winters, can grow quite successfully. These give you not only spectacular blooms, but outstanding foliage as well and they blend in perfectly with other garden plants.

THE HIBISCUS, incidentally, comes in a myriad of colors—reds, pinks, whites, apricots and golds. And in a variety of flower forms — open singles, single petaled, doubled and ruffled flowers.

Deutzia is a deciduous shrub from the East that is not grown as much in Marin County as it might be probably because Marinites tend to lean toward the evergreens. But it is an excellent choice for planting in front of background shrubs.

It has slender stems that arch up from the base of the plant to about three feet, then curve gracefully into a spread that measures five feet in the largest variety.

THEN THERE IS the Escallonia, especially recommended for coastal gardens. It has a clean appearance with clusters of small white, pink or red urn-shaped flowers.

The Hydrangea is a hardy, round, bushy shrub that has proven itself in Marin County with its cannonballs of bloom that may be white, lavender, red, carmine or deep blue. It prefers partial shade.

Oleanders, on the other hand, thrive in the hot sun and laugh at drouth. They come in several varieties that differ only in flower colors, all of them attractive.

RAPHIOLEPSIS IS a long-blooming, low-to-medium height shrub that has long been popular in Marin. These India Hawthornes, as they are also called, have a lustrous foliage and bloom in shades of red and pink. Massed in beds or as part of a foundation planting, they require little attention and bloom and bloom in clusters of flowers.

These summer-flowering shrubs are a versatile lot, useful as foundation plantings, against fences, on slopes and as masses of color under trees and in other garden spots. While most of them prefer a sunny location, there are those that thrive in shade.

THE OLEANDER is a summer-blooming shrub that laughs at heat and drouth. It has a multitude of landscape uses including as a screen for privacy, as a large shrub for foundation plantings and as a flowering focal point in the garden. Oleanders are available in nurseries now in good supply. (Photo courtesy of California Association of Nurserymen)

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

- ✓ You can't afford to let down in your battle with bugs and snails, especially bad this spring. Keep up a regular control program of sprays and pellets. Pay particular attention right now to twig girdlers in your Tam Junipers. Lindane is the proper spray.
- ✓ If you failed to plant tuberous begonia tubers earlier, you can still enjoy them by setting out the young plants available in nurseries.
- ✓ Evergreen clematis vines should be pruned and thinned after they complet their main spring bloom.
- ✓ The setting out of such bed ding plants as marigold petunias, asters, vinca dwarf dahlias, lobelias, zi nias and fibrous begoni continues to be in order.
- ✓ There is still time to pla gladiolus bulbs. Take sp cial note of the magnifice colors of the recent intr ductions.
- ✓ If you failed to plant tho roses during the barer planting season, you'll fi a good selection availa now in containers.

Some Facts About Roses In An Annual Publication

The world's largest rose tree is 83 years old and covers 1,750 square feet.

The 54th edition contains among 1:3 articles a complete report on the Fourth Inter tional Rose Conference, h last year in London, and scriptions and numerical rati of all new roses developed the United States in the five years.

Copies may be purchased $5 from the American Rose ciety, 4048 Roselea Place, lumbus, Ohio, 43214, or c with a $7.50 membership.

Getting A Kitchen Ready For Painting

Although it usually is smaller than most other rooms in the house, the kitchen is the most difficult to paint.

Or, to be more accurate, it is the most difficult to prepare for painting — and it is the surface preparation that determines, to a large degree, the success of the project.

It is rare indeed when the walls and ceiling of a kitchen do not have to be washed thoroughly before painting. If the grease and dirt that normally accumulate on the kitchen walls and ceiling are not removed, the new paint will not adhere, or, if it does, the grease will work its way to the surface weeks or months later.

Generally, a little scrubbing with a mild detergent and water will remove all traces of grease and dirt, but stubborn cases may require one of the special soaps made for this purpose and available in hardware and paint stores.

All cracks and crevices should be filled with spackling compound or patching plaster. Such patches should be touched up with a sealer before painting. However, a few of the new paints are said not to require such a sealer, so read the label on the paint can to determine whether it is necessary.

Since paint will not adhere to overly slick surfaces, any high gloss remaining from the previous paint job should be dulled with fine sandpaper or coated with a special liquid compound.

Semi-gloss and gloss enamels are preferred for kitchens because they stand up so well under repeated washings and because they prevent moisture vapor from entering the walls. Semi-gloss coatings, once available only in oil paints, now come in odorless paints and latexes, among others.

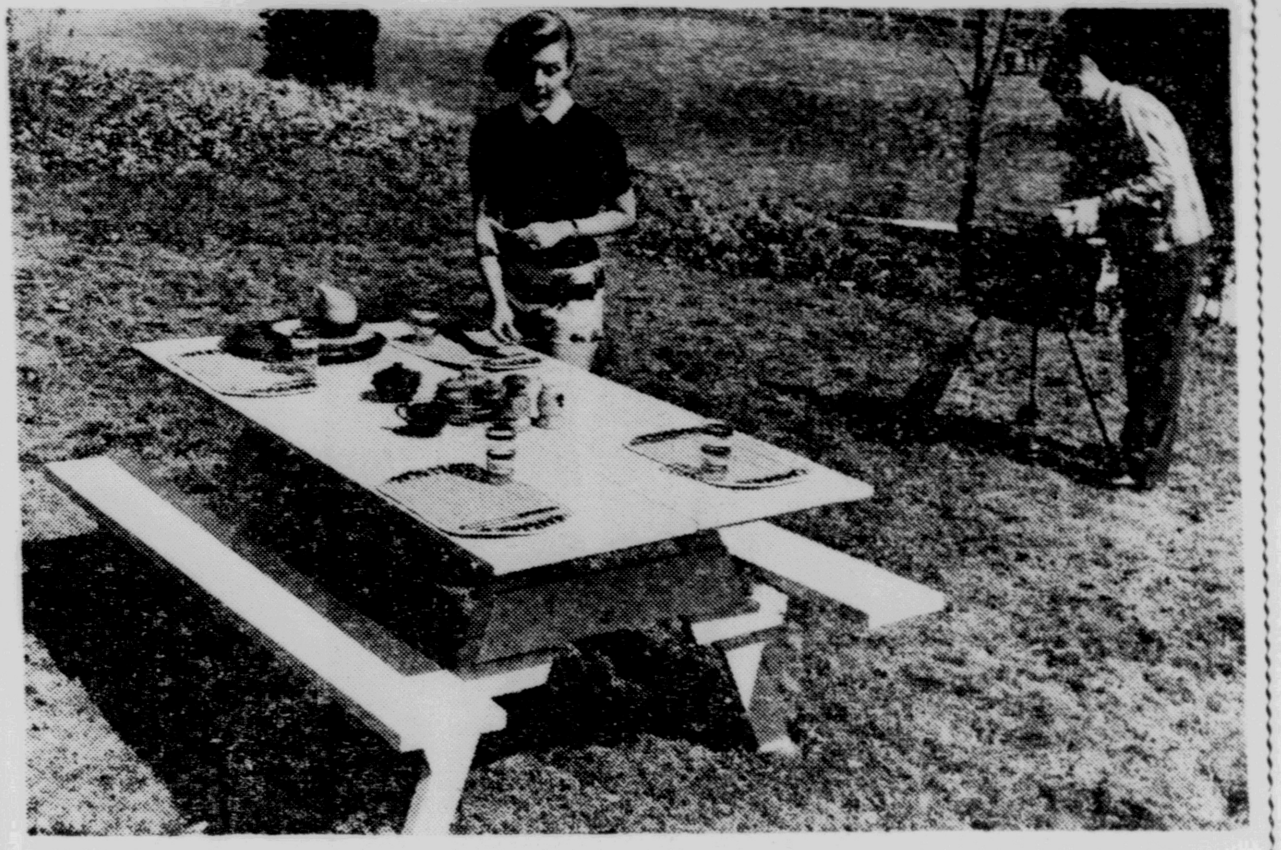
Also, many housewives prefer to stay with the same flat paints used in other rooms in the house. In that event, it is doubly important that a top quality paint be selected, since it is likely to be more washable and stain-resistant than a cheap grade.

Should you use an odorless paint, remember that you must also use an odorless thinner, preferably of the same brand.

If you use turpentine, mineral spirits or any similar thinner, you will have added a smell and defeated the entire purpose of buying that particular type of paint.

Enamel should be flowed onto the surface. Fill the brush generously and flow it on in long, smooth strokes. Do not refill the brush, but cross-stroke over the covered area. Then, with the almost dry brush, stroke long and smooth again. This method will prevent runs or snags.

The same principle holds true if you use a roller. Mohair rollers are especially good for applying enamel.



AN OUTDOOR TABLE of rugged construction can turn the backyard into a pleasurable picnicking and barbecue area. You can build this one yourself by sending 75 cents to Independent-Journal, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., 10510, and asking for Picnic Table Pattern No. 323. The table is built from stock lumber, and has a two-part top hinged at the center so that it can be folded when not in use, protecting both sides from the weather.

New Plastic Patio Covers Are Spectacular In Color

If you think that corrugated plastic for patio covers comes only in the old-fashioned kelly green and vinegar yellow, you are wrong.

And if you think that this much-used material comes only in the monotonous waves we've all seen for years, you're behind the times.

New lines of plastic patio roof materials offer the style-conscious home owner all he could want — bold new stripes and colors, plus a distinctive new shape.

Red Oak has broad Indian red and sandstone stripes with narrow black. Autumn Leaf has broad burnt orange and sandstone with narrow black. And Bluegrass has broad cerulean and avocado stripes with narrow stripes of the same colors.

This plastic material is so good-looking, you'll want to use it for carports, canopies over doors and as awnings.

FOR USE IN the patio, you might want to put several lights above the roof — not below it — to enhance the stripes in a dramatic way.

And there's an added practical benefit — the translucent panels will diffuse the light throughout the patio with a pleasurable softness and mellowness.

If you use the plastic as a carport covering or awnings in the front of the house, use a decorator's trick: repeat the most intense color in the plastic as the color for your front door.

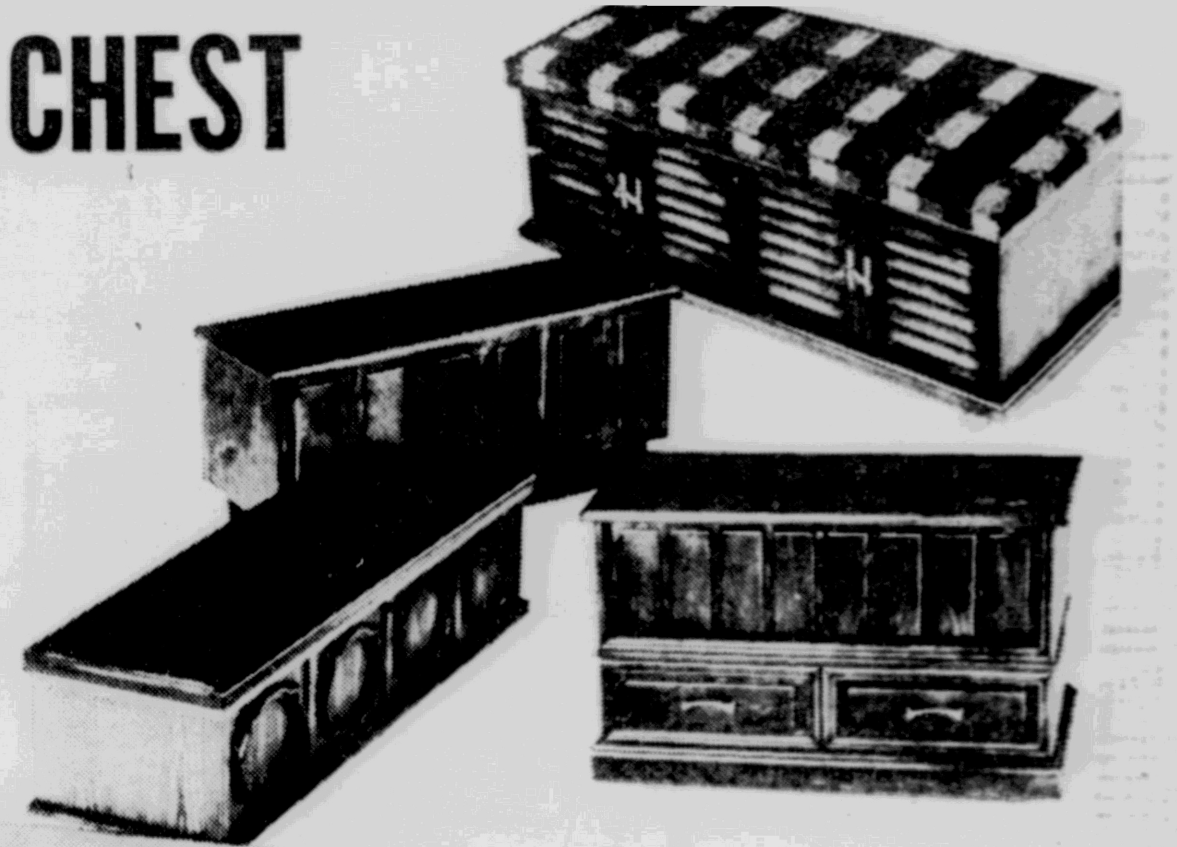
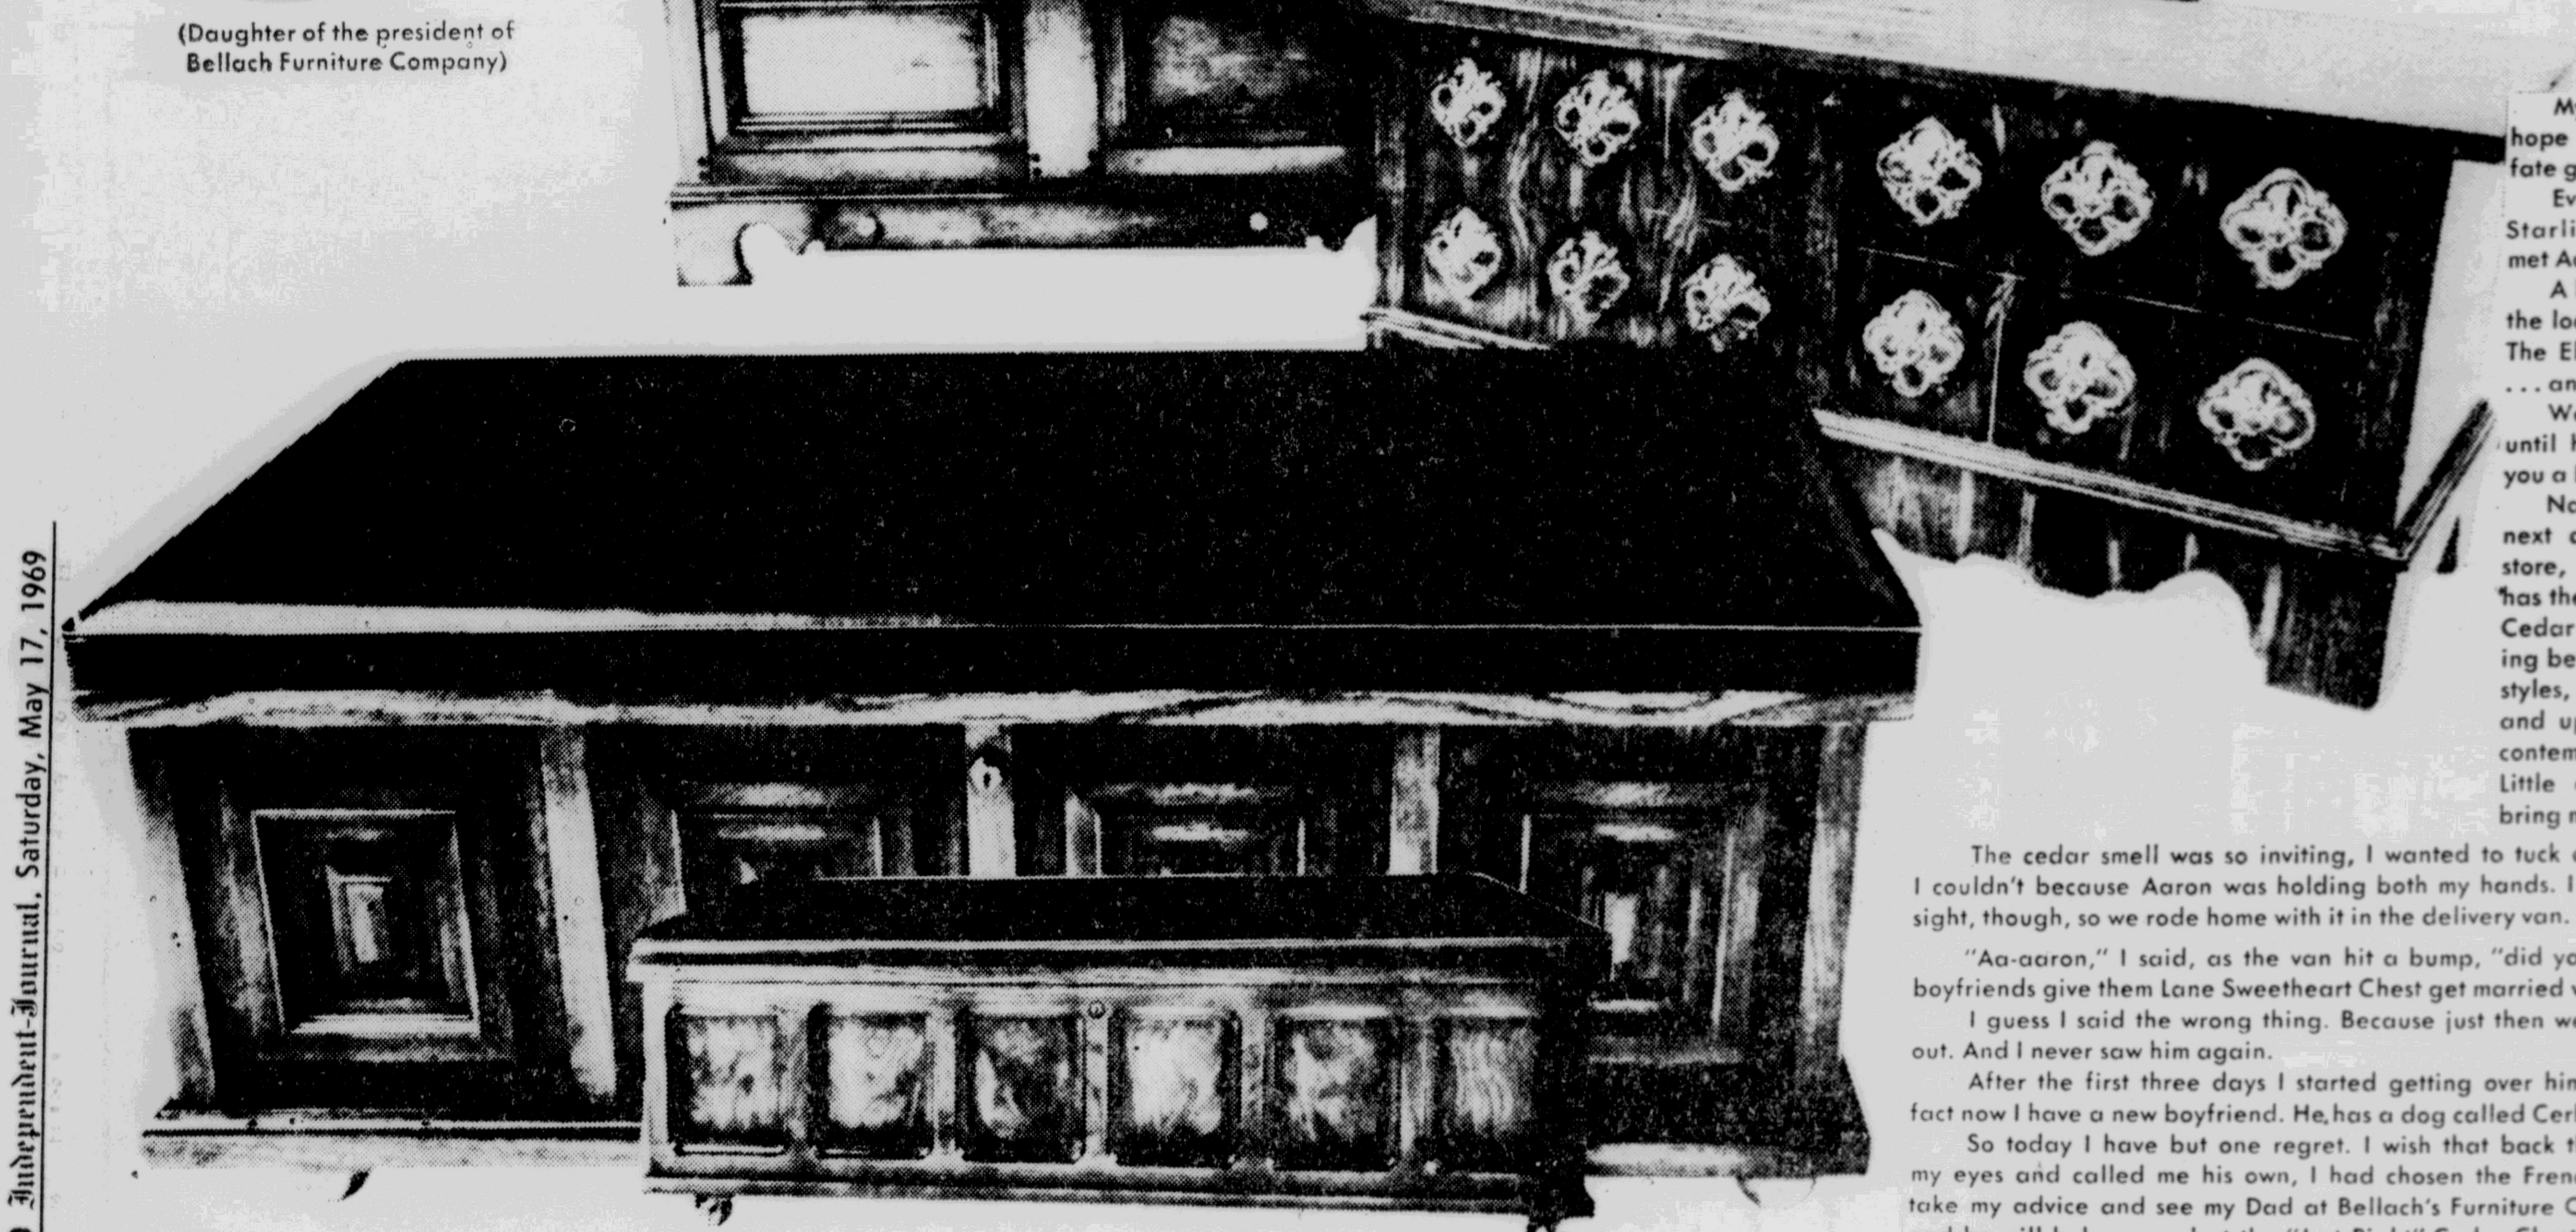
A BOY GAVE ME A LANE SWEETHEART CHEST and THEN DIDN'T MARRY ME!

By Sandy Bellach

(Daughter of the president of Bellach Furniture Company)





My story is a humiliating one. Only the hope of saving other girls from a similar fate gives me the strength to reveal it.

Everything began on the night of the Starlight-in-the-Gym Dance, when I first met Aaron Koster, that cad.

A haunting perfume hung in the air . . . the lockers were decked with tinfoil stars . . . The Electronic Nebbisch played on and on . . . and he swept me off my feet.

We danced—Ah, how we danced!—until he whispered, "Sandy, what if I give you a Lane Sweetheart Chest?"

Naturally, I fainted. And naturally, the next day, we went straight to my Dad's store, Bellach's Furniture Company which has the largest selection of Lane Sweetheart Cedar Chests in Marin, and started choosing between contemporary styles and period styles, caster feet and fixed feet, wood tops and upholstered tops. We finally found a contemporary model that seemed perfect. Little did I know the anguish it was to bring me!

The cedar smell was so inviting, I wanted to tuck a sweater into it then and there, but I couldn't because Aaron was holding both my hands. I did refuse to let the chest out of my sight, though, so we rode home with it in the delivery van.

"Aa-aaron," I said, as the van hit a bump, "did you know that 80% of the girls whose boyfriends give them Lane Sweetheart Chest get married within the year?"

I guess I said the wrong thing. Because just then we came to a stoplight and Aaron got out. And I never saw him again.

After the first three days I started getting over him, and going out with other boys. In fact now I have a new boyfriend. He has a dog called Cerberus, and French furniture.

So today I have but one regret. I wish that back then, when Aaron Koster looked into my eyes and called me his own, I had chosen the French Provincial Sweetheart Chest. Girls take my advice and see my Dad at Bellach's Furniture Co., 777 Francisco Blvd., San Rafael, and he will help you select the "Just Right" Cedar Chest to fit your personal needs and who knows what will happen after one year.

SIX-CAR CRASH — The wreckage in which a Catholic brother died and a County of Marin property assessor was critically injured is inspected on Highway 101 by a California Highway Patrol officer.

Six-Car Crash Kills Catholic Teacher, Hurts County Aide

A Catholic brother was killed and a San Rafael man critically injured last night in a six-car accident on Highway 101 south of Novato.

The California Highway Patrol reported the injured man, Edward Dean Spruance, 53, of 36 Summit Avenue, was inexplicably going north in a southbound lane when his van smashed head-on into a car driven by Brother Roger Kyran, 40, head of the art department at Sa. Mary's College, Moraga.

Spruance, thrown from his van, was reported in "very critical" condition and still in surgery at Marin General Hospital early today. A hospital spokesman reported he had severe injuries to his head, arms and legs. Spruance is a property assessor for the County of Marin and a retired Navy captain.

After the initial crash, which occurred at 11:15 p.m. about three miles north of the Manuel T. Freitas Parkway overpass, Brother Kyran's car hit the rear of a highway patrol car driven by Patrolman Donald L. Dixon, 42, of Santa Rosa, officers said.

Dixon and three other patrolmen in the car were on their way to assist in antiriot duty at Berkeley.

Then a car driven by Ronald Duane Reinartz, 30, of 5 Womack Court, Novato, attempting to avoid the accident, slid into the left side of the Kyran car, while an auto driven by Roland V. Phillips, 30, of San Jose, also trying to avoid the pileup, slid sideways and was struck by a car driven by James Keith Barker, 16, of 342 Hyacinth Way, San Rafael.

Brother Kyran, who was Ernest Joseph Aviani Jr. before he entered the order of Brothers of Christian Schools in 1948, was on his way home from a visit with his father, Ernest Joseph Aviani Sr. of Boyse Hot Springs.

A native of San Francisco, he took his final vows in 1954 and had been a professor at St. Mary's since then. Currently, he was studying at Stanford University for his doctorate and had planned to go to Germany for additional work this summer.

His death was the 12th on Marin roads so far this year, compared with nine at this time last year.

Deputies Battle Gang On Tam; One Hurt

A band of 40 youths, many of them juveniles, led a rock throwing attack on two sheriff's deputies last night on Mount Tamalpais, officers said.

The two officers, Deputies R. C. Russell and William Wallace, were both kicked in the back and Russell was also struck with a rock in the left shoulder, deputies said.

One of the alleged assailants, Terrence Francis Rilla, 19, of 3 Maple Avenue, Kentfield, was taken to Marin General Hospital and treated for a cut scalp, then taken to Marin County Jail.

Booked into County Jail on suspicion of felony assault of a police officer, resisting arrest, disturbing the peace and curfew violation were Rilla and his brother, Michael Lane, 20, of the same address. The younger Rilla remained in jail in lieu of $3,125 bail; his brother made $652 bail.

Booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on the same charges were Daniel B. Murdock, 17, of 17 Olive Avenue, Larkspur; Joseph Philip Giobanini, 17, of 56 Diane Lane, Larkspur, and William J. Birdsall, 17, of Kentfield.

"There will be some more arrests today," said Sgt. Robert Bertrand, investigating officer.

Evidence of the bombardment were Russell's and Wallances' patrol cars, standing unuseable in the sheriff's department parking lot in San Rafael today.

Both autos had smashed windshields and Wallace's 1969 vehicle, which had only been in

Rogers Flies Over Viet Delta Area

SAIGON (UPI)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers today made his first trip to the South Vietnamese countryside, flying by U.S. Army helicopter to the Mekong Delta south of Saigon. Heavy security precautions were taken to protect him from possible attack.

While Rogers was paying a visit to the showcase Ba Tri district in Kien Hoa province, 60 miles south of here, President Nguyen Van Thieu told newsmen in Saigon he wants to meet as soon as possible with President Richard M. Nixon.

A U.S. merchant ship was hit by a Communist shell today while moving along the Long Tau River 25 miles southeast of Saigon, wounding two crewmen, one seriously.

The ship was identified as the 8,000-ton SS Jefferson Davis, a

Mountain Play's Premier Tomorrow

The 52nd annual Mountain Play — this year featuring the Czechoslovakian satire "The World We Live In" — will be presented tomorrow and May 25 in the outdoor theater atop Mount Tamalpais.

A cast of more than 120 persons — one of the largest in the history of the play — will perform. Starting time is 2 p.m. Tickets will be available at the gate.

Save-The-Bay Picnics Slated

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tomorrow will be "Ring Around The Bay Day," arranged as a "fun day to dramatize the need for a regulatory agency to save San Francisco Bay."

Special programs are planned at noon at Paradise Beach County Park in Tiburon and at Coyote Point Park in San Mateo, Ed Levin Park at Milpitas, Coyote Hills Park in Fremont and at Provo Park in Berkeley.

The aim will be to encourage enactment by the Legislature of plans and policies of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, which is due to expire this year.

The events are being coordinated by the Stanford Population and Environment Forum, a student-faculty group.

Five Co-eds Suspended Over Pills

Five Terra Linda High School co-eds have been suspended and three of them were treated at Marin General Hospital for being under the influence of drugs and police have apparently linked the drug consumption to the burglary of a Terra Linda pharmacy two weeks ago.

The five girls were suspended by school officials Thursday afternoon and three of them were treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital.

San Rafael police said that they had been aware that 1,000 seconal capsules stolen from the Terra Linda Pharmacy at 655 Del Ganado Road, had been flooding the campus, and had been investigating.

The incident with the girls — whose identities were withheld by school officials and hospital authorities — is the latest in a series which San Rafael police are attributing to the theft of the capsules, known as "Red Dolls."

A 20-year-old San Anselmo youth, Robert West, is still in the intensive care unit at Marin General after taking a number of the capsules Tuesday and Wednesday.

Margaret Rattray, administrative assistant at the high school, said that the administration was "very concerned" with

Marin Judge Orders Creek Work Stopped

Procedure Of Board Opposed

A stop work order against the Army Corps of Engineers on the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control project was issued late yesterday by Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

The order was effective immediately and formal papers will be presented to the contractor at 8:30 a.m. Monday.

Judge Gardiner's action was on a request for an injunction filed yesterday by attorney Roger Kent. Hearing notification procedures followed by the Marin County Board of Supervisors in connection with the Tamalpais Creek phase of the project were questioned in Kent's request for an injunction.

HEARING SET

Judge Gardiner set a hearing on the case for May 23.

The action follows weeks of efforts by residents of Kent Woodlands to stop the corps from destroying trees and foilage at Tamalpais Creek and replacing the natural growth with a green cyclone fence. Last month, several residents trying to guard the creek from cement lining were arrested.

Efforts by residents to get the Marin County Board of Supervisors to stop the work were also futile.

'BETTER DESIGN'

Marty Kent Jones, a leader of the Ad Hoc Citizens Committee to Save Tamalpais Creek, has emphasized the group is not against flood control. "We want flood control, but we want better design," she has said.

The corps had offered an altentative plan for Tam Creek for an extra $100,000 if residents would foot most of the bill. But fund raising attempts produced only $17,000. The corps maintains the project, including th Tamalpais Creek portion, "is essential to flood protection for some 220 homes in the area and for expansion of the College of Marin."

California Campus Tension Boils Over Three Places

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

More than 1,000 students retreated before advancing police outside the UCLA faculty club in Los Angeles. They chanted "pigs off campus" and screamed obscenities as they moved away from the building where a meeting of the board of regents was in progress. California Gov. Ronald Reagan attended the meeting at the 29,000-student campus.

The police swept the street clear of protesters after Chancellor Charles E. Young was drowned out by jeers when he asked the students to disperse.

Police used tear gas to rout 700 Stanford University protesters who set up flaming street barricades to block rush-hour traffic south of San Francisco. The students, protesting war research at the 11,700-student school, retreated to open fields nearby and police ducked hurled rocks as they chased protesters three-quarters of a mile.

Sixteen persons were arrested in the protest.

THE PEOPLE'S PARK — A National Guard soldier and a campus caretaker do their things at the controversial People's Park in Berkeley. Pilot Lands Perfectly — Except Wheels-Up

A San Jose pilot, who forgot to put down his landing wheels, made a beautiful landing at Gnoss Field last night, a spokesman for Marin Aviation reported.

The pilot, whose identity was unknown, was not injured. The aircraft, a Cessna 320, had moderate damage to both propellers and flaps.

New Troubles Could Delay Lunar Orbits

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Technicians stopped a tiny helium leak in the Apollo 10 moonship early today but another potential problem, involving the cabin atmosphere, cropped up to threaten the countdown for Sunday's launch of the final trial run for a manned lunar landing.

Engineers worked steadily to correct the new difficulty without interrupting the countdown, aiming toward a 9:49 a.m. PDT launch tomorrow of Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan.

'WICK' PUZZLE

George E. Low, Apollo spacecraft manager, reported late this morning that an unexplained problem had developed in servicing the "wicks" in the command ship's atmosphere control system.

Low said the "wicks"—porous metal plates which extract moisture from the cabin air—must be thoroughly wetted before launch. For some reason yet undiscovered, he said, the plates were refusing to hold enough water.

"We do not have an indication now why they are not yet properly serviced," he said. "Until they are properly serviced, we cannot proceed with the launch."

TIME TO REPAIR

The countdown was to go into a 10-hour rest period at 4 p.m. today, which officials hoped would provide plenty of time for resolving the problem without a delay in the launch.

The astronauts, meanwhile, took today off. They rested up for the climactic final hours of preparing for the mission the United States hopes will pave the way for a moon landing by Apollo 11 in July.

Weathermen continued to predict satisfactory conditions for the moonport tomorrow and all other aspects of the mission were reported "go."

Apollo 10 is scheduled to orbit the moon a record 32 times and

Another Red Capsule Falls Onto Venus

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviets today dropped their second space capsure in as many days into Venus' atmosphere and hailed the accomplishment as a "wonderful contribution" to science. Western experts said something might have gone wrong.

An announcement from the Soviet news agency Tass said the Venus 6 space capsule parachuted into the planet's cloud bank 130 miles from the point where Venus 5's capsule hit the atmosphere a day earlier.

For 51 minutes, Venus 6 relayed back vital scientific data about the earth's nearest planet neighbor, just as Venus 5 had done for 53 minutes. Then, like Venus 5, today's capsule went dead following its 160 million-mile journey.

Western experts said the two capsules might not have landed softly on the surface as planned, perhaps damaging communications equipment. The Tass announcement did not mention a "soft landing" for either capsule, saying only they had "reached" the planet.

ARETHA FRANKLIN, above, the current queen of soul music, shares the spotlight with Gloria Loring in "The Singers: Two Profiles," a documentary special to be repeated Friday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 7. The one-hour special tells how the singers live and work, and what it takes to make it to the top in what has been called "the loneliest business in the world."

The only medication that

Gets to a Major Cause of Hemorrhoids

Now! Most complete 3-way relief!

This important development in hemorrhoid treatment comes to you after five years of scientific and clinical testing. Not only does Counternoid* work by lessening pain fast, and by coating, soothing, and protecting injured tissue...but unlike every other hemorrhoid product Counternoid also works a third way.

Thanks to an exclusive formula with DSS_{30}™ only Counternoid gets to a major cause of hemorrhoids: painful hard constipation. Without irritating laxative effect. Here's how: In hospital X-ray tests doctors have demonstrated that the remarkable Counternoid formulation with DSS_{30} penetrates in minutes to the top of the rectal area to soften the stool and ease the bowel movement.

So, if you live with the pain and fear of recurring minor hemorrhoid troubles, get temporary relief with medically-tested Counternoid.

Actually, used as directed, Counternoid offers the most complete 3-way relief you can get without a prescription or without surgery. In stainless cream or suppositories.

HEART PATIENT'S CRISIS?

Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's longest-surviving heart transplant patient, wears a mask as he is rushed into Groote Schuur Hospital in Cape Town, South Africa. Demos Threaten To Roadblock Reagan's $6.2 Billion Budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly version of Gov. Ronald Reagan's $6.2 billion budget—certain to become the subject of a partisan fight—was in position today for a vote by the lower House.

But Democrats hinted they might stage a revolt against the $6,227,906,401 spending program for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

They want more emphasis on such urban-oriented problems as unemployment, jobs for youth and housing for the poor. Some of them pledged last year to press for increased attention to these areas.

Democrats also may use the budget, which needs a two thirds vote of the 80-member chamber, to force tax reform from the Republican-controlled Legislature.

SPECIAL ELECTION

The Assembly now is divided 39-39 with two vacancies. An election is scheduled Tuesday to fill the seat vacated by John G. Veneman, undersecretary of health, education and welfare. That will make the lineup 40-39 for the winning party, probably still not enough to unseat Assembly Republicans even with a Democratic victory.

The budget needs 54 votes to pass. This means Republicans will need at least 14 Democratic votes to send the spending program to the Senate.

The Ways and Means Committee yesterday unexpectedly approved the budget on a unanimous voice vote in its new form, $2.3 million more than the original money bill submitted by Reagan.

But Assemblyman Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda, committee vice chairman, said his vote in the panel did not tie him to favoring the bill on the floor.

Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada, Ways and Means chairman, disclosed that Democrats planned to present a "list of demands for changes" when the bill comes up for floor debate.

"The budget is a very tight budget," he said. "I just can't contemplate what the Democrats want. Their arguments generally will be more political than practical."

CAMPUS CURBS

Before acting, the committee adopted a rider by Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Piedmont, to forbid expenditure of any state money for state scholarships, loans, fellowships and grants-in-aid for any student convicted of participating in a violent demonstration.

The Mulford provision makes a presumption that any student who accepts state aid in attending school agrees "to observe the rules and regulations promulgated by the (university or college) governing authority."

The major—and unsuccessful—objections came from Democratic Assemblyman Charles R. Warren, Los Angeles, and John L. Burton, San Francisco. Warren said it added "another penalty" for the poor and Burton objected because it "singles out poor people," who need and get state help.

The rider is similar to a bill introduced by Lanterman and endorsed by the Assembly Select Committee on Campus Disturbances in a report made public Thursday.

In its final act, the committee approved a 5.5 per cent pay boost for 183,500 state employees, including professors at the University of California and state colleges.

Reagan offered the employees a pay raise totaling $61.5 million more than the current payroll. They got $63.5 million. The State Personnel Board had asked for $77.6 million and the California State Employees Association wanted $124.5 million.

Senators Eye Sale Of Part Of Cal Expo

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The future of the California Exposition and Fair remained questionable today after a Senate committee probed the financial condition of what its chairman called "one of the great fiascoes" of the state.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, and the other members of the Finance Committee decided yesterday to hear more about the complicated Cal Expo story before deciding on two budget items.

A $1.13-million item would service exposition bonds. But the future of Cal Expo rests with a $650,000 appropriation to finance it through fiscal 1969-70. Without it, the exposition would have to shut down after this year's state fair, around Labor Day.

"We'll have to figure out how to dispose of something," Collier commented at the end of the two-hour hearing in which legislative analayst A. Alan Post and Finance Department and Cal Expo officials unraveled its financial history.

But Collier refused to say whether he specifically favored selling all or part of the exposition, which last year managed to draw an average attendance of 5,000 a day.

DIVERS TOILING TO SALVAGE SUB

$50 Million Nuclear Craft Poses Giant Problem For Mare Island Yard Workers

VALLEJO (UPI) — Navy salvage experts today hoped to start pumping 1300 tons of seawater out of a $50 million submarine sitting on the bottom of San Francisco Bay under 34 feet of water.

The USS Guittaro, an attack submarine undergoing final fittings at Mare Island shipyard, sank to the bottom of the bay in five minutes Thursday night as water poured into a forward compartment.

There were no injuries as 20 workmen scrambled to safety. They were unable to close watertight doors because of construction work.

The salvage operation will be so complex that the Navy yesterday flew in their supervisor of salvage for the entire Pacific, Cmdr. J. B. Orem, in from Pearl Harbor.

Rear Adm. Norbert Frankenberger, commander of the San Francisco Bay naval shipyards, said that "when we are satisfied we have taken care of the stability we will start pumping or blowing with air."

He explained that the greatest problem was to keep the 4,640-ton cigar-shaped vessel from rolling over during refloating attempts.

The navy could give no estimate of water damage to the sub's complex electronic equipment, although a spokesman said the figure could run into the millions.

He said the sub's nuclear reactor "was not aboard, thank God," and there is no danger of nuclear contamination.

He also declined all speculation as to the cause of the sinking pending investigation of the sub once it has been refloated.

The Guittaro was an advanced model of the Sturgeon class. The navy has built or started work on 26 Sturgeon class subs and has 10 more authorized.

Road Widening Contract Given

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A San Rafael contractor has submitted a low bid of $197,293 for widening and allied work on a section of Shoreline Highway near Stinson Beach.

The bid, submitted by Brown-Ely Co., was the lowest of three opened Wednesday by the state Division of Highways. A total of $250,000 is available for the project, which will include installation of guard rail and installation of turning lanes at the Panoramic Highway and Stinson Beach State Park intersections.

A contract is scheduled to be awarded in a month.

ROTC Endorsed

The 19-member Board of Trustees of the University of Vermont yesterday unanimously endorsed the continuation of Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) programs.

Package Size Shrinkage Hit As A 'Crime'

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal accused manufacturers today of commiting "economic crime" against consumers by quietly reducing the contents of their packaged products without making corresponding cuts in prices.

Rosenthal, chairman of the House special consumer subcommittee, cited several examples of product trimming he said took place without price changes or changes in the package size.

Did you know, for example, that the Betty Crocker Country Corn Flakes that was 11 ounces in 1965 is now 10 ounces?" the New York Democrat said.

"Are you aware that the Jergens Lotion that was 12½ ounces is now now 10½ ounces?" he added. "Some of you may be interested in knowing that the 21 ounce package of Serutan is now only 18 ounces."

Rosenthal made the remarks in a speech for the Nassau County Consumer Conference at Hofstra University.

'ENORMOUS' LIST

Staffers from Rosenthal's subcommittee said in Washington they have compiled "a rather extensive and enormous" list of products whose portions have been trimmed. The issue is to come up at committee hearings next month.

"When we talk about economic crime in America, we think of the bank embezzler or the Wall Street manipulator," said Rosenthal.

"Economic crime in America involves the widespread practice by manufacturers of cleverly shinking the contents of their packaged products without, at the same time, telling the consumer or reducing the price."

Rosenthal said listing the weight changes in small print without changing the package size has also deceived federal officials who must keep track of comparative prices from year to year.

Asked if the changes are a violation of the Truth-in-Packaging Act, a subcommittee staffer said, "This is something we're going to find out at the hearings."

ATTITUDE HIT

"What is incredible to me, however, is that the 'public-be-damned' attitude on the part of some producers extends to issues of health and safety," said Rosenthal.

He said manufacturers have been able since the 1940's to equip washing machine wringers with a $3 safety device to guard against arms being crushed in the machines

An industry-wide standard wasn't adopted until 1968, after 200,000 persons a year had been injured, Rosenthal said.

"The consumer revolution confronts the very integrity of the free enterprise system," he said. "If that system is to endure, its ultimate goal most be to provide goods and services that are fairly priced, safe and effective."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

STRANGE JOURNEY — Norwegian explorer Thor Heyerdahl's papyrus craft "Ra" attracts throngs of children as it is trucked into the Moroccan port of Safi. Test Called Off

JACKASS FLATS, Nev. (UPI) — The test of a nuclear rocket system which might serve as a supply shuttle for moon colonists or a deep space probe has been postponed indefinitely.

The system, called Nerva for Nuclear Engine for Rocket Vehicle Application, was originally scheduled for a test Thursday. However, the Atomic Energy Commission rescheduled it for yesterday.

Yesterday's test was called off because of equipment failure.

Roosevelt Mends

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — The eldest son of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt recovered from a stab wound inflicted by his wife and said he would leave the hospital today or tomorrow. James Roosevelt, 61, was stabbed in the back by his third wife, Gladys, at the doorway of their mansion in Vesenaz, an expensive suburb of Geneva, at 11 p.m. Thursday. He managed to reach the house of a neighbor, who called an ambulance.

The former California Congressman underwent emergency surgery but was in good enough shape shortly after the operation to call his lawyers, who issued a statement identifying Roosevelt's assailant as his wife.

She was taken to a clinic for observation. The lawyers said Mrs. Roosevelt, 48, recently had been treated for severe depression.

Youth Aides Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three quarters of the city's juvenile probation officers were on strike today in an effort to force the Board of Supervisors to approve the hiring of additional officers when it meets Monday.

The probation officers struck yesterday over what they called their "intolerable work load." The officers average caseloads of over 88 youngsters compared with workloads of about 50 juvenile offenders in other counties.

The striking officers — 60 of the city's 82 — set up a picket line around the center yesterday but said they would not resume the line until Monday.

Sea Lions Dead?

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Federal biologists, studying fur seal migration off the Santa Barbara coast, will probe Monday a report from a conservationist that 150 sea lion pups are dead on San Miguel Island.

Ian McMillan, cattle rancher and member of a group called Defenders of Wildlife, said he saw the dead pups this week on islands touched by leaking oil from an undersea well.

Red Test Hint

UPPSALA, Sweden (UPI) — An underground explosion, apparently a Soviet nuclear weapons test, was recorded yesterday by the Uppsala Seismological Institute. Experts said the blast apparently occurred in Siberia.

FBI Nabs Kidnap Suspects

PETERSBURG, Va. (UPI) — FBI agents arrested two persons here early today on charges of kidnapping a 22-year-old University of Pennsylvania coed and holding her hostage for three days last week until her financier father paid $10,000 in ransom.

Dull

Miss Spriggs

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover identified the individuals arrested as Edward Lee Dull, 39, and Alvina Marie Spriggs, 21, both of whom were said to be living in Baltimore when they allegedly kidnapped Anne Kathryn Jenkins a week ago today.

Miss Jenkins, of Waterloo, Iowa, was freed last Tuesday and reported in a state of shock as a result of her three-day ordeal.

Penal Expert Quits

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Thomas Gaddis yesterday submitted his resignation as director of Project Newgate at the Oregon State Penitentiary, effective July 1, to take a private post.

Gaddis, 59, a University of Portland professor and the author of "Birdman of Alcatraz," developed Project Newgate — a college program for inmates — in 1967. It was the first of its kind in a U.S. prison.

Nurses Accept Pay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Nurses have approved a contract boosting their pay $85 monthly by January 1970 at major hospitals in San Francisco.

Administrators say the boost will raise costs to patients by about $10 to $15 a day.

The approval ended a strike threat at four hospitals. The agreement also applies at seven others in the Affiliated Hospitals of San Francisco.

Salaries, now ranging between $630 and $750 a month, will be boosted for some 1,300 nurses.

Student Killed

CORRIENTES, Argentina (UPI) — One student was killed and four were wounded yesterday when police opened fire on a demonstration against higher prices for meals at the local university. The food prices rose from 7 to 12 cents.

Negro Heads Church

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — A black man long in the forefront of the civil rights movement today took over as the head of the American Baptist Convention.

Dr. Thomas Kilgore Jr., pastor of the Second Baptist Church of Los Angeles, is the first man of his race to head the 1.5 million denomination in its 62-year history. He led the union organization and voter registration of tobacco workers in Winston-Salem, N.C., in 1943-44, supervised the New York office of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference from 1959 to 1963, helped organize the March of Washington in 1963, and is a leader in the NAACP.

Dedication Of Lands To Be Reviewed

How far can the planning commission go in requiring dedications of park lands or rights-of-way from private developers?

This and other legal questions will be discussed by the Marin County Planning Commission when it meets Monday at 9 a.m.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney and county supervisors have been invited to participate in the discussion.

Other items on the planning commission agenda for Monday include:

T. J. Nelsen's request for a use permit for a boat construction and repair shop on Donal J. Arques' property in Richardson Bay.

Johngold Corp.'s request for approval of a resort commercial plan to put in a Howard Johnson restaurant, motel and accessory service station on Richardson Bay in front of the Fireside Motel.

William Souza's request for permission to open a public firing range on his property near the Sonoma County border. He plans a firing rag range for pistols, rifles, shotguns and archery on the west side of Alexander Road between the Tomales-Petaluma Road and the Fallon Two-Rock Road.

The First Congregational Church in Santa Venetia, at the corner of North San Pedro and Merrydale roads, wants to operate a nursery school for up to 25 children in an existing church building.

Driver Injured

Jack Kermoian, 41, of 74 Spindrift Passage, Corte Madera, was treated for an injured right arm at Marin General Hospital last night after his car hit a guard rail on the Paradise Drive off-ramp of Highway 101 at 6:35 p.m. The California Highway Patrol reported Kermoian said his attention was diverted by a noise.

Russell said he received a call at 10 p.m. from the Marin Municipal Water District dispatcher in Corte Madera to go to the 666th Radar Squadron installation at the top of Mount Tamalpais.

He arrived and found several juveniles had broken the gate on Ridgecrest Road near Rock Springs which closes off Mount Tamalpais State Park to visitors after darkness.

Russell said he observed 10 to 15 youths in the area and requested them to leave. The youths left.

A short while later Russell, Wallace and Head Park Ranger Otis Lyons reported they saw the same youths at the entrance to the Mountain Theater. They were again asked to disperse and did.

Lyons told Russell that he was closing the park at Pan Toll Ranger Station and that all cars left in the park at that time would be impounded.

Deputies then found that the Bootjack Camp parking lot was "full of cars and male subjects," Russell said. The officers said they asked the youths to leave. Some did but others started hurling rocks at the two officers, and used abusive language, Russell reported.

When Russell and Wallace tried to place suspects into their patrol cars, the youths interfered with the arrests, Russell added. The deputies said they were struck with many rocks.

The crowd grew to 30 to 40 youths, Russell said, with the deputies being pushed by their attackers. At this point, to keep the youths from taking the prisoners, Russell said, he struck the youngest Rilla on the head with his baton.

The youths fled when seven deputies arrived as reinforcements, Russell said.

Forgery Case Hearing Slated

The case of Juanita Litteral, 18, of San Rafael has been refused by Marin Juvenile Court, and she pleaded innocent yesterday in municipal court to a charge of forging a money order believed to be stolen from a former postman.

A preliminary hearing was set for June 10.

A co-defendant, Eugene Richard Rudnick, 19, of San Rafael, also pleaded innocent to the same charge and his case was referred to the probation department for possible transferral to juvenile court.

Apartment Prowler Gets $675 Jewelry

Beverly I. Jonasen has reported to San Rafael police that someone entered her apartment at 1060 Los Gamos Road May 9 and stole $675 in jewelry from the master bedroom.

Entry was made through an open window. Taken were a diamond engagement ring valued at $350, three rings, a necklace, a wrist watch and a $100 set of earrings, police reported.

Store Guard Fires Shots At Suspects

An Emporium security guard fired three shots yesterday at a fleeing vehicle carrying three shoplifters who had taken three suits from the Northgate store, police said.

None of the suspects was believed hit, officers reported.

The guard, Thomas Pinkerton, told police that at 1:40 p.m. he saw two Mexican men and one Caucasian, in their 20s, leave the store carrying the dark-colored suits.

Pinkerton ran after the men as they got into their vehicle, a white Oldsmobile, ordering them to stop, police said.

Pinkerton said he saw one of the trio reach into the glove compartment and pull out what he believed was a .25 automatic. The auto then sped away — with Pinkerton firing at it, police reported.

The guard fired three shots — one which Pinkerton said struck the door behind the driver, one white hit the trunk and one possibly into the left rear tire, police said.

Officers said that the Emporium valued the suits at between $325 and $550.

Overturned Auto Injures Driver, 19

A 19-year-old Point Reyes Station youth was reported in good condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco following an accident at 11:15 p.m. yesterday on Wilson Hill Road, north of the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road.

The youth, Eugene Michael Haley, suffered possible broken legs and a back injury when his car failed to make a curve and overturned, the California Highway Patrol reported. A passenger, Colleen Martin, 17, of Olema, was treated for minor injuries at Novato General Hospital.

Stubbs Hearing Set In Sonoma Thursday

Douglas O. Stubbs, 20, of Cotati, will appear in Central Sonoma Municipal Court at 9:15 a.m. Thursday to enter a plea to a battery charge.

Stubbs was released yesterday on his own recognizance. He is accused of having struck Clayton Vaughn, 21, of Cotati, on the head with a breaker bar during an argument on May 10.

Drake Students Pick Football Prep Crews

Football season song leaders elected yesterday by Sir Francis Drake High School students were Jackie Cann, Michele Geoffrion, Chris Gonser, Chris King, Heidi Looper, Missie Mangels and Julie Mensing, the Drake News Bureau reported.

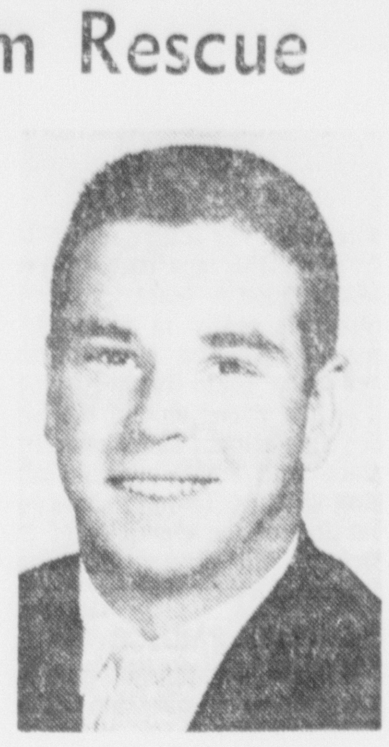
Novatan Earns Medal For Vietnam Rescue



HARRY SHAW MILLER
Saved boaters

First Lt. Harry Shaw Miller of Novato has been awarded the Soldier's Medal for saving the lives of the occupants of a capsizing sailboat while stationed in Vietnam in July 1967.

Miller, 25, who lives with his wife, Suzanne, at 11 Kaden Court, was presented the award by Maj. Gen. Charles Darnell, deputy Sixth Army commander.

Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Miller of San Rafael, is now a member of the 353rd Psychological Operations Battalion, an Army Reserve unit.

Miller, with two other soldiers, saw a sailboat containing a Vietnamese and an American floundering in Cam Ranh Bay in a tropical storm. Miller and his companions negotiated their boat 600 yards to the endangered men in 10-foot waves and rescued them.

Miller returned from Vietnam in January 1968.

The Soldier's Medal, the Army's highest noncombat decoration, is rarely received by an officer. It is ranked in the class of awards with the Congressional Medal of Honor.

"There is no telling how many other students have been taking the pills," Mrs. Rattray said.

The school was concerned enough, she said, to make an announcement over the school public address system Friday about the danger of seconal.

Police said that the capsules were being offered for sale around campus on a "three-for-a-$1" basis.

"We understand that the original 1,000 capsules have all been used up," a police officer said, "but that more are on their way to the area."

Several other incidents in the last two weeks have been attributed by police to the theft of the capsules.

Two weeks ago a young girl was left unconscious in the back of a car by friends after she had taken 13 of the capsules, police said.

And last night, a girl currently in juvenile hall was treated at Marin General Hospital for an overdose of seconal, hospital authorities said.

Blown Tire Injures East Bay Family

A Concord family was taken to Marin General Hospital last night after their car blew a tire and hit a telephone pole on Shoreline Highway, five miles north of Point Reyes Station, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said James Edward Marsh, 32; Rodney Marsh, 11, and Douglas Marsh, 8, were injured in the accident at about 9:50 p.m. and taken to the hospital. A hospital spokesman said Douglas was treated for a scraped forehead but had no record of the other two.

African Transplant Patient Worsens

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI)—The condition of the world's longest living heart transplant recipient, Dr. Philip Blaiberg, took a turn for the worse today and was "causing concern," a Groote Schuur Hospital bulletin said. (See photo, page 2.)

News that the 59-year-old dentist's condition had worsened caused surprise here. Doctors earlier had said he was doing well and would be home in a couple of days.

Curfew Ordered

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A curfew was imposed on Burlington from 8 p.m. today to 6 a.m. tomorrow in the wake of violence last night during which a young Negro was shot and killed by police.

Judge Hears Houseboat Arguments

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — U. S. District Court Judge George B. Harris took under study yesterday motions in the case of a group of houseboat owners fighting eviction from Richardson Bay at Waldo Point.

Joseph A. Forest, deputy Marin County counsel, asked Judge Harris to dismiss the suit. Carl Shapiro, attorney for the houseboat owners, asked for a temporary restraining order against the county's attempts to remove 50 houseboats until extensive arguments in the case are possible.

Shapiro also filed affidavits yesterday in support of his assertion that the county has been harrassing the houseboat owners.

Two county housing inspectors, Richard Larson and John Wolfe, were summoned to the witness stand by Forest.

"I was personally attacked two times," said Larson. "A hammer was thrown at me and there were many threats."

The county contends that the houseboats do not meet sewage disposal standards.

U.S. B52 bombers for the first time have begun raids against neighboring Cambodia in an effort to deprive Communist soldiers of sanctuaries within 35 miles of Saigon, U.S. military sources said today.

The sources, at outposts along the Cambodian frontier west of Saigon, said at least three Stratofort strikes hit the neutral nation in the past several days, all of them planned in advance.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese gunners during the night shelled 41 Allied bases and towns, sending two rockets into the edge of Saigon that wounded one woman. Overall damage and casualties were described as light in the sixth day of stepped-up salvos.

In one of the few barrages against major U.S. bases, three rockets slammed into the air base at Da Nang, killing one American Marine and damaging two warplanes, military spokesmen said. Some 30,000 Allied troops around Da Nang were on full alert for a Communist attack.

Fog Nearly Hides Carrier Homecoming

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A dense fog almost hid the giant 80,000-ton aircraft carrier Ranger today as it steamed under the Golden Gate Bridge after a fourth combat tour off Vietnam.

With visibility limited to about 100 yards, the ship's 5,000-man crew glimpsed only briefly a 150-foot welcome banner hung from the bridge.

tors marching on Berkeley's City Hall, near the 27,000-student University of California campus.

The soldiers and police herded the demonstrators six blocks back to the campus. There were occasional scuffles but no serious violence.

The protesters, including Berkeley students and "street people" from the city's hippie colony, were protesting Thursday's four-hour battle in which at least 128 persons were injured, many by birdshot fired by police.

Elsewhere:

Massachusetts — A Harvard University teaching fellow yesterday was sentenced to a year in jail for assault and battery on a dean in the April 9 takeover of University Hall. Carl D. Offner, 25, Darien, Conn., also was fined $20 on a trespassing charge. He appealed both findings and was released on personal recognizance. The sentence was believed to be the stiffest imposed on a student demonstrator in recent protests. A U.S. Court of Appeals in Boston yesterday granted bail to five Dartmouth College students jailed in the wake of a takeover of the administration building May 5. The court refused bail for 40 others. Each of the 45 was sentenced to 30 days in jail for the anti-ROTC takeover.

The helium leak, first reported yesterday, was the first and only potentially serious problem to develop during the long countdown.

The astronauts will spend nearly three days getting to the moon and putting their spacecraft into an orbit some 60 miles above it.

On Thursday, Stafford and Cernan will fly to within 50,000 feet of the moon's surface in the Apollo lunary landing spacecraft to take a close look at the landing site in the moon's Sea of Tranquality picked for the Apollo 11 moon-walking expedition, photograph it and checkout landing techniques.

Stafford and Cernan will fly up to 350 miles from Young in the command spacecraft to make man's closest pass over the surface of the moon, then rejoin Young, send the lunar lander into orbit toward the sun, and head home for a May 26 Pacific landing.

Physical Excellence Certificates Slated

Major Justice will present certificates of physical achievement to four other cadets, Richard S. Ades, James Blackburn, Edward Adjuria and John Kennedy. The ceremony will be at 2 p.m. on the parade ground.

Half Moon Bay Man Injured Near Fort

The California Highway Patrol said John T. Gravance was injured when his auto ripped up about 20 feet of guard rail at 1:45 a.m.

OBITUARIES

Cardinal Josef Beran Dies

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Cardinal Josef Beran, the Czechoslovak primate who was imprisoned 18 years in his homeland, died in exile today. He was 80.

The Prague archbishop, who came to the Vatican in 1965 after his release by Communist authorities, died of cancer at the St. John Nepomuk Pontifical College where he made his home, a Vatican spokesman said.

Pope Paul VI, notified that Beran was dying, rushed to the college but arrived a few minutes too late. The Pope went to Beran's bedside and prayed.

Beran was one of three high-ranking East European churchmen who were imprisoned during the wave of religious persecution that swept over the Communist countries at the height of the cold war. The others were Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski of Poland, since restored to his post, and Cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty of Hungary, who was freed during the 1956 Hungarian uprising, took refuge in the American Embassy when the uprising failed and has lived there ever since.

Beran was imprisoned first by the Nazi conquerors of Czechoslovakia and then by the Communists when they seized control of the country in 1948.

His release by the Communists and his flight into exile followed a thaw in Vatican-Kremlin relations that had repercussions through much of Eastern Europe.

His death opens the prospect of Vatican-Czechoslovak negotiations on the appointment of a new archbishop for Prague, which has been run since 1965 by an apostolic administrator.

ARTHUR BAER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Humorist and cartoonist Arthur (Bugs) Baer died early today at New York Hospital after a long illness. He was 83 years old.

Baer acquired his nickname decades ago when he was a sports cartoonist for the old Washington Times. He was fond of embellishing his drawings with eccentric and outspoken insects.

Born in Philadelphia the seventh of 14 children to parents who were immigrants from Alsace-Lorraine, Baer quit school at 14 to become a lace designer. He quit that job six years later to work as an office boy for the old Philadelphia Ledger for $2 a week.

Baer soon won a job as a staff artist, then transferred to the Washington paper, where his captions and comments won him a reputation as a humorist.

Funeral services have not yet been arranged.

FLOYD HUFF

Funeral for Floyd Huff of Fairfax, a Sausalito taxi driver, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Sausalito Presbyterian Church.

Huff died Thursday at a local hospital following a short illness. He was 54.

He had been employed as an executive with several paint manufacturing firms in New Jersey and was a member of a New Jersey post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He is survived by his wife, Arlene; four sons, George C. of Tiburon, Bruce Owen of Marlton, N. J., Robert C. of New Jersey, and Michael D. Huff of Fairfax, a daughter, Loren Huff of Fairfax, and three grandchildren.

Contributions to the Marin County Heart Association are preferred.

EDWARD MACKENNA

Requiem Mass for Edward W. Mackenna, 68, of San Rafael, will be at 9:30 a.m. Monday at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael. Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

MacKenna, of 912 Fifth Avenue, died Thursday in a local hospital after a short illness. Retired, he was formerly a lubrication man for Bianco's Garage. A native of California, he had lived in Marin 60 years.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

MOUNT TAMALPAIS CEMETERY in the Heart of our County

Marin pioneers chose a site in the heart of our county as a final resting place for their families. Today this location—at the west end of Fifth Avenue in San Rafael—is still convenient to all Marin points.

Marinites who choose Mount Tamalpais do so with the assurance that its beauty will grow with the years. The interest from a quarter-million dollar endowment fund—twice the legal requirement—is dedicated to the constant care and improvement of this 57-acre site.

Perhaps—like many Marin families—you wish to make your own final arrangements to spare others difficult decisions. If so, we invite your inquiry or a personal visit.

HELEN HELP US!

Fraternal Living At School Brings Comments Pro And Con

DEAR HELEN:

I agree with "Support Wanted" when she said that sororities may be fine for some, but not for everyone. This also holds true of fraternities. I do not agree with your reply to her, Helen : "They can close you off from too many interesting people."

Perhaps the majority of college students today do feel that fraternities and sororities are more limiting than fulfilling, but these people have never belonged to a fraternal organization, so how do they know?

In the last three years I have befriended over sixty brothers, men I would otherwise never have met. We've worked, studied and enjoyed life together. We've met other people through mixers and we've sponsored functions for the entire student body.

True, there are those who wouldn't be happy in this atmosphere, but I'm glad I chose to pledge. Fraternity life has made my college years most rewarding. — A FRATERNITY BROTHER

DEAR HELEN:

As a recent college graduate and sorority president, I would like to address the girl whose parents were pushing sorority life on her.

Here are points to consider:

1. Sororities differ, sometimes drastically. A mother often feels that just because her house was tops on her campus, the same sorority will be "in" at other colleges. This is far from true. Mothers should let their daughters make their own choices.

2. It is very easy for a girl to lose her identity when she joins a sorority. A girl must be active to stand out among 70 other girls. Those girls who aren't do more harm than good to a sorority.

3. Sorority life often puts a great deal of pressure on the girl's academic studies, for the more she becomes involved in social life, the less time she has to study. A weak student may have trouble.

4. Social pressures of sorority life can sometimes be very frustrating for a girl who finds it hard to adjust.

The main point I want to make is that the decision to join a sorority must be the girl's and not her parent's. I have seen the girl who has been "forced" by society-minded parents, and it is a sad sight.

I am one hundred percent for sorority life — If a girl wants it. I joined, and was very active in college life. My husband did not join, and was equally active at college. — MRS. C.C.

DEAR HELEN:

One of our daughters joined a sorority, the other didn't. Both had wonderful times at college. The choice can't be made by parents! —MOTHER

DEAR HELEN:

I belonged to a high school sorority and quit. I was just a face in the group, not myself any more. I had to go along with acts and ideas I didn't like and I discovered I was getting to be as much of a snob as the leaders. — NO MORE

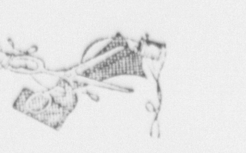
By EUNICE FARMER



DEAR EUNICE:

When I finish reading your column, I am so excited about making something new I can hardly wait to get to the fabric shop. Then my friends and I spend hours looking at patterns. After awhile nothing looks great anymore and our enthusiasm drops off to the point of going home empty handed. Is there some magic to follow when you want to make a new dress or ensemble?—MRS. R.R.W.

DEAR MRS. R.R.W.:

This happens to so many women that I have worked out a solution. First, do your shopping alone.

Second, look through the fashion books first, also shop the better stores and try to plan the kind of ensemble you would like. With this vision in your mind, find a pattern that will fill your requirements. Most women "overlooked" — in other words, they look and look and finally every pattern looks the same. Remember that beautiful fabric and a simple pattern are the keynotes to any successful garment.

It's better to trust the good judgment of a woman in your fabric department who understands you and your needs. She isn't going to misdirect you because if she did, she would lose a valuable customer.

Mrs. Joanna Smith, Gardner, Mass. is this week's Tailor Trix winner for her suggestion:

"When the lace on your personal lingerie tears, you can repair it neatly in just a few seconds. Take a piece of the new lace seam binding, place it on the wrong side of the lace of your garment and weave it in place with small invisible running stitches. It won't show and because of the electicity of the lace it will give a little and prevent further tearing."

DEAR MRS. FARMER:

I have just finished making a tent dress out of cotton chiffon to be worn over a slim slipdress. What is the correct width of the hem on sheer fabrics?—MRS. G.M.

DEAR MRS. G.M.:

The width of the hem on sheer fabrics depends entirely upon the cut of the garment. Because you mentioned that your chiffon dress is a tent style, I know the lower elge is cut on the bias. For any bias edge, you should make a rolled hem as narrow as it is possible to make because you couldn't ease in a wide hem and make it look even and smooth.

If the dress is cut full such as a shirtwaist style, where the hem is on the straight grain of the fabric, it is most attractive to use a very deep hem (perhaps anywhere from 6 to 10 inches). The extra hem width not only looks attractive in sheers but will make the dress hang better because of the extra weight.

DEAR EUNICE:

My spring coat is cut with an A-line style, and I don't like the fullness in the back. Since it has a center back seam, could I remove some of the fullness without changing the A-line of the coat? I am going to make a cotton coat for summer and don't want to make the same mistake again.—MRS. A.O.L

DEAR MRS. A.O.L.:

You will have to examine the side seams of the coat to determine if they have been cut with a straight seam or if they angle out in an A-line. Sometimes the center back is cut on a bias line to form extra fullness in the back only, and the side seams are cut on the straight grain.

If your coat is cut with an angle at the sides, it wouldn't change the overall shape to take some of the fullness out of the back. In fact, for your next coat, you may wish to eliminate the center back seam and lay the straight seam line on the fold of your fabric. Remember, it's the side seams that control the A-line shaping of any garment.

Frog closing, button loops, and ball buttons all can be easily made by following the instructions in Eunice Farmer's booklet "Spaghetti Straps and Rope Belts." Strawberries' Appearance In Stores Heralds Spring

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The following guide to the nation's food buys for the weekend was prepared by the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that food shoppers will find good displays of meat and poultry and adequate supplies of some fresh fruits and vegetables in food stores and supermarkets this third weekend in May.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys continue to be the most abundant and available meats. Beef roasts and steaks are also considered abundant in most areas. Good selections of beef liver may also appear in some areas.

Bacon, ham, and smoked picnics should be conspicuously available in most areas along with Boston butts, roasts, and chops in some areas.

Maine sardines, canned pink salmon, and fish sticks and portions are the fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Fresh vegetables in good supply are cabbage, onions, and potatoes. Grapefruit, bananas, and oranges are the fruits in best supply in most areas along with strawberries in some areas.

USDA's plentiful foods list for May, in addition to turkeys, onions and Maine sardines, features canned and frozen green beans, canned and frozen corn, canned beets, and canned tomatoes and tomato products.

In the West:

Eggs are lower in all markets and red meats are higher. Poultry and butter prices remain largely unchanged. All sizes of eggs are lower.

Beef loins and ribs are higher while other cuts are generally higher.

Veal and calf are higher in San Francisco.

Fresh pork loins are higher and spareribs are higher. Other fresh pork cuts are higher. Smoked hams are higher in Portland and San Francisco. Sliced bacon is higher in California markets and slab bacon is lower in Portland.

Lamb is higher in Los Angeles.

Fryer and roaster chickens are higher in California markets.

Fruits and vegetables in best supply include: Apples, Bananas, avocados, grapefruit, strawberries, carrots, onions, tomatoes.

By MOLLY MARIN

Belvedere hostesses are planing a number of luncheons before the House Tour, sponsored by St. Stephens Guild Wednesday. Sharing the day with 40 friends from the Bay Area are Mrs. James Crittenden and Mrs. John Wiley who will give their pre-tour party at the Crittenden home in Belvedere. Mrs. James Atkin has invited 41 friends from San Francisco to lunch at her Corinthian Island home. Mrs. Robert Morrison, of Belvedere, will entertain before the tour, as will Mmes. Melvin Tyler and L. W. Jordan, both of Belvedere Lagoon. Mrs. Kenneth Merklin of Tiburon and Mrs. Richard Lowry of Tiburon will have guests at their homes before joining other house tourists at San Francisco Yacht Club, Belvedere.

Her 20 guests at the buffet-luncheon and "glory boat" tour at San Francisco Yacht Club, Belvedere, Wednesday, were invited by Mrs. Cabell Gwathmey for a special reason. Each had done some kindness for Mr. and Mrs. Gwathmey during their stay at Marin General Hospital following an automobile accident during the Christmas season.

THE TRADITION of boating season openings has attracted the younger set, and today junior salts of the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere held a parade of decorated small boats in Belvedere Cove. The youngsters, who are all involved in the club's junior sailing training program, were scheduled to see a film of sailing techniques and hear a talk by Jerry Leth on racing rules.

THE WILLIAM S. Solaris Jr., expects to move from San Francisco into the house that is being built for them on Racoon Strait, Tiburon, in early June. Their ocean sailing yacht, The Santana, is now in Newport Harbor, and they expect to sell it, and acquire a smaller one which will be berthed at the dock of their Marin home.

Their three children, Andrea, Gayle and William, are looking forward to the Marin move. Marion Solari was one of the hostesses at the Boat Tour given by the Women's Auxiliary of the San Francisco Yacht Club at the Belvedere harbor Wednesday. She was stationed on the racing yacht, Bohemia, owned by Peter Salz.

VISITING IN Belvedere is Mrs. John Falter of Philadelphia. Boo Falter, a former Belvedere resident, has been staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan La Rue, and she timed her visit to celebrate both her mother's and father's birthdays.

A NUMBER of Marin friends will attend the tea being given by Mrs. Eugene Wheary and her daughter, Molly, at the family's home in San Francisco Thursday.

Wins Scholarship

Robin M. Fagg of San Rafael has been awarded a Marshall Field World Year Book four year college scholarship in a contest for families of the publishing company. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fagg of San Rafael and is an honor student at Terra Linda High School.

Tomorrow Is Anniversary For Landmark Society

The Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society will celebrate its 10th anniversary at 4 p.m. tomorrow at Old St. Hilary's Church with a party highlighted by personal reminiscences of the society's achievements since its founding.

Mrs. Lemuel W. Allen of Belvedere, senior charter member, will be named honorary member for 1969, according to president Mrs. Robert Bastian. Other honorary members in past years include "Rosie," the goat lady, Caroline S. Livermore, Thomas Lacey, Thomas Crowley and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cuthbertson.

Mrs. Allen will also discuss old days in Belvedere, particularly reminiscing about the grocery store she and her husband owned on Beach Road.

Mrs. David Teather of Tiburon will autograph copies of her new book, "The Island of Six names," which recounts the history of Belvedere Island from 1834 to 1890.

Mrs. Bastian will read the names of charter nmembers still active in the organization and will describe the Landmarks Scoiety's campaigns to preserve Old St. Hilary's Church, the John Thomas Howell Botanical Garden and the Caroline S. Livermore Natural Preserve.

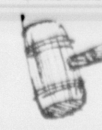
ON THE AGENDA



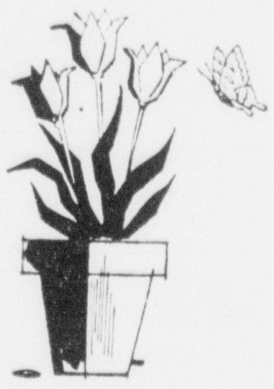
Senior Citizens Will Be Host For Needlework Ingathering

Plans are being completed for the annual Ingathering of San Rafael Branch of Needlework Guild of America to be held Tuesday, 1:30 p.m., at the San Rafael Recreation Center.

Senior Citizens' Needlework section, sponsored by the San Rafael Goldenaires, will be the hostess group. Mrs. Estelle Smith, director, will be tea chairman assisted by her section members.

Section presidents and directors have been sewing and collecting new garments and household articles. These will be distributed to the Red Cross, Sisters of the Holy Family, Clothes Closet of Marin City, Sunny Hills, St. Dorothy's Rest, St. Vincent's School for Boys and Sonoma State Hospital. Approximately 4,000 articles were furnished last year.

Serving as section presidents have been Miss Huldah Moorhead and Mmes. Carlo Caletti, Helen Ring, Ernest Giono, John MacPhail, J. J. Fischer, L. L. Walsh, Kenneth Larkins, Estella Smith and from Inverness Mmes. R. L. Griffith and Frank Giubbini. West Marin has had the leadership of Mrs. Nell McIsaac and Mrs. D. M. Springer.



THE VOLUNTEER Bureau of Marin is currently seeking to fill several different types of volunteer jobs. First, friendly women who would enjoy working with servicemen are needed to work with junior USO hostesses with activities on Bay Area military bases. Secondly, typists with an interest in art are needed to work weekends in Southern Marin.

The Volunteer Bureau also needs people of any age interested in assisting short-term visitors from foreign countries with sightseeing, learning to work telephones, handling currency, etc. Finally, women are being sought to help with a project which involves providing pets for shut-ins.

Anyone interested in these volunteer opportunities should contact the Volunteer Bureau at 725 A Street in San Rafael for further information.

EL MARINERO Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hear Mrs. Gregory A. Weingetz of San Francisco report on the resolutions passed at the 78th Continental Congress in Washington, D.C. at a meeting Monday at noon at the home of Mrs. Rowland King of San Rafael. Luncheon hostesses are Mmes. Boswell F. King, chairman; Herbert H. Gerlach, Gustave K. Zantow and Arthur Roth.

AN ORIENTATION meeting to help Air Force wives learn about benefits, rights and privileges will be offered by the Family Services Center at Hamilton Air Force Base on Tuesday from 7:30 to 11 p.m. and Wednesday from 9 a.m. to noon. The program will be held at the Family Services Center at the base, with child care available.

A CHARTER bus trip to the California Spring Garden and Home Show at the Oakland Coliseum will be made on Monday by the Marin Country Club Garden Club members. A meeting at 9:30 a.m. at the clubhouse will precede the bus departure at 10 a.m.

A MOTHER - DAUGHTER dinner is scheduled by the United Presbyterian Women of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Tiburon at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday at the church.

The Rev. Wiliam Perdue, new minister at Westminster Church, will be the speaker. A program of singing with guitar accompaniment will be given by representatives of the Westminster Youth Group, Andy Walker, Steve Macfarlane, John Broderick and Kai Stoeckenius.

Mrs. J. Benton Bostick is chairman; Mrs. J. Howard Heginbotham, reservations chairman.

THE PLEASANT VALLEY Parent - Teacher Association will hold a mother-daughter tea Tuesday, 7 p.m., in the West Novato School multi-purpose room. There will be a hat fashion show and entertainment will be by the Novato Rural Band.

ANIMAL AIDES of Marin will have a luncheon program Wednesday at the Marin Country Club in Novato. Speakers for the 12:30 p.m. event are Mrs. Elizabeth Deedy, secretary to the board of the College of Marin, and Ed Bettini. Mrs. Deedy will speak about scholarships for students interested in animal husbandry.

TRAVEL CLOTHES will be shown at "Ports of Call", the annual fashion show and luncheon held by the Women's Guild of St. Rita's Church in Fairfax, to take place this year at the Marin Country Club in Novato on Tuesday at 11 a.m.

Reservations chairmen are Mrs. Hayes Culpepper and Mrs. Leo Cronin. Proceeds are to be donated to the parish center building fund.

THE WOMEN'S SOCIETY of Christian Service of the Tamalpais Valley Methodist Church will have a rummage sale starting on Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at Kenny's Hall of the church located at Marin Avenue and Ash Street in Tamalpais Valley.

On Thursday and Friday hours will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Society president Mrs. Le Roy Post is in charge. Anyone wishing to donate items may call Mrs. Post for further information or pickup service.

THE SAUSALITO Yacht Club Women's Auxiliary will have a buffet luncheon and party on Wednesday with no-host cocktails at 11:30 a.m., luncheon at noon and games starting at 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Douglas Whitaker is chairman. Members and their guests may make up their own tables of bridge. Providing instruction in dominoes will be Mrs. Edward Murray, and cribbage will be taught by Mrs. S. C. Stapp.

Reservations chairmen are Mmes. James Doody, Otto Swenson and Mrs. Whitaker.

MEMBERS OF the Marin County Medical Receptionists and the Marin County Association of Medical Assistants will be the guests of the Center Medical Hospital Wednesday at a luncheon at the hospital in Kentfield.

Following the noon luncheon they will be given a tour of the hospital and have an opportunity to meet the staff.

MRS. ISABEL GILBERT, nurse, psychiatric aide and medical hypnotist, will speak at the meeting May 21 of the Marin YW-Wives. The author of the paperback book, "The Hypnotic I," Mrs. Gilbert will speak on "Self-hypnosis, a Tool For Releasing Tensions and Changing Behavior Patterns." Mrs. Gilbert works with patients who wish to quit smoking, lose weight or overcome other problems.

The meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. at the First Congregational Church, Santa Venetia.

The Retired Officers Wives Club will host A Day at the Races on Wednesday with a bus leaving from the north end of the Northgate shopping center at 10:15 a.m. Mrs. Charles Gillooly and Mrs. Paul Clinq-Mars are hostesses. Lunch will be at Golden Gate Field Turf Club.

HELEN VAN CLEAVE PARK will present the program for the reading section of the Community Church Club in Mill Valley at its meeting Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in the church parish hall.

Mrs. Park will talk on "Ladies of Marin." She has selected her subject from a book she is writing on the early history of the women of Marin.

An interior decorator, Mrs. Park has lived in Marin since 1937. She is vice president of the Marin County Historical Society and editor of its bulletin. She is assisting in research on a new history of Marin County which the historical society will publish.

MRS. KURT LEVI of Mill Valley has been elected president of the Mill Valley Cooperative Nursery School for the 1969-70 school year.

Elected to office with Mrs. Levi were Mmes. Herb Briggs of Mill Valley, vice president; Huey Johnson of Mill Valley, treasurer; Ronald Supinski of Mill Valley, secretary; Floyd Heckman of Mill Valley, membership chairman; Jim Scatena of Mill Valley; Jeppe Edens of Tiburon, council; and Mrs. Michael Durrie of Mill Valley, ways and means chairman.

Haneys Give Their Recipe For Continual Happiness

LAWNDALE (AP) — Oliver A. Haney cooks breakfast and his wife cleans up the kitchen. For dinner, they trade off the chores.

And there, say the Haneys, is their prescription for a happy marriage—helping each other. Haney, 92, and his wife, 88, have been married 70 years.

"Besides," says Haney, "I never wanted a divorce because I just haven't seen anybody I like better."

"I think women today demand too much," says Mrs. Haney. "Our life has not been easy. We've worked all our lives. We never had a lot of money, but we never bought anything on time either."

The Haneys, physically and mentally alert, have lived here for 17 years. Before that he alternated working on farms and oil fields in California and Oklahoma.

"We've probably moved more times than anybody in the United States," says Mrs. Haney. "In the old oil field days, whenever you got a promotion you moved into a new house. So if there were six promotions in a year, you moved six times."

But, she added, that didn't stop her from being a full-time mother to their five children: "I never remember ever leaving them with anybody. We took them with us to parties and on vacations. I can't see other people raising your kids."

Last year Mrs. Haney canned 64 quarts of apricot jam—from their own trees—because that's the only kind her husband likes. She also put up 50 quarts of homegrown tomatoes.

By BARBARA HOSMER

Because a handful of Marin City women felt that the fine arts were being overlooked in their community and decided to do something about it, a series of cultural events and scholarships have been made available to Marin City people through the past five years.

Tomorrow the free concert of classical music by the Bach to Mozart group augmented by symphony and opera members at 8 p.m. at the Manzanita Center in Marin City is this year's culmination of efforts by the Marin Art and Culture Club, which was formed by the women in January, 1965.

"The Marin City kids were interested in sports and some kinds of music, but nothing really about the fine arts," explains club president Mrs. Alvin Bynum of Marin.

"Mrs. Beatrice Dukes, the founder and first president, had the idea and the club was started to promote interest in the arts for Marin City High School students. The club is a liaison between the school and the community to find students who would be interested in continuing study in fine arts fields," she said.

Each year the club has given a scholarship to a Tamalpais High School student from Marin City selected by the school committee. Recipients have been Gwen Brown, who studied piano at Dominican and now is married and continuing music studies in Germany; Mitchell Howard, a commercial artist who has exhibited at the Sausalito Arts Fair; Emma Price, a student in design at San Francisco State College; and Robert Shivers, a San Francisco State student who is a ceramics and art instructor for classes at the Southern Marin Boys Club.

The Marin Art and Culture Club scholarship for 1969 will be awarded in the next few weeks, made possible by funds raised from donations.

The club began and has continued sponsoring a single concert each May, beginning with a concert by vocalist Alma Banks Wells and George Dukes, pianist.

The club's first officers were Mmes. Dukes, Bynum, Lillian Hebert, Betty Times, Velma Patton and Elmese Bell.

The Art and Culture Club also sponsors the annual Negro History Week in Marin City each February. And it has committees for music, art, drama, photo and recording, social, and literary interests.

One of the most fun things the women members do is sponsor evening "trimnastics" classes twice a week through six weeks of the summer, for anyone interested.

"We meet people and have fun doing it," remarks Mrs. Bynum about the exercise sessions. Out of 32 enrolled last summer 28 were still coming by the end of the course, she said. Maude Wells and Billie Johnson were the volunteer instructors.

She stresses that the Art and Culture Club membership is open to all Marinites, and its patrons include many persons from throughout the Bay Area and persons active in the fine arts fields.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A new guide for press chairmen of organizations which are interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is now available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

SENIOR CITIZENS

Two Active Women Are Nominated

A Novato grandmother, who has compiled more than 2,000 hours of work as a hospital volunteer, and a Fairfax woman who served as founding secretary of the Fairfax Senior Citizens Association, are nominees for Marin County's Senior Citizen of the Year award.

Mrs. Tallitsch has served as president of the grandmothers club for two years nad as treasurer of the Sylvan Circle, Druids, for 15 years.

She is a past president of the Novato Volunteer Firemen's Auxiliary and has served as corresponding and recording secretary with the Novato Senior Citizens.

Besides, Mrs. Tallitsch has been a 4-H cooking leader and a member of the Open Door Society of the Presbyterian Church in Novato.

A native of Chicago, she has been a resident of Novato since 1952.

Nominee of the Fairfax Senior Citizens Association is Mrs. Leah Jarrett of 51 Park Road, Fairfax, a resident of Marin for 25 years.

Mrs. Jarrett, who retired from the Internal Revenue Service in 1958, has been active in several organizations.

She has served as treasurer of Marin Chapter 400, National Association of Retired Civil Employees, corresponding secretary of the Fairfax Women' Club, and historian of the Sequois Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

A founding member of the Fairfax Senior Association, Mrs. Jarrett is retiring president of Ladies Auxiliary of Marin Barracks 550, Veterans of World War I.

Mrs. Jarrett is a member of the American Association of Retired Persons, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Marin Senior Association, the Goldenaires, and the Marin Audubon Society.

Iturbi Resigns Orchestra Post In Canada City

The 73-year-old pianist-conductor, who accepted a three-year contract in 1968, asked to be released for personal reasons, officials said yesterday.

Philharmonic Society president Smiley Raborn Jr. said he accepted Iturbi's resignation "with deep regret." Raborn said the Philharmonic will have a number of guest conductors from whom a successor to Iturbi may be chosen.

An internationally acclaimed concert pianist, Iturbi began a second career as conductor in 1933.

He was principal conductor of the Rochester Philharmonic from 1936 to 1947.

Tiburon Rec Cash Asked For Youth

The Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission will ask the city to spend $900 on summer recreation programs for Tiburon Peninsula youngsters.

The commission, meeting Thursday night, allocated $300 to the Reed School District's kindergarten-eighth grade recreation program, $350 for a teen-age recreation program and $250 toward refurbishing the mermaid as a teen-age drop-in center.

All of these projects will be a cooperative effort with the City of Belvedere, according to Russell L. Melquist, assistant to the city manager.

The commission had allocated $1,000 in its 1969-70 budget proposal for summer recreation programs.

A group of Peninsula teenagers, headed by Rob Wayne, told the commission work on the ark, presently stored on Tiburon Peninsula Club property, would cost approximately $1,850, Melquist said.

The Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission Tuesay recommended that its council donate $200, and Thursday the county parks and recreation commission urged a $500 county donation toward the project.

Commissioners appointed commissionr Polly O. Smith to meet with Belvedere representative Wendy Buchen to work out guidelines for the organized teen-age program.

In addition, chairman George Ellman was directed to determine if any of Tiburon's contribution to the school district's program would be spent on Granada School children. If so, Ellman said he would urge the town of Corte Madera and Marin County to make some contribution toward the program.

The Reed School District has allocated $2,200 for the summer program with Belvedere and Tiburon each contributing $300.

The commission also named David H. Teather, T. G. Knight and George McKegney to develop criteria for the summer work program and Theater as the commission's representative on a subcommittee to study the need for a human rights commission miniboard in Tiburon.

Drivers Jailed

Gerald Anthony McMahon, 28, of 1133 Elm Drive, Novato, was ordered yesterday by Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court to spend two days in County Jail for drunken driving Thursday on Highway 101.

SPRING COMES TO LOCH NESS

Monster Hunters Throng Edge Of Lake To Catch Old 'Nessie'

DRUMNADROCHIT, Scotland (UPI)—Monster-hunters from all over the world travelled the high road to Scotland today in pursuit of the Loch Ness monster.

As the official hunting season opened, Nessie, who lurks deep in the murky waters of Loch Ness—Scotland's largest and most beautiful lake—was keeping out of sight.

For the past few days, monster-watchers — many of whom start a hunting day at the crack of dawn—have stood at the lake's edge and craned their necks in hopes of getting a peek at the elusive underwater creature whom Scots have decided is simply "shy."

'FEARSOME BEASTIE'

Some say Nessie is an overgrown sea-cow. Others think she is a long-necked seal. Centuries-old reports tell of a huge hunch-backed "fearsome beastie" with an eel-like neck and a mammoth head gliding serenely through the cold loch waters.

No one seems to know just what exactly Nessie is, but there isn't a Scot around Drumnadrochit who won't swear by his clan colors he's seen her.

"The Loch Ness monster is not heritage, not legend—it is fact," said William Bremmer, manager of the Drumnadrochit Hotel.

Bremmer, like many Scots, is as protective as a father if he thinks anyone is endangering Nessie's welfare.

SUB CRITICIZED

University of Chicago biochemist Roy Mackal, who leads a team of American scientists in the search each year, is bringing in a submarine next month to try and discover once and for all what is behind the legend.

Bremmer calls Mackal's project "That damned American submarine." Lord Lovat, chief of the Fraser Clan, simply claims it is sheer "bullying," and has said he will ask police to invoke special laws to protect the monster from being "molested."

Police don't know exactly what to do about Lord Lovat's request. "Now if it were a grouse, a hare, or a salmon, we could arrest people for poaching or attempting to kill the damned thing out of season," said a policeman. "But how can you have a law to protect a monster we don't even know exists?"

Mackal brought the wrath of many a local Scot down on himself last year when he armed his student volunteers with crossbows of the type which was forbidden by the Lateran Council of Europe in 1139 as "too murderous a weapon for Christians to employ."

The bows, which students never got a chance to use, were designed to fire hollow-tipped arrows into Nessie which could be pulled back filled with tissue for laboratory analysis.

Mackal's submarine will be used for the same purpose as the crossbow—to pluck a piece of skin about the size of a cigarette from Nessie's hide.

Romney Tells Housing Plans

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney says the federal government is preparing preliminary plans for a massive urban housing program to be implemented after the end of the Vietnam war.

The Republican cabinet member also took time in yesterday's speech before the San Francisco Commonwealth Club to defend the Safeguard antiballistic missile system. He called the system "an investment in a stable world of peace and order within which we can direct our resources and energies to meeting our challenges at home."

Romney said the views of local officials were being sought by Washington to be incorporated into the housing plan. "It's high time we got rid of the idea that Washington knows best," Romney said. There's just as much judgment and experience and ability at the state and local levels."

The former Michigan governor said the nation now has its "greatest housing shortage than at any other time in our history," but he added "if we can aggregate the housing market and thereby attract new investment and proven methods, we can build housing in the needed volume and reverse its soaring cost."

Romney said the Nixon Administration has made no decision as to how much money will be alloted to housing problems in peacetime. He added, however, that the "biggest single source of stimulating the economy is in the housing market."

Tenor To Present Dominican Concert

Dominican College Department of Music will present tenor Melvyn Poll, accompanied by Pianist Alden Gilchirst, in a public concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Angelico Hall on the San Rafael campus.

The program will include three songs by Verdi which are seldom performed; the Benjamin Britten song cycle "On This Island" and works by Haydn, Brahms and Mozart.

U.S. Cautioned Not To Be Over-Anxious In Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The United States should involve itself in Asian affairs only to the degree that the Pacific Basin nations ask for its help, according to a State Department official.

Under Secretary of State U. Alexis Johnson yesterday told a meeting of businessmen from several nations on the Pacific that the United States no longer will take the initiative in establishing political, economic and security arrangements in the Pacific. He said this policy change results from "a change in the mood of the American people."

"They will be cautious about undertaking new commitments," he said. "They are being somewhat impatient with carrying what many consider to be a disproportionate share of the burden of security and economic assistance abroad.

'PROPER QUESTION'

"They are asking more and more frequently what other countries are doing to help themselves and each other to share these burdens. It is a good and proper question."

His talk keynoted the second general meeting of the Pacific Basin Economic Cooperation Committee, which got its official start last May during a two-day meeting in Sydney, Australia.

Business leaders from Australia, Canada, Japan, New Zealand and the United States are gathered for discussions on how to strengthen economic and cultural ties among the five member countries.

Heading the committee is Shigeo Nagano, president of the Fuji Iron and Steel Co. of Japan. Other chairmen include Sir Edward Warren of Australia, A. Olaf Wolff of Canada, R. G. Speirs of New Zealand and Ransom M. Cook of the United States. All members of the group participate as private individuals.

The conference runs through the weekend.

TRADE CITED

Dr. Weldon B. Gibson of Stanford Research Institute, director of the San Francisco meeting, pointed out that its significance "can be easily seen when one realizes that between 1962 and 1967 trade among the five member nations increased from $26 billion a year to $48 billion a year. Today, about 43 per cent of their total trade is with each other.

"This situation calls for a concerted effort to improve those ties which can contribute to the economic development of the entire region."

Song Festival For Boys Club

A festival of song, culminating a mongh long fund-raising campaign in Southern Marin churches benefitting the Boys Club of Southern Marin will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

The concert will feature performances by individuals and groups and community singing. Highlighting the concert will be the George Duke Trio and Duke's singing group, the Ninth Wave.

Song leader will be the Rev. Fred Small of Marin City.

CONTEMPORARY MEDITERRANEAN VILLA

We are privileged to present one of the most distinctive and beautiful homes in San Rafael where man has vied with nature for superb effects, combining a level ½-acre with an unobstructed view and a 5000-sq.-ft. villa to bring you one of the finest marine pictures you will ever see. This magnificent home is only 2 years old and overlooks the bay and the San Rafael Canal, surrounded with terrazzo decks and balconies with wrought iron railings. The private driveway leads to a beautiful garden, with lawns, aggregate patios and a fountain. The entrance and reception hall are done in terrazzo, with a beautiful staircase and balustrade, 4 bedrooms, a family room, 4 bathrooms (all terrazzo floors), a study, family kitchen with too many features to describe, living room, formal dining room and a social room with a 15-ft. wet bar. This room you won't believe until you see it. We could go on and on describing this magnificent home. No cost has been spared in its construction, but seeing is believing. Only qualified buyers — by appointment only. $170,000. A Davis exclusive.

Lou Grant draws "SMALL WORLD"
. . . now in the I-J

Lou Grant, nationally famous editorial cartoonist, is the author-artist of this new capsule cartoon, now appearing in the Independent-Journal. The new feature will mirror the vital issues of the day in a nutshell—a one-column nutshell, that is.

Grant has received 24 national cartooning awards. Five times running he has won the Freedoms Foundation Gold Medal. He is a winner of the "Brotherhood Award" of the National Conference of Christians and Jews four years in a row; winner of the Los Angeles Newspaper Publishers top award for the best cartoon on Freedom of the Press. Look for his new "mini-cartoon" in the I-J, "Small World," with a big wallop.

Hearing Set In Fatal Wreck

Michael Roth, 21, of Fairfax, will appear in Sonoma County Superior Court on Wednesday for possible sentencing on a manslaughter charge.

The charge against Roth, who changed his innocent plea to guilty, stems from the March 15 death of Mrs. Margaret McIntrye, 45, of Petaluma, in an auto accident on the Petaluma-Tomales Road.

The California Highway Patrol said the car driven by Roth entered a curve too fast and struck the car in which Mrs. McIntrye was a passenger. An additional charge of felony drunken driving was dropped at the time of change of plea.

Tires Stolen

Employees of Elmer J. Freethy Co., the contractor working on the flood control project near the College of Marin, has reported that three tires and wheels were stolen from a truck. They were valued at $200, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Mill Valley Library Wins Another Honor

The Mill Valley Public Library has been named one of the 16 winners of the 1969 Honor Awards given by the American Institute of Architects.

The 16 were chosen from among 456 nationwide entries.

The nine-man AIA jury said of the building, finished in 1966 at a cost of $493,000: "Sited among the redwoods, the preservation of which was a condition of its design, the library is appealing and inviting from any point of view."

Designer of the library was Donn Emmons of the Mill Valley firm of Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons.

An Austrian farm boy who had dreamed of being a veterinarian since he was a child, and the daughter of one of the few Jewish families who never left Jerusalem are among Marin's newest citizens.

Dr. Gideon Yehuda Sorokin and his wife, Esther, met while both were serving in the intelligence section of the Israeli Army—she as his secretary.

Dr. Sorokin was naturalized last month in U. S. District Court in San Francisco and his wife became a citizen Tuesday.

He had been a citizen of Israel, the country his family chose when they fled German occupation of their native Vienna, Austria, in 1938.

After their army service and marriage, the couple went to Italy where she studied singing and he became a veterinarian. He then practiced in Israel for five years, and his wife, a lyric soprano, performed in Italy, Cypress, France and England.

His major interest, however, was in small animal surgery and in 1961 the couple moved to Zurich, Switzerland, where he became a graduate assistant in his chosen field.

When that year ended, the Sorokins came to the United States — attracted by the economic and professional possibilities available to veterinarians.

The family was sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture because Sorokin agreed to work for it at a time when "they were desperate for veterinarians."

During the four-year period he was with the department, he also taught at the University of Auburn in Alabama, and did graduate work; moved to Montana, New York, and finally, California.

"I think no other government in the world would do something like that," he said as he spoke of the advantages offered him by the agriculture department.

Sorokin, who still has a farm in Israel, is devoted to the profession he chose as a child.

"I think the happiness of a man depends on his profession, his family and his health," he said, recalling a short period of time in which he was unable to practice. "I was very unhappy then. I didn't know what to do with myself," he said.

His wife has continued her singing career, appearing throughout the country, and locally, on television and radio. She sings folk songs, semi-classical and classical music.

Her professional name is Zohara, Hebrew for glittering.

The couple has three daughters, Dafna, Orna and Lisa Tamar. Dafna, who will graduate from Terra Linda High School this year, will leave June 17 for Europe and Israel, a trip she will finance with money she has saved by clipping and caring for dogs, her father reported proudly.

Besides their professional activities, Dr. and Mrs. Sorokin, of 427 Hibiscus Way, San Rafael, have appeared before several Marin groups to lecture on Mid-East politics and are also active in the Marin Jewish Community Center.

Other Marin and Southern Sonoma residents naturalized last month were:

San Rafael: Mrs. Audrey Gordon of 1825 Lincoln Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gottlieb of 105 C Street; Mrs. Jill Frances Guppy of 2 Gilbert Street; Eva Maria O'Doul of 68 Merrydale Road; Mrs. Frank Flores Ventura of 102 Merrydale Road;

County Farm Officials Oppose Ban On DDT

KELSEYVILLE, Calif. (UPI) —A State Senate bill to outlaw the bug killer DDT and other pesticides in California has drawn opposition from county agricultural commissioners.

At its annual meeting yesterday the State Association of County Agricultural Commissioners unanimously adopted two resolutions stating it opposed the bill and favored the continued use of agricultural chemicals on the condition they were properly regulated.

County commissioners have the job of regulating use of pesticides under the supervision of the State Agriculture Department.

Copies of the measures will be sent to State Agriculture Director Jerry W. Fielder and the Senate Agriculture Committee.

The bill by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, specifically bans the sale, possession and use of DDT and other pesticides which fail to break down after application.

Conservationists and others have warned that DDT and other pesticides threaten humans and fish and wildlife.

Earlier in the week Fielder told the commissioners the use of DDT "is on its way out and it is only a question of how and when."

Poll Will Open In Sleepy Hollow

The Sleepy Hollow Homes Association's pool will be open for the three-day Memorial Day weekend, it was announced at the association's meeting Thursday.

Plans for the summer youth recreation program will be set at the directors' next meeting at 8 p.m. on June 5 in the clubhouse, reported vice president Merritt A. Robinson.

The directors studied, but took no action on a proposal that the county's slope ordinance governing hillside residential development be extended to include Sleepy Hollow lots up to on acre.

Farm Bureau Asks Freeze On Poison

LOS ANGELES (AP) —California Farm Bureau President Allan Grant says his organization, representing 60,000 farm families, wants an immediate one-year moratorium on the use of the pesticide DDT.

Grant told newsmen yesterday the bureau's executive board voted on the ban earlier this week. On Thursday, State Agriculture Director Jerry W. Fielder said, "We who regulate the use of pesticides in California must take an active role here as to protect agriculture, everybody's food supply and our environment as well."

Conservationists backing a bill before the state legislature say DDT is contaminating parts of the environment. The bill would ban the pesticide in California.

Talks Cancelled On Food Stamps

Regularly scheduled public briefings on the county food stamp program have been canceled because of poor attendance.

"It isn't economical to continue the Monday briefings," said Joseph Phelps, management analyst for the department of public social services.

Hereafter, briefings will be given only when a city or civic group asks for it.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

One in six persons dying as a result of an auto accident has a ruptured aorta. The victim sustains a crushing chest injury involving this main artery that carries blood from the heart to the rest of the body.

Death occurs immediately if the injury produces a large hole in the vessel. This, however, does not always happen.

THE AORTIC WALL is thick and composed of three distinct layers. A small tear on the inside of the vessel may allow blood to escape between layers. The artery balloons out (aneurysm) slowly and several hours may elapse before the wall ruptures.

Diagnosis is not difficult and the victim's life might be saved if he gets to a hospital or clinic where the facilities and equipment for chest and vascular surgery are available. The damaged aorta must be reconstructed and in many instances a plastic graft is needed.

Injuries of the extremities may also involve the blood vessels. When main arteries are damaged, gangrene and infection may ensue.

An exploratory operation usually is advised when the extremity is pale and cool, and there is loss of sensation. The lack of a pulse in the wrist or ankle may also mean that the circulation is cut off.

AN ARTERIAL GRAFT may save the limb provided the procedure is done within 6 hours. The large vessel that has been severed with a knife or penetrating object is sewn together, usually with good results.

In severe limb damage, the surgeon must decide whether to amputate or try to rejoin all the parts. Often, amputation followed by the use of a well-fitting prosthesis is best.

MOST SURGEONS try to save the limb when they believe the final result will be a serviceable extremity. There are instances in which a totally separated limb was reattached via careful surgical technic.

But in the majority, the end result is all for naught when the extremity cannot be moved because the nerves failed to regenerate.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

MUMPS IN ONE JAW

S. D. writes: In mumps, if swelling occurs in only one jaw, can the child get mumps on the other side at a later date?

REPLY

Yes, provided it occurs within 14 days. The other jaw usually becomes involved during the course of the attack. This is not a new infection but represents spread from one gland to another. Immunity develops after the disease has subsided. Conversely, other organisms besides mumps viruses may attack the parotid glands at a later date, causing a mumpslike swelling. This condition should not be interpreted as mumps.

LEGS IN REVOLT IN 80s

W. R. L. writes: I am a young fellow in my 86th year on terra firma. Until 2 years ago, I never required the services of a physician. Then my legs began to revolt, refusing to heed the brain impulses to walk straight ahead. One leg wants to go west, the other east. This condition, which seems to be worsening, has me worried. What must I do to obtain normal action?

REPLY

Methinks you need something to improve that circulation. There are several products that might prove helpful.

TUBERCULAR EYELID

A reader writes: Can tuberculosis affect the eyelids?

REPLY

Yes, but this form of tuberculosis is rare in the United States.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Strategic Saves By A Partner Make Up For Expected Losses

Don't complain if your partner manages to lose every trick that he expected to lose. Some partners manage to lose some unexpected tricks too, bless their cunning little hearts. The partner you really need is the kind who manages to save a trick now and then. If you find one, watch over him like a hawk because some other bridge player will try to steal him from you.

THREAT TO SOUTH

When today's hand was played, South was threatened by the loss of a diamond, two hearts and a trump. He managed to lose all of them.

South took the ace of diamonds and led out the ace and king of spades in the hope of dropping the queen. When he had no luck, South took the top clubs and ruffed a club.

West shrewdly refused to overruff, and now South could get to dummy with the ace of hearts to ruff another club but then couldn't get back to dummy to cash the last club. Down one.

SHOULD USE FORCE

If West had overruffed declarer on the third round of clubs, dummy's nine of spades would have become an additional entry; but South didn't have to rely on an error to get this trump entry to dummy. After winning the ace of diamonds, South leads a club to dummy's king, a trump to the ace, a club to the ace, and then ruffs a club with the jack of spades.

West refuses to overruff, but now South creates an entry to dummy by force: he leads the deuce of spades.

QUEEN TAKE

West must take the queen of spades, can cash one diamond and can then lead a heart to dummy's ace. Declarer ruffs another club with a high trump and leads the five of spades to dummy's nine. This draws the last trump and permits declarer to cash dummy's last club, assuring the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ 9 8 3
♥ A 10 5
♦ 6 4
♣ A K 5 3 2

What do you say?

ANSWER:

Bid one club.

You have 11 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton, barely enough for an optional opening bid. You decide to bid rather than to pass because you have A-K in one suit and ace in another — an especially fine high-card holding.

Egypt Plans To Fix The Shaky Pyramids

CAIRO (UPI) — Some of Egypt's most famous monuments will soon get much-needed facelifts.

A project for restoration of sections of the Sphinx and of the Cheops Pyramids near here has been started by the government's archaeological department. Officials said parts of these monuments are near collapse.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, May 17, the 137th day of 1969 with 228 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1875 the first Kentucky Derby was run at Churchill Downs in Louisville and was won by a horse named Aristides.

In 1954, in a unanimous decision, the Supreme Court ruled racial segregation in public schools unconstitutional.

In 1968 an estimated 100,000 strikers occupied dozens of French factories as turmoil in that country went into its fifth day.

Prescriptions And Addiction Linked

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Excessive prescription of drugs by physicians is a major cause of drug addiction, according to the chief psychiatrist of a Baltimore area private psychiatric hospital.

Dr. James Drinkard of Sheppard Pratt Hospital, in recent testimony to a State Senate Committee, said prescription of drugs by doctors is increasing at a dangerous rate and can be corrected only by strict adherence to American Medical Association guidelines.

AT BAPTIST SEMINARY

Urban Institute Monday

"The Strategy of the Christian Mission in Urban America," will be the theme of the second annual Urban Church Institute beginning at 7 p.m. Monday at the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Strawberry.

Registration for the 11-day institute which will run through May 30 is still open at the seminary, according to Dr. Francis M. DuBose, institute director.

Three featured lecturers will be Dr. Edward V. Hill, pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church, Los Angeles; Dr. Robert Lee, professor of Christian Social Ethics and director of the Institute of Ethics and Society at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, and Dr. Ivan Vallier, research sociologist and associate director of the Institute of International Studies at the University of California, Berkeley.

From the seminary speakers will include President Harold K. Graves, Dr. Richard B. Cunningham, professor of systematic theology and philosophy; Dr. Roger Skelton, professor of religious education; Dr. J. Lyn Elder, professor of pastoral care, and Dr. DuBose.

Also speaking will be Southern Baptist denominational leaders J. N. Evans, secretary of the Department of Metropolitan Missions; Dr. Harold Lindsey, associate director of the Division of Evangelism; Dr. Gerald Palmer, secretary of the Department of Language Missions, and Dr. Victor Glass, secretary of the Department of Work With National Baptists.

Other denominational personnel speaking will include Mrs. Noble Y. Beall, Baptist centers consultant with the Department of Christian Social Ministries; Dr. Ed Seabough, associate secretary of the Department of Missionary Personnel, and Dr. Richard Estes, secretary of the Department of Work With Non-Evangelicals.

California convention leaders at the institute will be Dr. Robert D. Hughes, executive secretary-treasurer; Dr. Ralph E. Longshore, assistant executive secretary and director of the Division of Missions, and Jack O'Neal, director of Work With National Baptists.

Two hours of seminary credit will be given to those completing the course.

Covenant Church Sets Dinner, Drama Night

Highlight of the spring season at the Marin Covenant Church will be an evening of dinner and drama, thematically entitled "The Mask and the Cross," to be held on Sunday, June 1, at 6:30 p.m., in the Marinwood Community Center, Lucas Valley and Miller Creek roads.

Following the buffet dinner, the Covenant Players of Encino will present selections of contemporary Christian drama. The founder, writer, and director of the Covenant Players is Charles Tanner, a member of the Hollywood Screen Producers' Guild. The group has no direct relationship, however, with the Covenant Church, despite its name similarity.

The Covenant Players was founded in 1963 as a group dealing exclusively with contemporary drama concerned with the human condition. Today they have a traveling company of over 80 players and have given over 90,000 performances in the United States. Each of their plays, whether brief of lengthy, is designed to relate historic Christian fatih to current life situations.

REV. BUEL L. LIMING

Church Plans Conference On The Bible

An eight-day Bible conference will begin at Calvary Baptist Church, Larkspur, with an evening session Wednesday.

The daily 7:30 p.m. meetings will be augmented by an 11 a.m. session Sunday, May 25.

Rev. Buel L. Liming of Cornelius, Ore., author of several pamphlets, Bible charts and booklets, will be the speaker for the conference.

Liming, who employs magic and a ventriloquist's dummy in his lessons for children, will use illustrated wall charts to emphasize his message to persons attending the conference. Smaller charts, notes and outlines also will be available.

The theme for the conference is "The Life and Ministry of Jesus Christ," as recorded in the Gospels. Rev. Liming plans to give special attention to Christ's death and resurrection and the meaning those events hold for persons living in 1969.

Marinite Attending National Assembly

Mrs. Mack Page of St. Andrew Presbyterian Church is currently attending the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, USA, in San Antonio, Tex., as a delegate from the Synod of the Golden Gate.

Mrs. Page, originally an alternate, replaced a delegate from the Mendocino Presbytery who could not attend.

Special Course In Christian Ethics Is Set

Dr. T. B. Maston, retired professor of Christian ethics at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Tex., will be the guest lecturer in a special course in Christian ethics July 14-25 at the Golden Gate Baptist Theolocical Seminary in Strawberry.

Registration for the summer school course will be from 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m. Monday, June 16 and July 14 in the registrar's office at the seminary.

Dr. Matson received his doctorate in philosophy from Yale University and taught at Southwestern Seminary from 1922 to 1963. He is the author of 11 books on Christian ethics and related subjects.

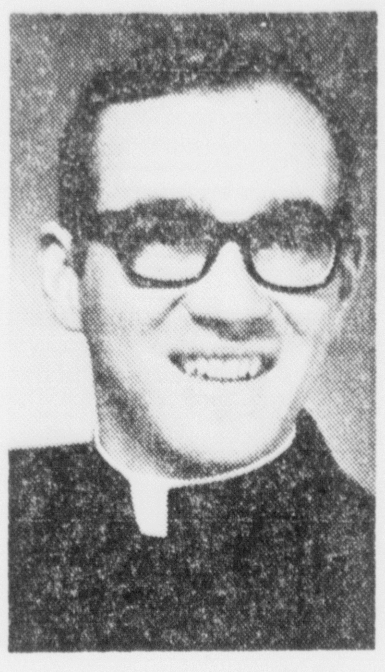
Tiburon Parish Sets Baseball Game Day

A trip to the San Francisco Giants-Pittsburgh Pirates baseball game with dinner following at the parish hall will be held May 24 for the men of St. Hilary's Catholic Church in Tiburon.

Transportation to Candlestick Park will leave the church at noon. The trip is sponsored by the lectors, ushers and finance committee of the church. Further information is available from Alexander Agagan, Donald McEntee, or J. B. McGuire.

Guest Speaker

Chaplain Ralph Bronkema of Hamilton Air Force Base will speak at the 11 a.m. worship service tomorrow at Bethel Baptist Church in Novato.



REV. DENNIS J. STEIK

Minister To Be Installed

Rev. Donald M. Rayment will be formally installed as pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Novato at the church at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Rayment will be installed by a committee of the Presbytery of the Redwoods consisting of Rev. Willard Fredericksen, pastor of the San Geronimo Valley United Presbyterian Church; Rev. James Upshaw of the Christ Presbyterian Church of Terra Linda, also Rev. David Esler, professor at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo; Rev. Ralph Bolin of Napa; elder Robert Hall of the Novato church, and elder Thomas Matthews from Lafayette-Orinda Community Presbyterian Church.

An informal reception will follow the installation service.

Church Crusade In Congo Capital

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — Kinshasa, capital of the African Republic of Congo, will be flooded with evangelistic literature prepared by Light-for-the-Lost, the literature missions program of the Assemblies of God.

The foreign missions department of the 8,500-church denomination has appointed veteran missionary William Lovick to establish an evangelistic center in Kinshasa. Present plans call for conducting a series of "Good News Crusades" in the area as an initial effort.

The literature will be distributed before, during and after the crusades.

Baha'i Open House

Members of the Bahai's Faith in Marin County will observe the 125th anniversary of the faith with an open house Thursday, at 8 p.m. at 248 Mount Shasta, Lucas Valley.

Mission Sets First Ever Ordination

Rev. Dennis J. Steik, S.M., will be ordained a Roman Catholic priest next Sunday at St. Raphael's Church in the first ordination rite ever held at the mission parish in San Rafael.

Steik, 26, of Bellflower, will be ordained into the Marist Order by Most Rev. Thomas J. Wade, a former missionary in the Solomon Islands.

Ronald S. Exley, S.M., of San Francisco, will be ordained a deacon of the church during the same ceremony, scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

Father Steik will say his first concelebrated mass of Thanksgiving June 8 at his home parish, St. Bernard, in Bellflower. Exley will assist as deacon and Rev. William J. Dunn, Marist vocation director, and Rev. Thomas J. F. Ryan, a seminary classmate, will be co-celebrants.

Steik entered St. Peter Chanel Seminary, Philadelphia, in 1956. After six years in the minor seminary he began his novitiate year at Rhinebeck, N.Y.

He was graduated from the University of San Deigo in 1965 with a bachelor of arts degree in philosophy. He has also studied at the Catholic University of America, the University of San Francisco and Dominican College, San Rafael, during summers.

During the past year he worked as a deacon at a Catholic parish in Alexandria, Va., concentrating mainly on duties with teen-agers and adult discussion groups.

Minister Looks Back At 50 Years' Work

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) The insights one minister gained from nearly 50 years in training seminarians are given in a new book, "In Quest of a Ministry," by Julian Price Love (John Knox Press).

Dr. Love sees a great variety among students for the ministry — "naturals" and a few "flat failures." But he finds an underlying unity among them and concludes that "the great majority of these men are an honor to the work of the kingdom."

Marriage Survey

THE HAGUE (UPI) — Official statistics show that 13.2 per cent of Dutch Catholics entering marriage do so with a non-Catholic partner. In nearly 50 per cent of these cases, the partner does not belong to any church.

PENTECOSTALS

No-Frills Church Making Big Gains

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

They are sometimes referred to derisively as "Holy Rollers." The polite name is Pentecostals.

No one knows exactly how many there are in America, but the total is well over 2 million. And the Pentecostal movement is growing much faster than any of the mainstream Protestant bodies.

There are 22 organized Pentecostal denominations, ranging in size from the Assemblies of God with more than 500,000 members to the Pentacostal Fire-Baptised Holiness Church, which has only about 500 members.

OTHER BRANCHES

There also are thousands of local Pentacostal congregations that are not affiliated with any denomination. Many of them include in their names such cluewords as "Holiness" or "Full Gospel." Although they are found in all 50 states, their heaviest concentration is in the South, the West and the Midwest.

It's rare to find a Pentecostal congregation housed in the costly kind of church building which other Protestant bodies seem to consider essential to corporate Christian witness.

The typical Pentecostal church is a simple frame building or rented store-front. The latter type, particularly, abounds in inner city areas which have been largely abandoned by older communions.

CHURCH OF POOR

The Pentacostal movement has become modern America's "church of the poor," which is one reason why it's growing so rapidly.

Pentecostalism developed out of the great wave of religious revivals that swept through the United States near the turn of this century. Its early adherents came mainly from Baptist and Methodist backgrounds, and it still draws many converts from these communions.

The name of the movement is taken from the Day of Pentecost—the occasion described in the second chapter of the Book of Acts on which the disciples were "filled with the Holy Spirit" and found themselves able to speak and understand many strange languages which they had never learned.

Pentecostals hold that this ecstatic experience—with they refer to as "fire baptism," "baptism of the spirit," or simply "the second baptism"—is still available to true believers, and that it is the sign and hallmark of authentic Christian conversion.

They also believe that modern Christians who are filled with the spirit can become, like the first apostles, channels for divine healing of the sick.

NEW LOOK

For a long time, "tongue speaking" and spiritual healing were regarded in most mainstream churches as a peculiar aberration of the Pentecostals. But in recent years, there has been a "charismatic revival" in many of the old-line denominations. Today, speaking in tongues and other external manifestations of "spirit baptism" may be encountered among small but dedicated groups of Lutherans, Roman Catholics, Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Methodists and Baptists. Pentecostal groups also flourish at Yale, Princeton, Michigan State, Iowa State, Notre Dame, Holy Cross and numerous other colleges.

However, tongue-speaking still has outspoken critics—as it has since the time of St. Paul, whose rather dim view of the phenomenon is expressed in the 14th Chapter of I Corinthians. The principal criticism, now as in Paul's time, is that it is more conducive to excessive emotionalism than to the edification of non-belivers.

Pentecostals would be the first to acknowledge that their worship services are distinguished by a free expression of feelings and uninhibited exuberance not often encountered in other Protestant churches. Pentecostals at worship shout, clap hands, sing, march, and fall to the floor in trances. It was the latter which gave rise to the nickname, "Holy Rollers."

Although there are some variations in doctrine from one Pentecostal group to another, they are all ultra-fundamentalist in orientation. They hold that the Bible is "verbally infallible," and are inclined to read it literally.

They practice two "ordinances (not sacraments)—baptism and the Lord's Supper. The latter often is accompanied by foot-washing. Some Pentecostal bodies are pacifist, opposing all war on the basis of Jesus' statements about non-resistance to evil and turning the other cheek.

WESLEY DOCTRINE

In common with certain non-Pentecostal bodies such as the Church of the Nazarene, they place great emphasis on John Wesley's doctrine of "entire sanctification." This doctrine teaches that the Holy Spirit achieves such a purifying of the hearts and motives of real "twice-born" Christians that they are freed from their natural proclivity toward sin and are rendered capable of perfect holiness, here and now in this earthly life.

This teaching is, of course, sharply contrary to Martin Luther's view of the human condition, which may explain why Pentecostalism has never had a strong attraction for persons of Lutheran background.

In striving for holiness, many Pentecostals are extremely austere in their personal habits. They disapprove of drinking, smoking, dancing, card-playing and any kind of "frivolity" (even reading a newspaper) on the sabbath.

EVANGELISTIC DRIVE

One of the most admirable things about Pentecostals is the enormous amount of effort they put into evangelism, both at home and abroad. The Assemblies of God, for example, have a special concern for the spiritual needs of prisoners. They conduct worship services, supply Bibles and other literature, and provide trained counselors for federal, state, county and city prisons across the nation.

They also support nearly 900 foreign missionaries in 75 countries at a cost of more than $11 million a year—an expenditure of money and manpower for missions that should shame many denominations five or six times as large.

Novato Church Sets Missionary Sessions

Bethel Baptist Church of Novato will hold a three-day missionary conference, "Witnessing to the World," beginning next Friday.

The conference will feature presentations by several missionaries, including Dr. Gordon R. Lahrson, missionary from the American Baptist Convention in Valley Forge, Pa., and regional representative for Europe for the American Baptist Foreign Mission Societies.

Other speakers will include Dorothy Helman and Donna Marie Becker of the Campus Crusade, John Starsh, a missionary pilot-mechanic serving in the Congo for the Missionary Aviation Fellowship of Fullerton, and James Bowman, station manager of radio KGEI, Far East Broadcasting Co. of Belmont.

Strash will speak at the conference's first session at Bethel at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Bowman will speak at 6 p.m. Saturday; Lahrson will conduct the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday and Misses Helman and Becker will speak at the closing prgram at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

A brunch for the youth of the church will be held from 10 a.m. Saturday at the Philip Dickinson home at 716 Plaza Del Mar.

Friendship Day Luncheon Is Set

The First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael will join in a Friendship Day tomorrow with the Ingleside Presbyterian Church of San Francisco. The public is invited to attend.

A smorgasboard luncheon at the San Rafael church will begin at noon, followed by a program of entertainment featuring members of both congregations.

Donations will be accepted for a Friendship Fund, which is to be used to finance a summer day camp for children operated by the San Francisco church.

Biafran Program

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lutheran World Relief, overseas material aid agency, has earmarked $250,000 for relief and rehabilitation projects in Nigeria-Biafra in the remaining months of the year. The appropriation brings to $450,000 the total allocated for programs in Nigeria-Biafra by the agency during the past five months.

First Ecumenical Session Is Held

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 14-member committee which is studying the possibility of Roman Catholic membership in the National Council of Churches has held its first meeting. Protestant and Catholic leaders indicated they were pleased with the results.

A council spokesman said the committee, appointed last year by the National Council's Executive Committee and the U.S. Catholic Bishops' Committee for Ecumenical and Interreligious Affairs, would limit itself to studying the question, and would not present a plan for membership.

Youth Unrest And Religion

NEW YORK (UPI)—Student unrest around the world has "religious overtones" which merit the concern of Christian educators, says a statement issued at a meeting of Lutheran education specialists in Geneva, Switzerland.

The Lutheran Council (USA) reports the attending churchmen urged the church to "declare its readiness for forthright dialogue with youth on their real questions. The statement added:

"The present generation of youth in its protest activities seems at times to be asking for an authentic Christianity, expressing a religious concern and looking for something that corresponds to what we proclaim."

Development Aid

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—During its executive committee meeting, the World Council of Churches reported members in Canada and Europe have set aside more than $10 million to be used for development in the world's emerging nations. The WCC reports that more member churches are expected to follow suit.

. . . while it is day
Every honest task done in the spirit of helpfulness for someone's need can be a tribute to, and a gift from, the Living Christ. Faith in Jesus Christ motivates many people to unselfish dedication and service. Of such is the Church.
The world needs more disciples whose lives are carved out of sacrifice and love. Christ did it best. Rapt attention to Him could change the world.

Redwood Captures Division Track Title

Redwood High School, with a little help from its friends, became the first Marin County Athletic League school to win the Division II Track and Field meet yesterday, besting a strong Vallejo entry at Santa Rosa Junior College.

The Giants piled up 41 points, to edge Vallejo which wound up in second with 35 points.

San Rafael's strong B team, paced by triple winner Dennis Silva, took the Class B title with 39 points, ahead of Santa Rosa's runnerup 21 points. Tamalpais, the MCAL meet champ, was third with 19, same as Napa and Terra Linda. Montgomery was next with 16, followed by Piner with 15 and Hogan Redwood with 14 points.

Montgomery of Santa Rosa was third in the varsity competition with 29 points, followed by Hogan with 22, Tamalpais with 21½, Drake with 10½, Novato with 10, Ukiah with seven and Terra Linda with six.

The meet comprised schools from the Golden Gate Bridge to the Oregon border.

Brian Hicks, who barely made it into the division meet on a jumpoff, won the pole vault with a 13-4 vault, bettering his own best jump of 13-3 and tying the school record and all-time county mark set by Collie Janda in 1964. Rick Earhart of Drake was third at 13-0 and MCAL champ Mark Jones of Terra Linda was third at 12-9.

The Giants got a big boost in the 880 where Todd Norris turned in a best ever time of 1:58.2 to win and Rob Williams, who almost missed the division, finished second on a clutch 1:59.4.

Luther Brown of Tamalpais helped out heavily, winning the 125-yard high hurdles in a hot 14.7 in an event considered a Vallejo strong mark.

Brown also won the 220 in a beautiful 22.3 to become the league's only double winner.

Phil Russell won the two-mile in 9:51.6 to give the Giants another boost and they needed it after Vallejo went one-two-three in the low hurdles.

Mark Lewis of Marin Catholic, who finished second in the league meet, won the high jump with a 6-0 effort.

Jim Upchurch, Vallejo's fabled halfback, won the 100 in ten flat, just an eyelash ahead of Phil Emswiler of Novato, who also turned in a ten flat.

Redwood.'s mile relay team didn't win but helped create the hottest race of the day as Norris almost pulled it out on the last leg with a fantastic 48.5 split, which didn't quite catch Vallejo. Vallejo won in a super meet record of 3:22.2 but Redwood as second at 3:22.4, four seconds faster than it's season best of 3:26.0.

Dave Stancliffe of Drake won the mile, reversing the league finish by beating MCAL meet champ Matt Bowen of Tamalpais with a 4:28.3 finish. Bowen was second at 4:28.7.

Silva won the 70 high hurdles in 8.8, the 180 lows in 20.5 and the long jump in 21-2½, duplicating his triple win effort of the MCAL meet.

Ron Elijah of Novato upset Tam's Mike Arago in the two mile, winning in 10:06 while Arago, the league champ, finished second. Dick Stoltz of Redwood won the 880 in 2:04.0 while Dave Moore of Terra Linda took the 100 in 10.4. Rich Tierney of Drake took the 220, just ahead of Moore. Dave Waxman of San Rafael won the discus in 115-7 while Steve Hall of Redwood won the shot with a 47-3 toss.

Stu Hotuling of Petaluma won the mile in 4:34.0 and Rick Lewis of Terra Linda won the B pole vault on an 11-6 vault.

Official Scoring Can Be A Challenge Sometimes

PHILADELPHIA — When pitchers are changed during an inning, the relief pitcher shall not be charged with any run scored by a runner who was on base at the time he entered the game.

That's a sensible baseball rule. So, too, is its logical corollary: A relief pitcher shall not be charged with any run scored by a runner who reaches base on a fielder's choice which put out a runner left on base by the preceding pitcher.

The corollary sounds complicated. An example clarifies it: P1 walks A. P 2 relieves P1 and B forces A. C triples, B scoring. Charge run scored by B to P1.

The intent of the basic rule and its corollary is to charge each pitcher with the number of runners he puts on base, not individual runners.

Exceptions To The Rules

There are equitable exceptions to the rule and corollary. A preceding pitcher is absolved of responsibility if the runners he left on base are put out independent of action by a batter facing the relief pitcher. That sounds like double talk but means a pitcher's responsibility for a runner ends if the runner is caught stealing or picked off base.

It would seem that the basic rule, corollary and exceptions covered all possible situations. Don't you believe it. The official scorer in the series opener between the Giants and Pirates at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh Monday night was faced with a situation in which he didn't know whether Gaylord Perry or Joe Gibson should be charged with the defeat.

Then In Comes Gibbon

The score was tied 3-3 in the ninth with one out when Manny Sanguillen doubled. Perry then was relieved by Gibbon. Rookie Richie Hebner singled to right. Sanguillen was out at the plate on a perfect throw by Ken Henderson to Jack Hiatt. Hebner went to second on the throw.

The official scorer originally charged the defeat to Perry. Then he changed his decision and charged it to Gibbon. But the scorer frankly stated he wasn't sure Gibbon should get the defeat because Hebner wouldn't have reached second base except for the plate play on Sanguillen. And Hebner never could have scored from first on Oliver's single.

It Was A Mandatory Play

The play at the plate on Sanguillen wasn't any fielder's choice. It was a mandatory play. The game would have been over if it had not been successful.

What happened while it was being made was incidental, i.e., Hebner's taking second on the throw. And the subsequent walk to Stargell, intentional or not, became academic.

The scorer reached a proper decision, a common sense one, by charging Gibbon with the defeat.

Heavy Artillery In Prep Baseball

The Marin County Athletic League baseball war is technically over, but they're still firing big artillery in minor skirmishes.

In yesterday's games, Novato, have wrapped up the title last Tuesday, took time out to bumble and stumble to a 10-5 loss to runnerup Terra Linda.

Surprising first-year entry San Marin clinched at least a tie for third place by humbling Tamalpais, 9-0. And Marin Catholic and Redwood moved over for company in the cellar, the Wildcats edging Drake, 7-6 and the Giants finally unwinding for a 17-0 thrashing of San Rafael. All four teams have 5-8 records with one game left.

EIGHT ERRORS

Eight Novato errors helped Mike Timmel earn an imperfect 11-hit victory over the Hornets while Terra Linda socked it to Steve McNally for 11 hits, three by Bob Nadell.

San Marin got an outstanding two-hit pitching performance out of Dennis Bueler, who registered the first win by a Mustang pitcher other than Steve Francis.

Meanwhile, the usually light-hitting Mustangs lashed out for 13 hits, three each by Clark Jamison of the Pirates Chuck Jacobson and Bruce Holberg.

Redwood erupted for 16 hits in breaking a long lean spell of non-hitting while pitcher Roger Smith twirled a masterful two-hitter. Rafael Gallardo got both hits for the Bulldogs.

Rick Denning and Steve Olson of Marin Catholic and Bob Sutherland of Drake hit homers and

Only One Outcome In Softball Play

Three games were scheduled yesterday in San Rafael Recreation Department softball play but only one had a solid outcome.

Brandon Tire topped Trailboat, 6-3, but in the other two games, Perry's Delictessen and Salts played to a 9-9 tie and Wright's Richfield won a forfeit decision over Timmer Realty.

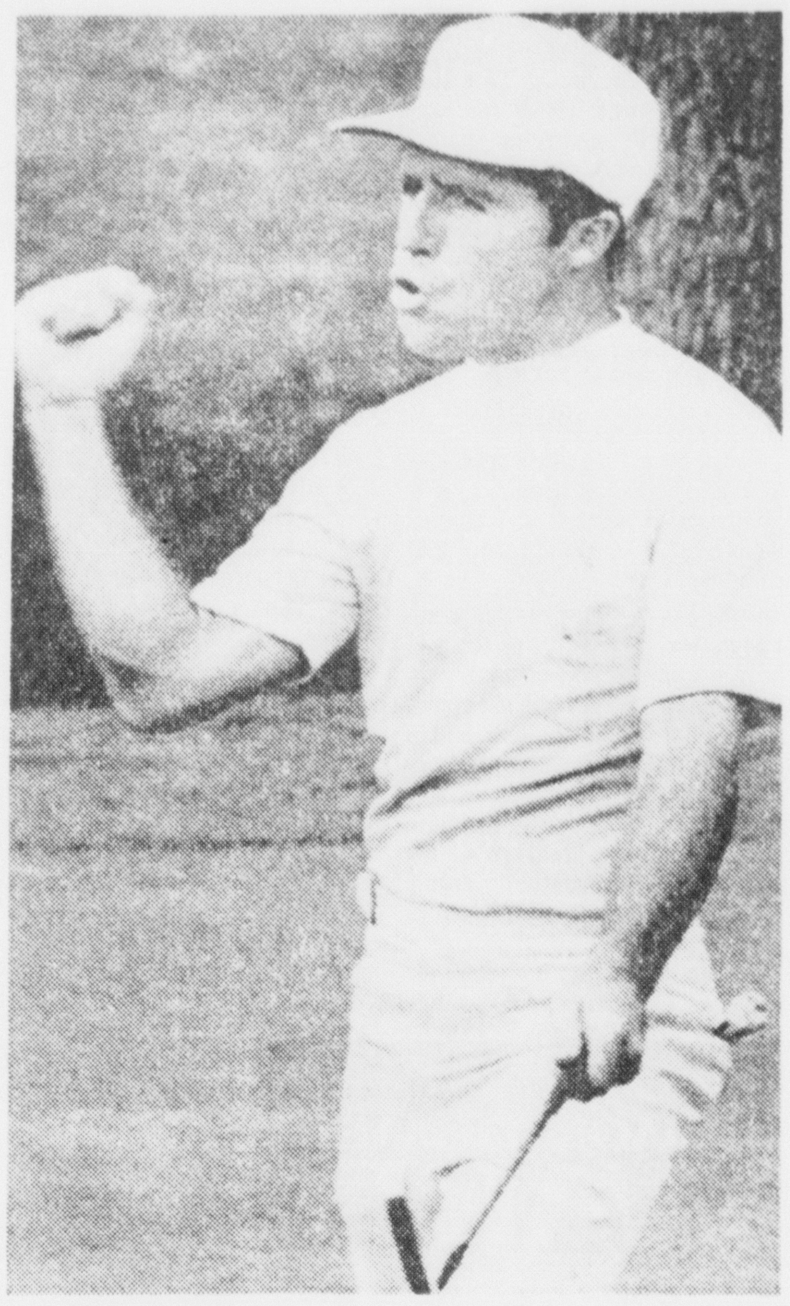
They're Hot At Colonial



HE MADE IT — Gary Player shows his approval after sinking a 35-foot putt on the 18th hole to give him a second-place tie after the second round of the Colonial Open in Fort Worth, Tex. (UPI Telephoto)

Yancey Fires Record 65 Round To Lead Pack

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Bert Yancey went into today's third round of the $125,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament with a record-matching 65 in the book and a menacing quartet of veterans looming over his shoulder.

Yancey's five-under-par round yesterday tied the competitive course record for the 7,175 yard, par 70 Colonial Country Club course — set by Ben Hogan 1946—and staked the one-time West Point cadet to a two-stroke lead at 136.

But the lead was far from secure with scrambling Gary Player, poweful Jack Nicklaus, Billy Maxwell and Jack Montgomery all at 138 and another trio another shot back at 139. They are Australian Bruce Crompton, Charles Coody and Gardner Dickinson.

HE'S PROUD

"I'm proud of this," Yancey said, and he kept his voice emotionless and he didn't crack a smile as he described his round.

"It's as good as I have ever played. It's as rewarding a round as I've ever had because I still consider this a tough golf course."

Player agreed. "This is really a great golf course," the little South African said. "It's a fractional thing, the difference between a birdie and a bogey on this course. For instance, I had a bogey on 17 and played that hole better than I did 18, where I got a birdie."

But the elite field continued to punish the course, rebuilt this year when a flood control project forced the straightening of the Trinity River that spears through the layout.

ONE BOGEY

Yancey, a moody product of Tallahassee, Fla., had only one bogey and six birds in his round. His bogey came on the third hole, where he hit a tree, found a trap and missed a 10-foot putt. A monster putt of 40 feet on No. 8 capped as tring of three consecutive birds, and he canned putts of 15, 26 and 6 feet for others.

Player was bewildered by his round, a 68, and his performance overall. He had seven birdies and five bogeys yesterday, and in two rounds has 10 birds, an eagle, 10 bogeys and 15 pars.

"I can't explain it," he said. "And I can't believe it. How could you have 10 bogeys and still be in contention. What's the record here for birdies in 36 holes? I've got 12."

"You've got 10 and an eagle," someone said.

TWO BIRDS

"I count the eagle as two birds," he said.

Nicklaus and Maxwell each had a par 70 and Montgomery a 68. Dickinson had a 68. Coody a 69 and Crampton a 69. Bruce's round was interrupted by a snake hunt, with police taking some pot shots at a water moccasin near the 18th green.

Arnold Palmer, Frank Beard and leading money winner Gene Littler all had 68s and moved into contention at 141. Billy Casper, however, took a 74 for 145. Julius Boros had a second straight 72 and Masters champion George Archer went to a 74 for 147, just making the cut.

Odom Registers Seventh Victory

CLEVELAND (UPI) — It wasn't his most artistic victory but John Odom today is the biggest winner in the major leagues.

The 23-year-old righthander walked five and gave up seven hits but was tough when he needed to be as he blanked the Cleveland Indians, 3-0, last night to record his seventh win in eight decisions.

Odom got hitting help from Dick Green, who belted a two-run homer in the seventh and Danny Cater who added a solo shot in the ninth.

Cleveland starter and loser Mike Paul, making his first start of the season, stopped the A's without a hit for the first five innings before Bert Campaneris doubled with one out in the sixth.

Big Tiger Question: Where Is Horton?

ST. PAUL-MINNESOTA (AP) — Where is Willie Horton?

The 26-year-old Detroit Tigers outfielder, suspended indefinitely for not accompanying the World Champions to the Twin Cities, was expected to be back in uniform today against the Minnesota Twins in a nationally televised game.

Horton, who led the Tigers in home runs with 36 and batted .285 as they won the 1968 American League pennant, took himself out of a Thursday night game in the seventh inning against the Chicago White Sox and missed the team's charter flight to the Twin Cities.

And he had not reported to Tiger officials early today.

Manager Mayo Smith said Horton, roundly booed in the team's homestand before leaving for the Twin Cities, was under indefinite suspension "until he decides to rejoin his teammates."

ALL UPSET

Detroit General Manager Jim Campbell said "Horton is all upset. He's never been booed before. This was the first time."

Campbell said he talked with Horton's attorney by telephone, and he said Horton would arrive in time for today's game.

But Horton did not show up last night when the Tigers' game against the Twins was rained out.

"He was fighting the slump," said Smith, "and fighting himself. I guess it was an emotional thing with him. The harder he tried the worse it became."

BATTING SLUMP

Horton was batting only .213 and had struck out 34 times in 108 official at-bats before he jumped the team.

For every game he misses, it is costing him a reported $340, of his estimated $60,000 annual salary.

Detroit officials refused comment on a report Horton was boycotting the team because he wanted to be traded.

"In all fairness to Willie and the ball club," said Campbell, "I have no comment."

Destruction Derby

UCLA Captures Baseball Crown

The UCLA Bruins are the champions of the Pacific-8 Conference baseball battle.

The Bruins, behind the hard-hitting duo of Steve Price and Jake Molina, posted a 9-4 victory over University of Southern California yesterday to grab the crown.

The win gave the Bruins a 16-4 Pac-8 record, one game better than that of Stanford but conference commissioner Tom Hamilton has ruled that in the event of a tie, UCLA will be declared the winner because of its series edge over the Indians.

Allen Ruins Giants, 3-1

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Rich Allen has some strange ideas, but none of them are with that 40-ounce warclub he calls a bat.

This was a typical week in the life of Allen. He tore up the baseball, helping the Philadelphia Phillies win a couple of games after a six-game losing streak. Off the field, he continued on his controversial way.

Allen slammed another of his moon shots last night to trigger a 3-1 victory for the Phillies over the San Francisco Giants. It came in the fifth inning with Don Money on base, erasing a Giants' 1-0 lead.

In the last two nights the 27-year-old Allen has had six hits in seven-at-bats, driven home four runs and scored six. He was 4-for-4 Thursday night against Cincinnati and 2-for-3 last night.

Despite his heroics, the fans continue to boo, although it appears that the cheers are starting to drown out the hoots. He tipped his hat once this week and almost brought the house down.

CONTROVERSIAL

Off the field, he's still an independent, controversial figure. He granted an interview to a visiting writer, then refused to allow pictures to be taken to go with the story. Not even the Phillies' publicity director could change his mind. Earlier in the week, he got a hunch in the face when he told a guy at Garden State Race track booing the jockeys to "cool it."

Maybe he has the right idea. Give him a bat and let him play ball. Pay no attention to anything else he does. He was discussing the poor attendance at Connie Mack Stadium—the Phillies are almost 100,000 off for the same number of games last year.

He told a reporter: "I wish Mr. Carpenter (owner Bob Carpenter of the Phillies) had enough money to let us play ball with nobody here but the players. No people, no reporters, no television cameras, no radio, just us, because I love this game, really love it. It's the other stuff. The fewer people, the better for me. I'm sorry the man is losing money, but I don't miss 'em (the fans)."

It may be hard to understand Allen's outlook off the field, but it's no trick to appreciate him on the field. He came up in the fifth against Mike McCormick with two out and Money at first. He went for a bad pitch for a strike, then ripped one that sailed over a 20-foot-tall sign atop the leftfield roof, for his sixth round-tripper.

It was at least 350 feet away and some 85 feet high. The Giants never caught up.

In the eighth, Allen started a one-run rally with a single, scoring when Deron Johnson and John Callison followed with singles. Woody Fryman, who won his fourth in five decisions, did not need the insurance run as he retired the Giants in the ninth.

The only run off Fryman came in the fourth when Willie Mays led off with his fourth homer of the season and 591st of his career. San Francisco threatened in the sixth with two on and none out. But Fryman struck out a pair, intentionally loaded the bases with a walk and then got Hal Lanier with a popup.

COLLEGE NOTES

Coach Read Has A Few Problems

By RALPH CHATOIAN

If you want to get some reaction out of calm and cool Dick Read, just ask him if he's got any hot prospects for next season's College of Marin football team.

I tried it.

"I don't even know where we're going to play, let alone who is going to play," the Tars grid coach retorted. "We don't have a football field and we're looking into playing our games during the afternoons on some of the local high school fields. We still have to hold a meeting with the coaches and administration to iron these things out. Then I'll call a meeting to see who we have out." Sept. 10 is the completion date for the new field, but Read doubts it will be done then.

OUTSTANDING YOUNG MAN, that Bill Gillingham of Sonoma State College. A former track and field ace at Tamalpais High in Mill Valley and College of Marin, he has rewritten quite a few records for the Rohnert Park school's track and field team this season.

He's done such a tall job, the senior biology major has been selected for inclusion in the 1969 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America," and annual biographical compilation featuring accomplishments of about 5,000 athletes throughout the country.

Here's the Sonoma State records Bill now holds: 440-yard dash — 50.1; 880 — 1:53.1; 800 meters — 1:52.4; mile — 4:18.0; 1500 meters — 3:53.2; two-mile — 9:35.5; three-mile — 14:48.9.

Gillingham also finished ninth in the 1968 cross-country championships, was elected captain of the cross-country team and the track and field team (twice). Bill will be working for his teaching credential during the 1969-70 school year at Sonoma State.

BASEBALL IS over for the Sonoma State Cossacks, and it was a long season, the team winning just four of 21 conference games and eight of 30 overall. Pitcher-infielder Bing Kunzig was the batting leader, ending the season with a .338 average. Second baseman Jeff Barker was the only other .300 hitter on the team, at .314.

Kunzig, a senior from San Francisco, also was the top pitcher for the Cossacks, the righthander ending with a 4.20 earned run average and a 3-6 win loss record in Far West Conference action. He struck out 34 and walked 26 in 68⅔ innings of work.

Novato Opens Against Diablo Valley Champ

Novato High School will carry the Marin County Athletic League banner into the expanded Redwood High School Tournament of Champions May 29-31.

They'll face the Diablo Valley Champion on opening day at 8 p.m. Antioch is leading the Diablo Valley League with a 10-4 record.

Two more leagues have been added to the tournament this season. The San Francisco Triple A League and the Mission Valley League have joined the spring baseball fray.

The Hornets have gone through the season so far with a 19-3 record, boasting an 11-1 league mark. Two of their losses came in the Pacifica Tournament while the other was to San Rafael in league play.

The league has had only one champion in the tournament. That came when Marin Catholic won it in 1966. Terra Linda lost in the finals to Oakland Tech last year.

Other leagues represented in the tournament are Alameda, Oakland, East Bay Catholic, Hayward, North Bay and North Peninsula.

San Rafael Nine Takes To Road

The San Rafael Braves, their roster padded with two imposing newcomers, take their wares to Maryville tomorrow for a 1 p.m. doubleheader.

Novatan Tom Corder, the do-everything shortstop and hitting star at San Jose State, and Mike Terry, College of Marin's 9-1 All-Camino Norte Conference hurler, have been added to the team.

Terry and Steve Miller will do the hurling against the Giants, who have a 6-0 record to the Braves' 1-3 mark.

By GARY TISCHLER

This weekend's massive sixth annual Marin Invitational Class A swim meet at Novato High School points out an obvious need, and it isn't more swimmers.

There will be enough swimmers, 700 of them, at the meet, but what's missing, and what has been missing, is some kind of permanent structure to house this kind of meet and further provide some kind of focus point for the growing and active interest in swimming.

With a few king-sized bureaucratic miracles, it may not be missing much longer.

Carney Campion of San Rafael, a long-time active fan and promoter of age-group swimming, along with numerous swimming boosters, clubs and organizers that may also include tennis fans, has long seen the need for a kind of super recreational complex on the county level, encompassing swimming, diving and tennis.

TALKING DREAM

For a long time, this was just sort of a talking dream and a conversation opener ("Wouldn't it be nice") at swim meets and club meetings.

But now, the dream, while nowhere near a reality, at least is fully organized and official.

Campion is serving as chairman of a group called Marin Athletic and Recreation Sponsors (MARS), a group whose specific purpose is to promote and facilitate a program of action that would eventually result in just such a recreational complex.

So far, the group has been organized, interested parties (Marin age group swim clubs, tennis clubs, ballet Aquacade, Red Cross programs, etc.) have been consulted and local governmental bodies have been approached, and pleaded with, as to the feasibility of such a project.

Campion has talked with city level groups (the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department) county (Marin County Board of Supervisors), planners and directors of all sorts. They have listened politely but have made no commitment as yet.

MANY ADVANTAGES

Campion, an enthusiast and organizer par excellance, points to the myriad advantages of such a complex: It could centralize Marin swimming activities, it would be for public use primarily, it could house and hold meets of national importance both in tennis and swimming, bringing added prestige, money and interest to the county. In short, it has unlimited use.

The problems in turning a conversation piece, even an officially organized dream, into a concrete reality are many.

The principal one, if not the immediate one, is money. Such an undertaking is bound to wind up as something more than your old swimming hole. It could run well over $1 million.

DIRTY WORD

How do you get the money in a county where "taxes" is a very dirty five-letter word? Bond issues could be raised. It could be done through a joint-powers agreement between cities and county, or through partial federal aid. But that would all be in the future.

Right now, there are no plans for the complex, no inches and feet dimensions, cost studies or architect's drawings, building sites or lists of construction materials.

What MARS and Campion are doing first and foremost is to act as a catalyst that will mushroom and steamroller interest in the proposed complex.

FOCAL POINT

Certainly there is a need for some kind of swimming and tennis focal point in the county. Marin's swimming activities are scattered all over the county and outside, from age-group to high school level. There simply is no one place to go.

Whether enough people will become actively interested beyond the point of talking and wishing, only time will tell. MARS and Carney Campion hope that the answer will be plenty of people.

Finley Buys Big Share In Casinos

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Charles O. Finley, controversial owner of the Oakland Athletics, has bought a large block of shares in a corporation which owns three Las Vegas gambling casinos.

Finley confirmed yesterday he purchased 30,000 shares in Parvin-Dohrmann Corp., which operates the Alladin Hotel and Casino and the Stardust Hotel and Casino on the Las Vegas Strip and the Fremont Hotel in downtown Las Vegas. The stock sold for 104½ a share Friday on the American Stock Exchange, down 14½ points from Thursday.

Drivers Face Qualifications At Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —Speedway demon drivers challenged the records and their own bravery today as 500-mile time trials opened with dapper little Mario Andretti favored for the coveted pole position.

Weather permitting, qualifications before an anticipated crowd of more than 250,000 were scheduled to open this morning with the pole berth —the inside position on the first row for the Memorial Day race —going to the fastest first day racer.

There was a 60 per cent change of rain.

There appeared little doubt that the one and four-lap records of 171.953 and 171.559 m.p.h. would be eclipsed if the weather was favorable.

Only one turbocar was entered this time and its status for this weekend's trials was doubtful. Andy Granatelli, meanwhile, entered an 11-car team headed by Andretti and former winner Graham Hill.

ABM Or Lack Of It Not Key To World Peace

There is much questioning by scientists as to whether Safeguard antiballistic missiles could do the job of knocking down enemy missiles before they reached their targets, but there is no question that they can produce plenty of noisy explosions.

They have done it already, while still on the drawing boards.

Lost, unfortunately, amid the sound and fury of the scientific-military argument over the ABM system are greater questions bearing on the peace and survival of the world.

DEFENSE SECY. Melvin Laird keeps insisting that the Soviet Union will soon have missile superiority if we do not at once start building two ABM installations (though whether those two installations would make much difference boggles us as much as it boggles some of the scientists).

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said on his recent California visit: "Only the President holds all the facts and all the responsibility. He, alone, must answer for now and eternity the question: What does America need in the way of security to enable us to construct a long-lasting peace?"

President Nixon wants the two Safeguard installations. Earlier he wanted 15 installations.

ON THE OPPOSITE side are scientists, senators and some military men who say that the two installations woud be useless, that the ABMs would not do what they are intended to do, and that the installations would merely escalate the arms race and serve no security purpose.

Overlooked is the fact that whether or not the United States builds these two installations will have no great effect on world tensions.

Whether Safeguard authorization would give Nixon a trump card in disarmament talks with the Russians (as he says it would) or whether it would increase their distrust and cause them to further step up their own armaments (as opponents say it would), installation or non-installation of the ABMs really will not solve anything.

IF A HALT is to be called to the arms race, if the tensions that divide the world are to be lessened, then the attention, scientific inquiry and argument now centered on the missile proposal need to be turned in another direction.

They need to be turned on what the United States can do to help the cause of peace without stripping itself of the power to defend itself.

A good first place to look might be at some of the more than 400 overseas military bases the United States is maintaining around the world.

Many of these bases have long outlived the purposes for which they are established. Many of them are thorns in the sides of otherwise friendly countries, and of no military value to the United States unless it embarks on an aggressive war.

Another place to look might be at the arms aid given by the U.S. to other countries "to contain communism." We ought to have learned by now that the guns we provide can be fired at us. There are better ways to support friendly nations than by arming them.

THERE ARE MANY other ways in which the U.S.A. could start turning the world toward peace instead of war. If the determination, energy and skill were applied to them that is being applied to the ABM dispute, many of them could be found and accomplished.

To Ban Or Not To Ban?

Why ban DDT? This is the question many people must be asking. The late Rachel Carson gave us the answer 10 years ago in her widely acclaimed book, "Silent Spring." She stated simply that we don't know enough about the long-term effects of DDT and the other clorinated hydrocarbons on man and other animals to permit their uncontrolled use.

Since her book was bublished, an entire body of literature by respected scientists has implicated these potent poisons in the deaths of many unintended animal victims. The thing that makes the chlorinated hydrocarbons such a potential menace is that under natural conditions they are very slow to break down. Thus, they build up into higher and higher concentrations in the oceans off our coasts, where the run-off from our fields finally takes them.

Just this past month, two more kinds of aquatic life were found to be badly affected by DDT residue — pelicans and our bay crabs. And the long-term effects on man are still largely unknown.

For sake of our natural environment, if not for our own health, it seems some kind of control is in order.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to the young members of Terra Nova who have set themselves the public service task of cleaning up Marin beaches. And a hefty BRICKBAT to the thief who stole the bicycle of one of the Terra Nova youths while they were cleaning up Strawberry Point last weekend.

BRICKBATS to the San Anselmo City Council for the stiff-backed stubbornness that prevents selection of a new mayor, and for starting to tinker with the plans by Peat, Marwick & Livingston, traffic engineers, for the Hub intersection. The Hub city councilmen should have learned their inability as engineers when they messed up the Sir Francis Drake Boulevard widening project.

BOUQUET to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District for getting things moving on a San Francisco-Marin bicycle trail by agreeing to erect an $11,500 bridge for bikes connecting with the Golden Gate span.

Open Campus Creates Problems

It was most interesting to read the article in your May 13 issue concerning the plans . . . at Tamalpais High School to discuss the possibility of an open campus policy. Even more interesting was the fact that Tamalpais High School had open campus until 1965 when it was closed because of "neighborhood protests over litter, trespassing, and off-campus brawls among students."

Here in Terra Linda the high school has had a "trial" open campus on a limited basis since last October. There have not been off-campus brawls, to my knowledge, but littering and trespassing are only two of the problems. . . . To these, let me add the following:

1. Increase parking and traffic problems to residential areas.

2. Increase daytime burglaries and thefts at nearby homes.

3. Increased vandalism to cars parked on nearby streets.

4. Intense "necking" in parked cars and on surrounding hillsides by students.

5. Foul language used by groups who eat lunch in parked cars in front of homes where pre-school children play.

6. Loitering near the campus by individuals and groups who are not students at Terra Linda High School.

7. Excessive speeding by students and "visitors" in residential areas where small children play.

. . . We appeared at the school board meeting (and) were told to accept the situation as a community problem. . . . We then attended a meeting (with) the Student Council of Terra Linda High School. . . . Nothing has been solved. . . .

When administrators give a privilege . . . to an entire student body, they must take the necessary action to see that those who violate its governing policies are punished or restricted. This is not being done at Terra Linda High School, and the sad part is, no one seems to care . . .

'I Will Be What I Will': True For God And Man

By RABBI HAIM KEMELMAN

We recall in biblical narrative how Moses sought a clear communion sing, a definitive approach to communication with the God-forces of redemption.

But Moses was rebutted by a terse explanation instead of a clear definition: "I will be what I will be." (The traditional translation, "I am what I am," from the original, lacks precision. "Ehye asher ehye," in Hebrew literally means "I will be what I will be.")

"I WILL BE what I will be," God says to man. I will be what every person finds me to be to himself; what every individual soul makes me to be within himself; what every man makes of himself to be, by allowing the divine spirit to become a steady resident of his soul, in shaping his thoughts, his daily life and his future destiny.

God, individual salvation, redemption grace, are not dictionary definitions, worded formulas, but rather are the dialect of the soul. And as you are unable to describe the soul, you can't define its communicaition.

One thing is clear: the gate to individual salvation is open to all the common and forgotten people of whom Lincoln spoke as being loved by God because he created so many of them.

ALL WE NEED is to believe in ourselves and in the part of the Messiah which is implanted within us, making it possible for us to elicit those redeeming powers that will restore to us the harmonies of heaven and earth and bring healing to both body and soul. And when we come to experience such mystical ecstasy, we gain a joyous and cheerful affirmation of the goodness of life and the worthwhileness of our individual purpose in living.

We can't see God, but we can have a vision of Divinity. By making ourselves visible to Him, we find Him in our hearts. And those who believe that God speaks only to them and that His salvation is the favored monopoly of a select few have adopted for themselves a very small and marginal God with a dwarfed soul for His residence.

God is not some men; God is all men. God is not in my faith alone; God is in all faiths.

DESCARTES summed it up this way: "I think, therefore I am." Not "I am what I am," but I am what I make of myself; I am what I think, I am what I feel, I am what I believe, I am what I envision, I am what I dare, I am what I dream.

W. Macneile Dixon speaks of material things as senseless nonentities because they can never become conscious of themselves and are therefore incapable of outsoaring themselves and rising above their sources. But man is different. "The 'I'," he said, "is the window through which every man that ever was born looks out upon the scene of existence. Flung open at his birth, shuttered at his death, at this window through which no one else can every look, this untransferable viewpoint, each one of us sits all his life long."

Theft Is 'Reward' For Worthy Service

The Saturday I-J (May 10) ran a picture on the front page showing us what is being done to clean up the beach. This is an extremely commendable thing to do — especially by volunteers — but one of these volunteers paid dearly for this generosity of time. This young man came to the beach on his bike, a bike he had paid out of his own earnings as an I-J paper boy. Within a half hour the bike was stolen!

Powerful Forces Join Fight For Safeguard ABM System

WASHINGTON — The big guns of the military-industrial-political complex are being leveled at opponents of the Nixon administration's Safeguard antiballistic missile program. The latest blast comes from the national strategy committee of the American Security Council, a conservative organization heavily weighted with those who over the years have been professional cold war warriors.

Of the 30 members of a special subcommittee signing a report entitled, "The ABM and the Changed Strategic Military Balance," 13 are retired admirals or generals. Of these, several have had connections with defense industry.

STRESSING NOT only Russian capabilities but Russian intentions, as interpreted by the committee, the report makes some astonishing statements. The Russians are "outpacing the United States" in strategic weaponry, according to the report, "because they exercise over-all control over the economy and can suppress public opposition that might arise." Then the report adds: "In the United States, on the other hand, the needs of national defense can be obscured or delayed by emphasis on domestic needs or wants."

This seems to carry the implication that if this country could only supress opposition, the nation's domestic needs would not get in the way of spending for weapons.

The report states that the United States has carefully tailored its nuclear arsenal to exclude all weapons designed to initiate an attack or with such an attack could even be credibly threatened.

AS THE ABM dispute gathers momentum, with a vote in the Senate likely in mid-June, it is bound to become more divisive and envenomed.

The power of the American Security Council in the struggle over the ABM cannot be discounted. Started by two ex-FBI men, it carries on a variety of activities. Out of huge files in Chicago the council provides security clearance for the employees of corporations that are council contributors.

At a comfortable estate in Virginia the council operates the Institute for American Strategy. This is a superboard of directors for the military-industrial complex. The participants include the top military and the top defense contractors. On one occasion the entire Joint Chiefs of Staff was brought down by helicopter. A speaker at a recent session was the chief of staff of the army, Gen. Wiliam C. Westmoreland.

THE COUNCIL puts on a radio program with a thousand stations using the tapes, which is said to have the widest coverage of any single program. The usual speaker is former Rep. Walter Judd. The principal angel is Patrick J. Frawley, the California industrialist. Frawley puts up $100,000 a year to present the program as a public service for one of his companies, Schick Razor.

The strategy committee has enlisted several distinguished scientists, including Eugene Wigner, a Nobel laureate. But they confront on the opposing side the science advisers of three former presidents and most of the scientific community. The lines are being sharply drawn in an historic contest.

If We Have No ABM, What Can We Scrap For Disarmament?

WASHINGTON — You can talk about the antiballistic missile system from now until doomsday (I'm sorry I had to use that word), but you still go around in circles.

One of the strongest proponents of the ABM system is a friend of mine who has been assigned by the Pentagon to convince skeptics like myself that we really need an ABM system. Since they have no funds yet, I bought him a drink.

"I DON'T THINK I could make a stronger argument for the ABM," he said, "than the fact that Secretary Laird has revealed the Soviets will have a first-strike nuclear capability by 1975."

"That's pretty strong," I admitted. "But how come Secretary Laird found out about this first-strike Soviet capability and Secretaries NcNamara and Clifford knew nothing about it?"

"Laird reads more."

"Look, a few months ago you told me that the reason we needed an ABM system was to protect our cities from Soviet missiles. Then you said it was to protect our cities from Red Chinese missiles. After that, you said it was impossible to protect the cities so we had to protect our missile launching sites. Now you say we need it because the Soviets are building new first-strike missiles. Then you said it was to protect our cities from Red Chinese missiles. After that, you said it was impossible to protect the cities so we had to protect our missile launching sites. Now you say we need it because the Soviets are building new first-strike missiles. Why don't you make up your mind?"

"ACTUALLY, it's a little of this and a little of that," he said, unperturbed. "We know we need the system, but we're not quite sure what we need it for. It has many uses.

"For example, the Soviets are building an ABM System around Moscow. Now we know it doesn't work, but we're not certain the Soviets know it doesn't work. So if we build an ABM system, they'll find out ours doesn't work, and then they'll have to assume their system doesn't work either."

"I get it," I said excitedly. "If we didn't have an ABM system, the Soviets might put too much value on the one they have."

"RIGHTO. Now we also have to think in terms of disarmament. When we have a disarmament meeting with the Soviets, we're going to have to give up something. Right?"

"Of course. That is what disarmament is all about."

"We don't want to give up something that could endanger the security of the country, so, if we have the ABM system, we can give that up instead. Of course, if we didn't have an ABM system for disarmament purposes, we'd have to invent one."

"I know there are many scientists and Nobel prize winners who are attacking the system, but what they don't realize is that if they say the system won't work, the Soviets will be encouraged to go ahead with their offensive missiles, and the more missiles they stockpile the more they will be encouraged to try a first strike."

"BUT WHY?" "Because Secretary Laird says so."

"What about the [illegible]?"

"That's all anyone ever thinks about when you mention the ABM in this country — money," my friend said in disgust. "Instead of worrying about what it's going to cost, you should get down on your knees and say 'Thank God I can live in a country that can afford an antiballistic missile system.' "

"Sometimes," I said ashamedly, "Americans don't know how lucky they really are."

What You Don't Know About

OIL and GAS FUNDS

May Be Costing You Money

Particularly if you are in the middle to high income brackets. Oil and Gas Funds are speculative investments which offer one highly attractive feature — the same tax write-offs and depreciation allowances available to major oil companies.

A seminar on this little-known aspect of investing will be held in San Rafael, Monday, May 19, 8:00 p.m., Bank of Marin Building, 3rd Floor Conference Room.

Jack Phillip Investment Services, Petaluma, in affiliation with Bonner Bell Investment Services, Incorporated, Walnut Creek, are hosting the seminar. Reservations may be made by calling 479-5200 in San Rafael.

$750,000 Is Asked In Telephone Case

San Rafael attorney Thomas G. Fitzgerald has filed suit against the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. asking $750,000 damages and charging that the phone company damaged his career by disconnecting his phone.

Fitzgerald claimed that the company had violated its obligation under the Public Utilities Commission regulations by requiring a large deposit as well as payment for back charges before reconnecting his phone.

The attorney said that the company said he owed $134 in back bills on April 15 and threatened to disconnect the phone. The company wanted the bill paid as well as an additional deposit of $240.

Although he more than paid the bill by sending the phone company $160, the phone was still disconnected he claimed for a period of 13 days.

Fitzgerald claimed in the suit, which was filed Thursday in Alameda County Superior Court, that his professional reputation had been damaged. He also said that in the past 22 years he had "dutifully paid to the defendant in a generally timely fashion an estimated 40 to 50 thousand dollars."

Fitzgerald said today he filed the suit to test the company's practice of requiring such deposits before restoring service.

Party Leader Pleads Innocent

Irvin H. Sutley Jr., Leader of the Sonoma County Peace and Freedom Party, pleaded innocent to possession of marijuana in Sonoma County Superior Court yesterday with trial set for July 15.

Judge Lincoln F. Mahan received a motion to dismiss the case because of insufficient evidence and will rule on it Tuesday. An earlier motion to suppress evidence had been denied.

Sutley was arrested March 2 by Cotati police and later claimed the arrest was an act of political harassment.

$500 Gift To Humane Society

Mrs. Spencer Smiley, retiring president of the Marin County Cat Fanciers, has presented a check for $500 from the organization to the Marin Humane Society. The gift was made from proceeds of the All Breed Cat Show held in March by the club.

EUGENE E. CRAWFORD

Mill Valley Architect Is Given Honor

Eugene A. Crawford of Mill Valley, a partner in the architectural firm of Crawford and Banning in San Rafael, has been elected to the College of Fellows of the American Institute of Architects for outstanding achievement.

Crawford, a member of the institute for 22 years, served as president of the Northern California Chapter in 1964, and is now vice president and president-designate of the California Council.

His work has included a variety of projects, among them office buildings for the Bank of Marin, the Northwestern and Marin County Savings and Loan associations and the Marin Municipal Water District.

Current projects include work for Chico State College, Tamalpais High School District and Marin County.

He also has served as a lecturer in architectural design at the University of California at Berkeley.

Street Lighting Panel Studying New Locations

The Greenbrae Property Owners Association, concerned over a large number of burglaries in its community, is conducting a survey to determine where extra street lights should be placed.

Association directors voted Wednesday night to ask the Larkspur City Council to provide the extra lights and requested to ask the Larkspur City Council to provide the extra lights and requested that the cost be spread over several years, according to Mrs. Beth Reilly, association secretary.

In other action at the meeting, directors voted to support the Save the Bay Alliance, which is backing a strong conservation bill for San Francisco Bay; appropriated $150 for local Cub Scout and Boy Scout work; appointed Thomas H. Ring as legislative chairman, and said they would discuss with the County of Marin possible refurbishing at the Los Sombres playground.

Directing A Marin Tradition

MARIN-BORN Robin Jackson, now a College of Marin faculty member, is the director of this year's Mountain Play, to be performed tomorrow and May 25 in Cushing Memorial Amphitheater on Mount Tamalpais. Jackson is directing a cast of 150 in "The World We Live In" by Joseph and Carol Capek.

A native Marinite will be at the helm tomorrow when a cast of 150 persons presents "The World We Live In" as the 1969 production of the county's traditional Mountain Play.

Robin Jackson, Ross-born, College of Marin drama instructor, is the director of this year's outdoor spectacle on Mount Tamalpais, which will have its first of two successive Sunday performances in the amphitheater tomorrow at 2 p.m.

HE SAW HIS first Mountain Play "in 1947 or 1948," a performance of the oft-repeated "Tamalpa."

"But I never thought then that some day I would be directing a Mountain Play," he admits.

Since then, he has returned to Cushing Memorial Amphitheater on Tam several times as a Mountain Play spectator.

Once he almost appeared in one of the plays. Coincidentally, it was "The World We Live In," the same epic to be performed tomorrow and the following Sunday.

"I WAS IN the cast," he recalls. "Then I had an opportunity to crew on a yacht. And I accepted it, instead."

Jackson says he has felt an affection for Mount Tamalpais all my life, "probably because my folks loved the mountain. We used to hike and ride — my dad kept horses — on Tam all the time. It became an old friend."

Jackson worked his way through school as a tree surgeon. After college, he and another youth decided to take up geology and mineralology. They headed for Trinity County where they spent six months hiking, often through snow, and collecting samples.

"THEN ONE day," Jackson relates, "we decided to hunt for bigger game. We took off for British Columbia, the Yukon Territory and Alaska to do some prospecting."

There was still the flavor of the Wild West "complete with barroom brawls and shady dance hall ladies" in those untamed regions, Jackson recalls.

When he returned to California, it was to more schooling, teaching and the theater. He taught drama at Westmoor High School for four years. And for the past three years he has been with the College of Marin faculty.

HE HAS appeared with the San Francisco Repertory Company and with the Reno Little Theater.

His past also includes service as a U.S. Marine Corps captain in the Orient — because of his experience with stagecraft, he was placed in charge of the construction of an orphanage on Okinawa — and as a private investigator.

His hobbies also represent a wide range of interests.

He remains an avid hiker and is a skilled mountain climber. But his favorite sport is automobile racing as a sports car and formula car driver.

HE IS currently co-owner of an off-road racing Ford Cortina that placed 15th in the Baja California 1,000-mile road race from Ensenada to La Paz.

Of the theater, he says: "I direct by trying to get my actors to free themselves from inhibitions."

And to get his actors to be "themselves," he has developed "theater games."

"We'll play tag or dodge ball," he says, "all in the effort to encourage this freedom from inhibitions."

AS IMPORTANT for the director as encouraging the best possible performance from an actor, he says, is the blending of all these individual performances into a cohesive whole. "A company should blend together very much like a symphony orchestra, or a football team. The director is the conductor or coach."

Jackson does not believe in working from rigid, set rules.

In "The World We Live In,' Jackson is working with familiar material.

HE DIRECTED the same play as a College of Marin production in December, 1968.

But its performance there, indoors, and on Mount Tamalpais, outdoors, are two very different things, he points out.

"The philosophy of the play

remains the same," he says, "but the style must differ radically."

At the College of Marin performances, the audience sat in swivel chairs in the center, while the actors played their roles on a circular stage that surrounded the spectators.

AT THE amphitheater, the arrangement will be the traditional one of the stage area to the front, with the audience seated around it. But there is all that wide open space that makes the Mountain Play quite unlike any other Northern California production.

Of his cast of 150, Jackson says, approximately 50 are College of Marin students who performed earlier in the school production.

"We are going to make use of electronics and live music," he says. "We'll have some surprises for our audience, all designed to get them involved in our play."

JACKSON'S WIFE, also named Robin, is a talented actress who will appear in this year's Mountain Play. They have a daughter, Melissa, a year and a half old, who, her father says, "will be in the 1975 Mountain Play."

There's no doubt in Jackson's or anyone else's mind but what the Mountain Play will still be performed in 1975, and for many years thereafter.

A Marin fixture, it has been going on since 1913.

TOMORROW and the May 25 performance will mark the 52nd Mountain Play.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at Tyrrell's in Mill Valley, Talbot of Tiburon in Strawberry Town and Country Village, B. F. Edward's Stationery in Novato, Cottage Book Store in San Rafael and Orrick Travel in San Anselmo.

ROBIN JACKSON poses with his wife, also Robin, and with daughter Melissa, a year and a half old. Mrs. Jackson is in the cast of tomorrow's Mountain Play, directed by her husband. But Melissa, says her father, will have to wait a few years.

WORKING with a patient suffering from a leg injury, David M. Heizer carefully fits a leg brace so as to assure a correct fit in every detail that will permit the man to walk with the least possible amount of inconvenience. Heizer, certified orthonist, is director of the orthotic department at Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital of Northern California in Kentfield. His department is unique in non-governmental hospitals in the West.

Center Medical Offers A Unique Orthotics Department To Patients

After hospitalization, she could not place any weight on the leg. She was fitted with a long leg brace and a full calf-laced orthotic device. Now she can walk normally.

He was fitted with a long leg brace to protect his injured limb after the cast was removed. Today he again walks and rides his motorcycle.

A 30-YEAR-OLD East Bay man suffered a fractured neck in an industrial accident, but fortunately had no nerve damage. Any sudden movement, any slight jar could have severed the critical nerves and ended his life or totally paralyzed him.

He was fitted with a curvical brace designed to stabilize the spine and head and provide slight traction to the neck. Now after a year of wearing the brace, his doctors say he can resume normal activity without the orthotic aid.

A 21-year-old San Francisco man is a quadriplegic due to a ski accident, unable to use any of his limbs normally.

USING A combination of electrical power and gravity, the splints are put into motion by the movement of his shoulder against a switch in his wheelchair. The orthotic devices open and close his fingers, and while he can never expect the full use of his limbs, he has attained some degree of independent movement.

These Bay Area residents are four of the more than 200 persons, young and old, who owe their present physical mobility to their private physicians and to the unduplicated physical rehabilitation services offered by the specially equipped and staffed orthotics department of Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital of Northern California.

THE 100-BED, 10-year-old Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital in Kentfield is the only non-governmental hospital in the West to provide this much needed service to the area it serves.

The orthotic department at Center Medical is unique in that the braces and other orthotic devices used by patients are actually designed and manufactured in the hospital. This eliminates the need for patients to travel long distances for fittings in a non-hospital setting, and allows maximum personal service to be given patients in the hospital or in their home by members of the Center Medical orthotic department or physical and occupational therapy personnel.

THE DEPARTMENT is under the direction of David M. Heizer, certified orthonist, and one of less than 2,000 such specialists in the nation certified by the American Board for Certification in Orthotics.

Heizer works under the direction of the patients' personal physicians, in close cooperation with the nursing staff at Center Medical and Rehabilitation, and with large and well-staffed physical and occupational therapy departments of the hospital.

Thirty-nine years old, Heizer was certified in 1961, and before coming to Center Medical and Rehabilitation, was in charge of the bracing post-polio, post-surgical, and rheumatoid arthritic services at Ranch Los Amigos Hospital in Southern California.

HIS DAILY schedule may include the creation of a plaster mold from the torso of a Marin County government employee with a spinal condition which calls for a special brace if the man is to continue to hold his job.

Heizer may then move to the huge sewing machine in his department where he carefully sews leather to form an integral part of a leg brace for a 68-year-old woman with physical problems caused by age and

FROM A STOCK of aluminum braces in the ortholic department of Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital, David M. Heizer selects the proper device for a patient with a leg injury. It will then be shaped to fit exactly the special needs of the individual patient.

"Why Can't Spots Be Removed From My Dress?"

They can, but you won't like it. Your dress is a blend of natural and synthetic fibers. A feature of this combination is difficulty in spot removal. Natural fibers such as cotton, wool and silk absorb dyes which penetrate the entire fiber. Synthetic fibers repel moisture and dyes. Dyes applied to synthetics remain on the surface. When a dress like yours becomes spotted, the spot removal agents or the friction of applying them may remove the spot, but may also remove the dye which is only on the surface of the synthetic fibers. The natural fibers with which the synthetics are blended retain their color and you have a color difference which appears like a spot and cannot be removed.

It is hoped that the textile colorists will, some day, overcome this problem. Until they do, however, spot removal on a blend of synthetic and natural fibers, or even an all synthetic fiber garment, is not only a problem, but impossible.

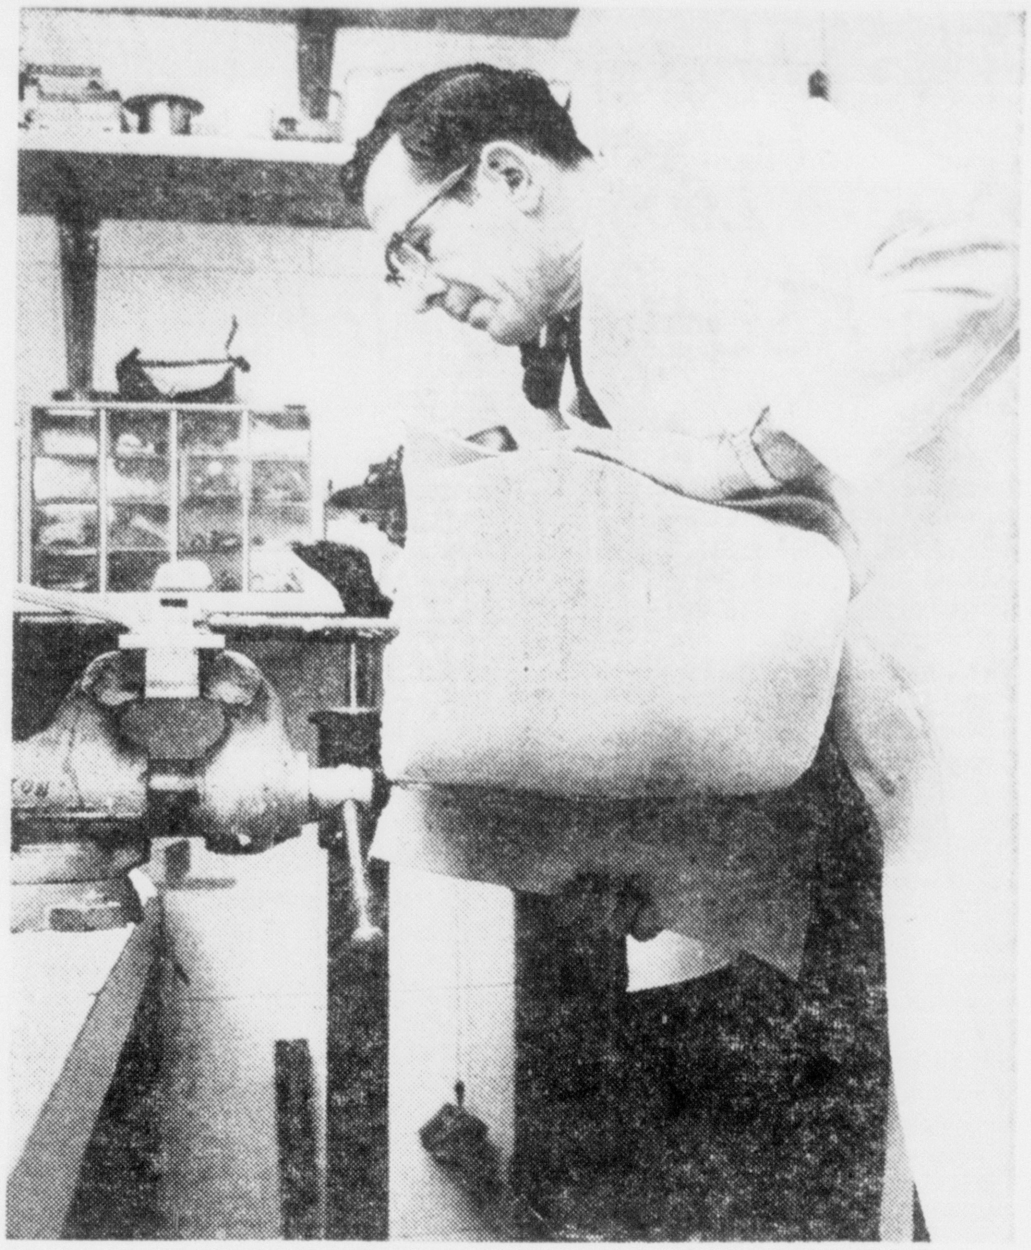
AT THE SEWING machine, David M. Heizer inserts a seam in leather that will assure a perfect fit. The Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital staff member is one of fewer than 2,000 certified orthonists in the country.



A PLASTER MOLD taken directly from a patient's torso has been used by David M. Heizer in making a preliminary fitting of a leather orthotic device. Heizer works closely with personal physicians of the patients.

frequent falls. He may then select exactly the right piece of stainless steel or aluminum which may be curved and fitted to an electrically - operated hinge splint for a hitherto useless arm or fingers.

WHEN THE skilled hands of Heizer exactingly fit the final combination of leather, aluminum, stainless steel, or in some cases plastics, to the torso or limbs of the patient, the success story has only begun.

The entire medical and hospital team of the patient's physician, the Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital nursing staff, and the therapy experts work together with the patient on a long-term program designed to show the patient how to use and live with his new orthotic devices, and how, over weeks, months, and sometimes years, to use the devices to return to physical normality.

"THE PATIENT'S family is just as important as the patient himself," Heizer says, "because they, too, must know how to use the orthotic devices and how to help the patient in his road to recovery."

Major causes of accidents which demand the use of orthotic aids, according to Heizer, include auto accidents and industrial accidents in young and middle-aged persons, and falls or other disabilities in older persons.

Another important need for orthotic devices is caused by uninjured people in their 30s, 40s and 50s who have just allowed themselves to "get out of shape," Heizer says.

"SENSIBLE daily exercise habits, under the counsel of the family physician, can prevent the need for most such aids," Heizer continues.

Why has Center Medical and Rehabiliation Hospital of Marin County pioneered a fully developed orthotics department in a non-government facility?

Donald C. Barksdale, hospital administrator and a leader in Northern California hospital activities, says "the function of any community hospital is to provide maximum services to the area it serves. One of the basic functions of good hospital planning is to try to provide unduplicated services to save hospital patients unnecessary costs for staff and facilities which may not be used full time if several different hospitals in the same locality offer the same services.

"No non-government hospital in the West offers a complete orthotics department service, so a year ago we developed the department. And proof of its need is shown by our past record of service and by our ever growing list of patients being served."

ANGEL ISLAND'S FUTURE

By GIL PEARSON

If the future of Alcatraz Island remains clouded by conflicting plans and ideas, at least the fate of San Francisco Bay's second and larger island, Angel Island, is beginning to take on a clearer focus.

Some people like the picture scheduled for development from the revised Angel Island master plan approved by the California State Park and Recreation Commission. And some don't.

But at least President Richard M. Nixon's junking of the prior administration's plans for a "thick" anti-ballistic missile defense system for 25 major metropolitan areas, including San Francisco, has cleared the air for all an all-civilian usage of the island.

"The planned Sentinel base on Angel Island is a dead duck," said Les Houde, Army Corps of Engineers information officer, in response to our query in Sacramento.

"ARE THERE any other army plans for using Angel Island?" we pressed.

"There is none," replied Houde, "and this includes the existing Nike sites and all the 100 governmental structures abandoned to the state in 1963."

For further information on Angel Island's state park future, we barged in on Harry Dean Jr., who supervises the master plan section of the California State Department of Parks and Recreation.

Even as we settled in a chair, his secretary glided into the office and handed him the then latest revisions of Angel's master plan, dripping wet from the press.

"EVEN IN the event," he said, "the army should change its mind about using this land in any way, they would have to condemn the whole island. Meanwhile you can offer these revisions as our statement in meeting as far as possible the desires of the many differing interests we've encountered in numerous presentations to the public."

Located in the bay just off the tip of Belvedere-Tiburon Peninsula and thus isolated from the activities of the vast metropolitan complex surrounding it, Angel Island represents a unique phenomenon in the state park system.

It provides a car-less, exhaust-free atmosphere devoid of parking lots, extensive road systems and gas stations. Visitors can thus enjoy rare quiet and leisure while experiencing outstanding views of the bay.

AESTHETICALLY and historically the island portends great interest. Its solitude provides habitat for a varied bird, animal and plant life.

Angel Island was first a haven for Indians as is established at unearthed tribal sites in the Ayala Cove, North Garrison, East Garrison, Upper West Garrison and north of Point Stuart. As white men appeared, a rich and interesting history evolved.

The island was actually discovered by the Portola expedition of 1769 and was later explored by Ayala who used Ayala Cove as an anchorage and a base for his exploration of San Francisco Bay in 1775.

DURING THE Spanish and Mexican rule, it remained an anchorage, refueling and watering stop, and eventually became a cattle ranch. The earliest record of U.S. occupancy was 1863 and this continued until 1962 when the Nike missile installation was declared obsolete.

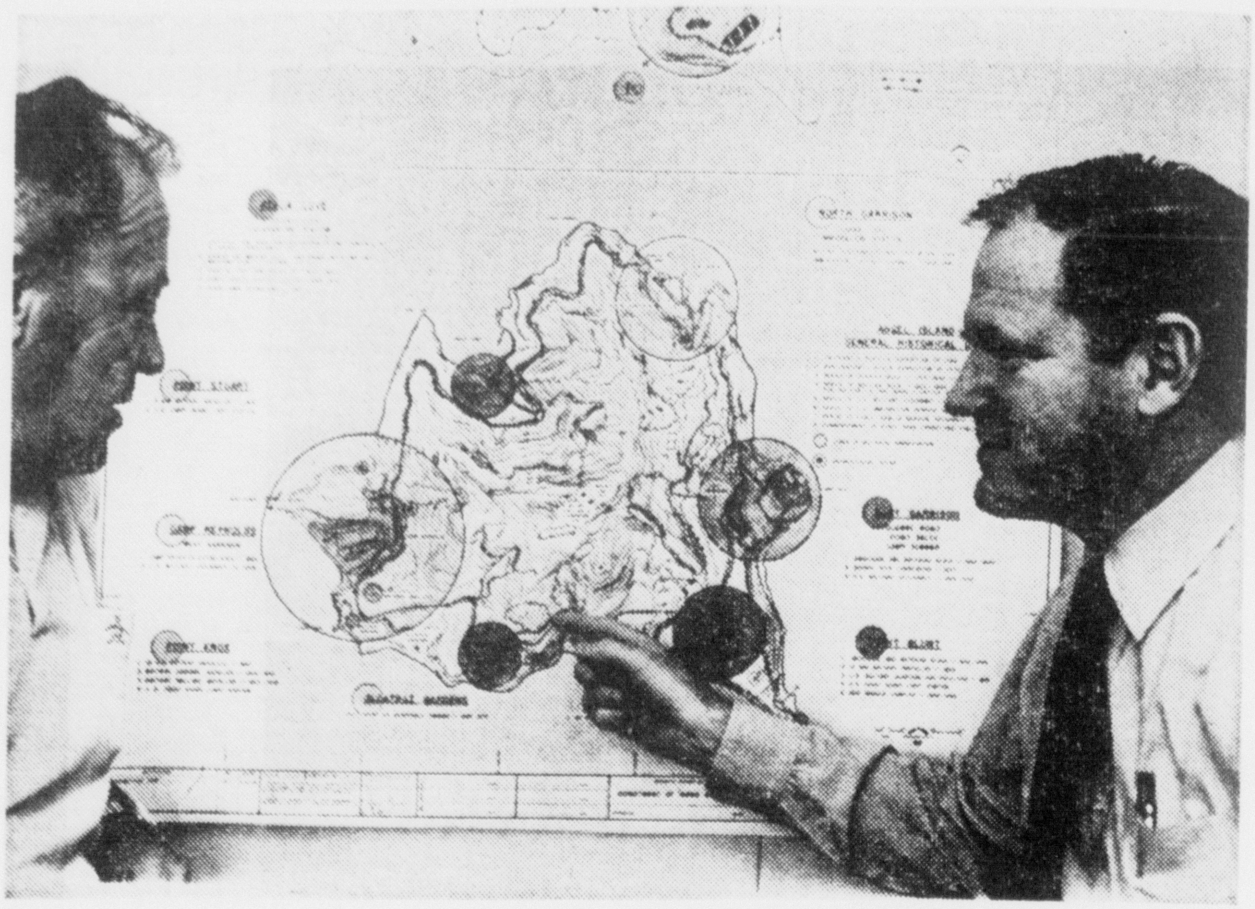
In 1905, North Garrison became the U.S Immigration Station for the West Coast. East Garrison was a U.S. military camp from 1899 to 1962, and Camp Reynolds, or West Garrison, was established during the Civil War in 1863 and remained in military occupancy until 1946.

THE ENTIRE island comprises some 730 acres and is located within the limits of the city of Tiburon; Ayala Cove being approximately one mile from the city waterfront.



HARRY DEAN JR., right, in charge of the master plan section of the California State Parks and Recreation Department, uses a map on the wall of his office to explain to writer Gil Pearson some of the details of the revised master plan for Angel Island State park development. A master plan map is reproduced on pages M10 and M11.

It is essentially a small mountain rising out of San Francisco Bay to a height of about 750 feet. The terrain is characterized by steep wooded slopes with limited gentle slopes suitable for development.

"What is your starting point in setting up proposals for civilian-use development of this property?" we asked Dean, who has been drafting and reworking Angel Island master plans over the past six years.

Waving an arm indicating the half dozen charts he had hung on his walls for us, Dean laid out the fundamental considerations:

"The first parcel, acquired in 1954, comprised about 37 acres and embraced what is principally known as Ayala Cove. The restrictions were that all the lands were to be used for 'historic monument purposes only' for a 20-year period.

"Parcel two, comprising about 184 acres, came with a 25-year restriction for 'historic monument purposes only,' ending in December of 1983. This parcel included a triangular shaped piece extending from Point Campbell to Mount Livermore and back down to a point between Point Ione and Point Stuart.

"THE LAST parcel acquired had a similar restriction 'in perpetuity.' This was about 517 acres and took in the remainder of the island with the exception of the small Coast Guard reservations at Point Stuart, Point Knox and Point Blunt."

It should be pointed out that the phrase "for historic monument purposes only" is not interpreted as being restrictive in the sense that facilities necessary for visitor enjoyment of the historic portions of the island cannot be developed.

It is assumed, Dean explained, that facilities necessary to house visitors, to transport them, to provide them with minimum services, and to interpret the history of the property, is permitted under the terms of the patents.

THE PRINCIPAL remaining considerations for further acquisition are a mainland base, and the tidelands surrounding the island out to about the 30-fathom line.

Since the area surrounding the Ayala Cove was the first portion of the island to be deeded to the state, the presently available public facilities are confined to this location. These include a 21-unit picnic area, two-group picnic areas accommodating 250 people, a pier and landing dock for private and tour boats, and an entrance facility.

The remaining areas of the island are occupied by former army and other governmental facilities which are in an advanced state of disrepair and hazardous condition. The island is now served by a loop road which provides the main access to the principal areas and will be retained for that purpose.

ACCESS TO the island (under the masterplan will be restricted to two major areas, Ayala Cove and East Garrison. Landing at any other point on the island will not be permitted in order to control use, for fire protection, and for protection of boat owners.

Beaching of boats would also not be permitted, except possibly on the extreme westerly part of Point Blunt where access to the upland is virtually impossible.

Ayala Cove would be the principal landing on the west side of the island and would be available to both tour and private boats. No attempt would be made to provide individual boat slips, but moorings would be available.

North Garrison is visioned as the one most adaptable for overnight camping. All of the existing buildings in the area will be removed. Because of limited area, it is felt that multiple-use camping sites should be developed. These would be capable of handling groups or individual families.

It is anticipated that each campsite would be provided with a shelter. These shelters will be of minimum construction with roll-up canvas sides and wood roofs.

A camp store might be provided as well as some type of recreation shelter which could serve as a large dining facility for large groups. It is conceivable that these groups might contract for catering services by a master concessionaire on the island.

EAST GARRISON would be the main entrance on the east side serving both tour and private boats. It was proposed that at least two tour boats would be provided here, along with individual anchorages for private boats. Plans for a more elaborate marina were dropped.

There is opportunity at this area to develop overnight facilities other than camping. It is visualized that this might be done by converting the existing officers housing into overnight accommodations. Also an interpretive center would be located here and perhaps the main headquarters for the island, as well as a campfire center and possibly a small restaurant.

OUR CONVERSATION with Harry Dean took place just prior to the meeting at which the State Parks and Recreation Commission approved the master plan, after first revising downward from 10,000 to 7,000 the maximum number of persons to be accommodated daily on the island park, eliminating the east side marina, and making other changes.

Convention accommodations and some other facilities had been deleted earlier.

Despite the changes made by the commissioners, some conservation groups continued to oppose the master plan and its development proposals, holding that the island should be retained insofar as possible in its natural state.

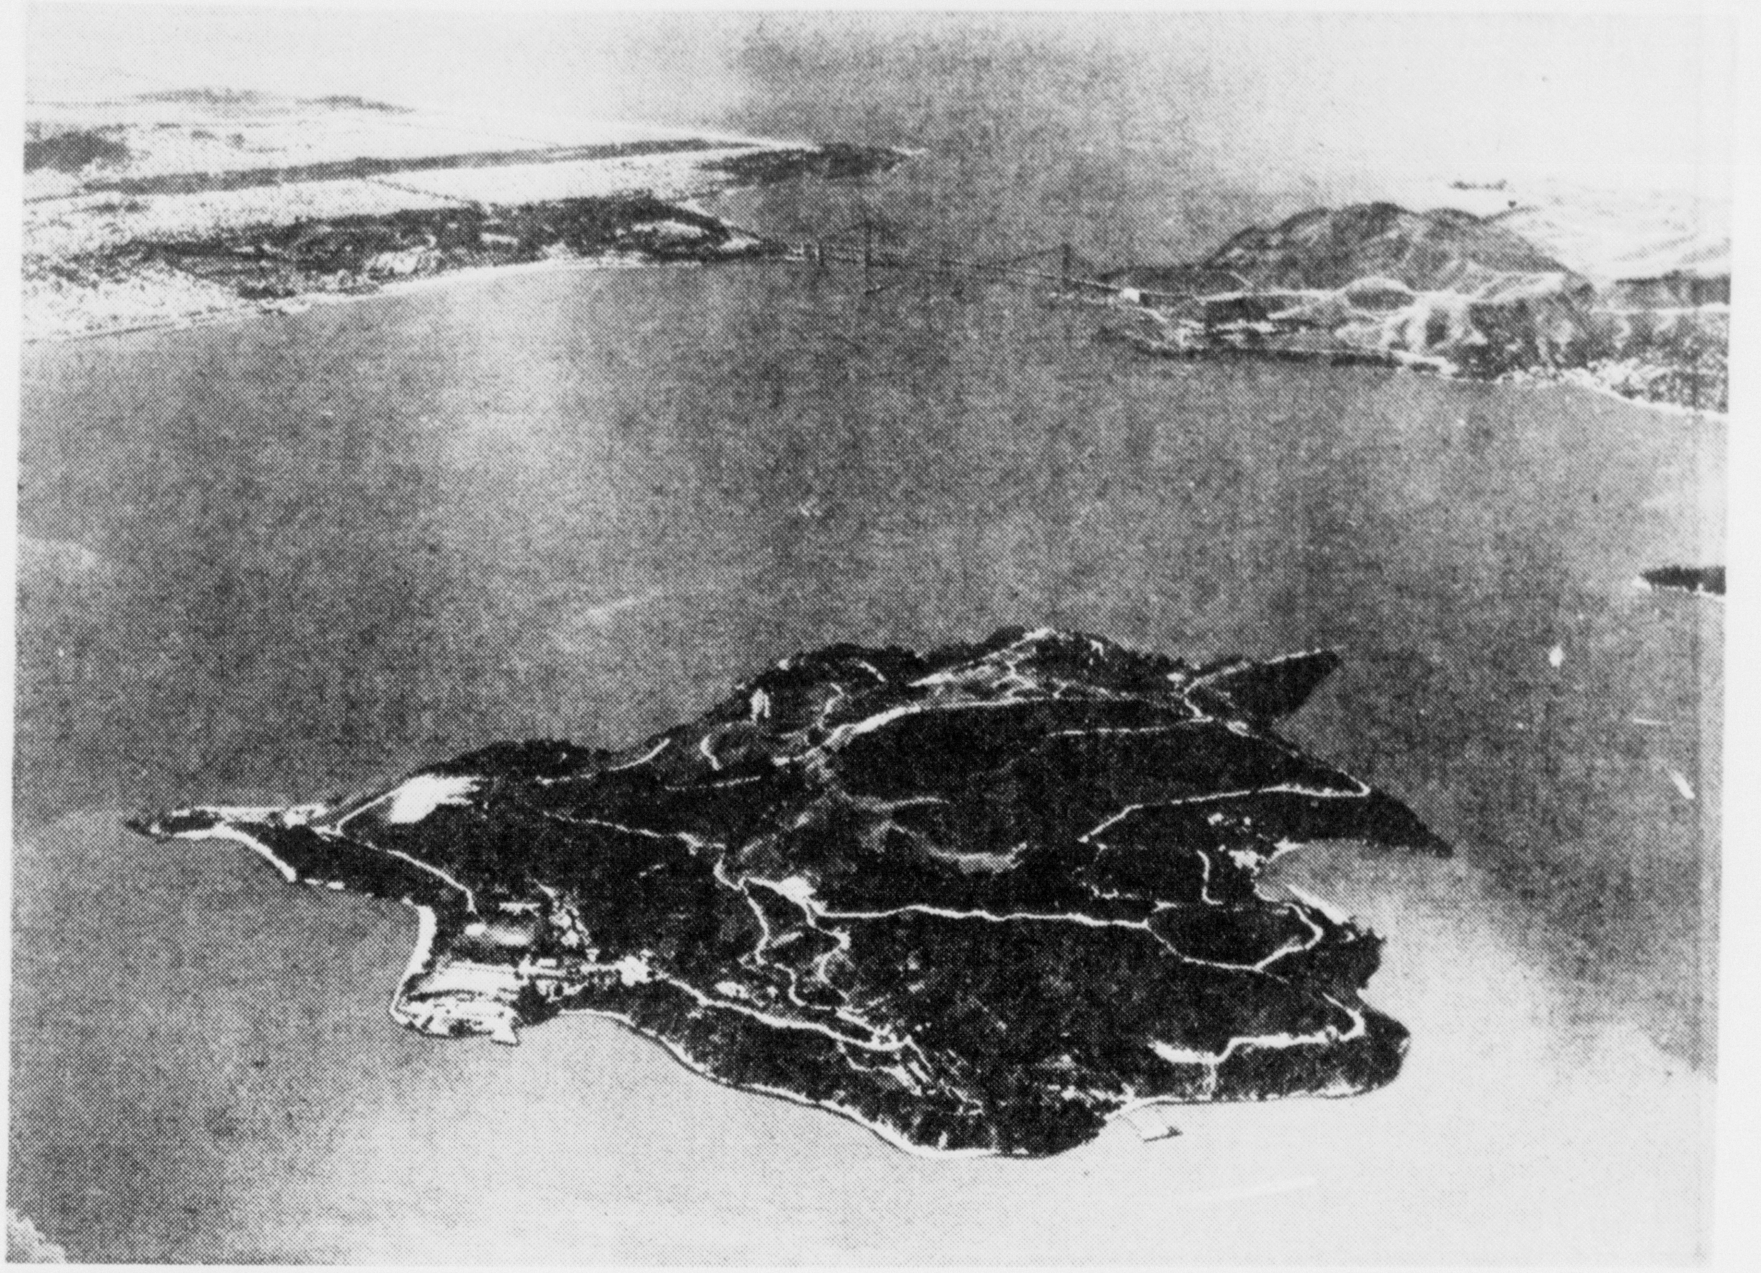
AND TIBURON City Councilman Anne Ellinwood presented a Tiburon resolution urging that there be day use only of the island.

"Our big headache," Harry Dean has emphasized, "is the securing of a mainland base for warehousing, docking and employee parking." Tiburon, he said, had indicated it was not interested in providing a parking area for Angel Island.

CONTACTED BY this writer, Tiburon City Manager Lawnence Rose said: "I'd have to agree with that conclusion," and pointed out that the council and other town officials "must consider the island development program from all its aspects" and not just the tourist business potential.

In her presentation before the state park commissioners, Councilman Ellinwood had stressed the concern of that city over "impacted" downtown traffic worsened by visitors bound for the island.

On the other hand, Ben Farlatti, business man, president of Tiburon's chamber of commerce and director on the executive committee of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitor's Bureau, says:



ANGEL ISLAND, a mile off the tip of the Belvedere-Tiburon Peninsula, is now free for civilian development as a recreational center and attraction, with the military no longer interested in it as a missile site.

"WE'VE GOT to get a tax base of some sort from Angel Island development which will benefit both the city and the county — taxes on sales and on business licenses."

Implementation of the Angel Island master plan lies yet a good many years in the future, to be carried out as funds become available.

But at least a course has been charted.

And, as we said, some like it. And some do not.

THIS CALIFORNIA State Department of Parks and Recreation map of the Angel Island State Park master plan was redrawn in December, 1967, to show revisions up to that date. Since then, there were additional revisions prior to its adoption by the State Parks and Recreation Commission that are indicated in part by the cross-outs — elimination of the marina and convention facilities at East Garrison, a downward revision of some capacity figures, etc. Despite these changes, the map gives an instructive general picture of the proposed future development of the island as a recreation area.

Summer Is Fiesta Time In Mexico; Here's A Sampling

There's Everything From Flying Birdmen To July Fourth Picnic

Are feathered men flying around your head? And little people splashing you with water for no reason at all?

And did you say that you just saw a statue riding through the street in a white Cadillac?

No, you're not going out of your mind.

Instead, you're in Mexico, enjoying some of the zaniest, most exciting festivals this side of the moon in June and July. Here's what you can look forward to, according to Mexicana Airlines, which provides jet flights to Mexico from Los Angeles, Chicago and San Antonio.

THE MOVEABLE Feast of Corpus Christi comes early this year, falling on June 6. For centuries, it has been the traditional day when the "valadores" or "flying birdmen" perform near Veracruz in the town of Papantla, the vanilla bean capital of the world.

Once seen only there and in the special plaza in Mexico City, reserved for them since pre-conquest and colonial days, the voladores gained world-wide fame through their sensational pole dance at the New York World's Fair, and most recently, at Hemis-Fair in San Antonio.

On a tiny disc atop the tallest tree which can be found in the forest and brought to Papantla's plaza, a flute-playing Totonac Indian stomps his feet while four feathered friends leap off and sail into space. Tied securely at the waist by ropes entwining the pole, they encircle it 13 times in descending to the ground 90 feet below.

PROGRESS HAS brought a nightly performance of the birdmen to an Acapulco hotel for those who can't visit Papantla on Corpus Christi Day.

Mexico City turns off its many fountains on June 24 — for that is St. John the Baptist Day, when children revel in dousing passersby with water. For this holiday, many Mexicans visit nearby spas, of which the country has hundreds.

During late June in the Guadalajara area there are many fiestas to greet the little Virgin of Zapopan, who leaves her own Basilica to go visiting all the churches of the Jalisco capital until Oct. 12.

For pilgrims who insist on visiting her high altar when she is gone, there is a stand-in image for the revered original who meanwhile travels from church to church in a white Cadillac.

JULY IN Mexico's capital will start off with a bang at the annual Fourth of July picnic held on the grounds of the American High School July 5 this year. Many residents of Mexico see one another only at this picnic when such north of the border organizations as the American Legion, Daughters of the American Revolution and others join with south of the border Shriners, Salvation Army, Boy and Girl Scouts and a dozen more groups in the American Society-sponsored event.

Bands play, the ambassador speaks, awards are given to outstanding students at the American School Foundation, of which half the students are Mexican, and cooperating organizations open booths selling hot dogs, hamburgers and baked beans a la Boston. There are baseball games, contests and the old reliable sack races.

It's such an important fund-raising event that the sponsors take out insurance against loss due to rain.

ELSEWHERE, there's the Feast of the Virgin of Carmen, with particularly lively celebrations in the gulf port of Isla del Carmen. These usually start a week before July 16.

Santa Ana Chiautempan, an easy drive from Mexico City, celebrates the feast of its patroness for several days around July 26.

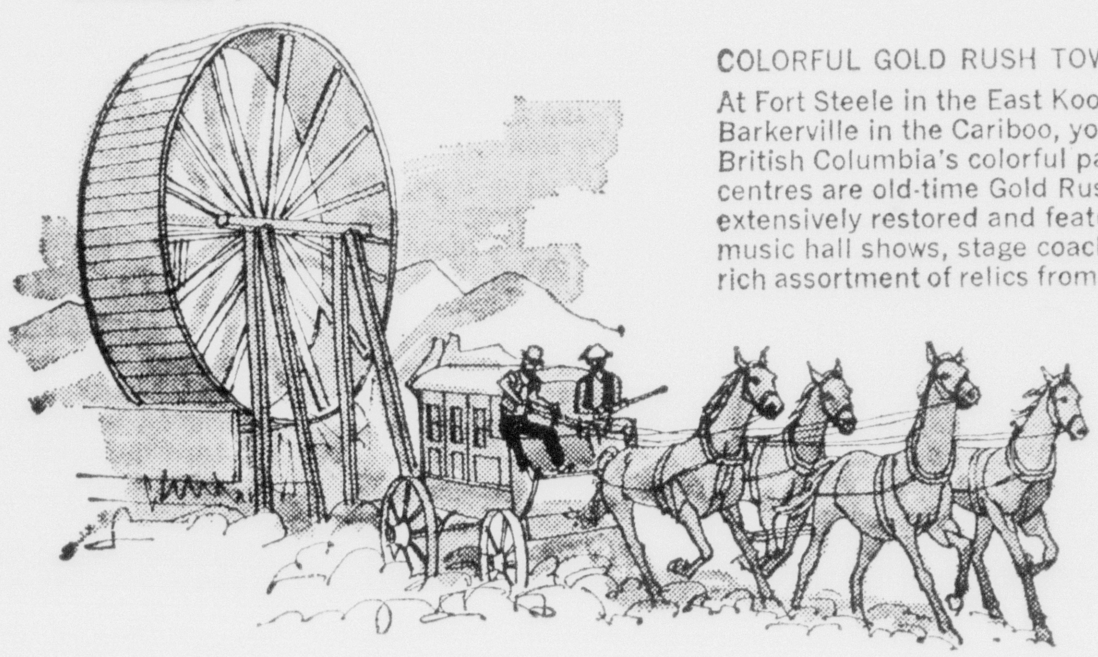
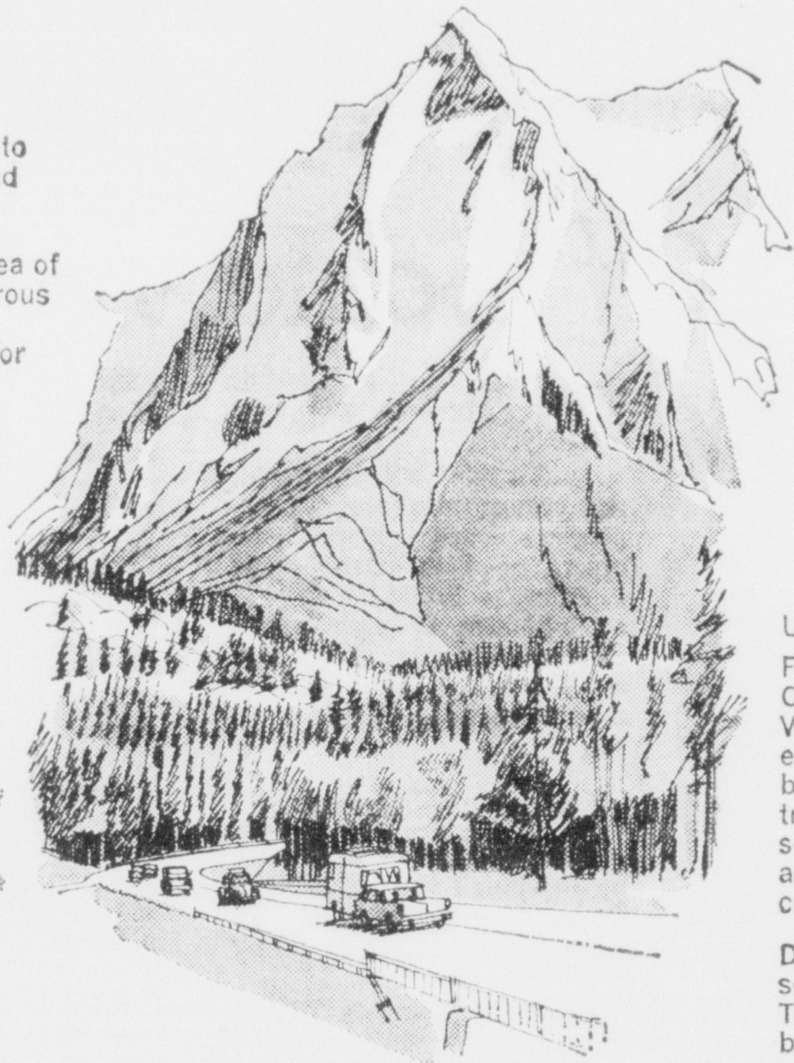
UNSPOILED SCENIC GRANDEUR

In British Columbia, you can get back to nature in some of the finest scenic and recreational areas on earth, from the magnificent mountain reaches of the Rogers Pass to the vast wilderness area of Manning Park. Excellent roads, numerous camping and picnic sites make it easy for you to leave the daily bustle for a holiday in the grand outdoors.

FASCINATING CITIES

Vancouver, on the southern mainland, boasts one of the finest harbour-and-mountain settings in the world. Its fabulous parks and beaches are matched by an exciting, cosmopolitan atmosphere and sparkling night life. Across Georgia Strait on Vancouver Island is the capital city of Victoria, aptly called "Canada's City of Gardens".





FRIENDLY FOREIGN CHARM

You'll notice touches of British tradition throughout the province, particularly in Victoria, where Old English shops and Victorian landmarks co-exist with ultra-modern hotels, motels and office towers. A quaint custom you'll really appreciate: the currency exchanges in your favor.

COLORFUL GOLD RUSH TOWNS

At Fort Steele in the East Kootenays and Barkerville in the Cariboo, you can re-live British Columbia's colorful past. Both centres are old-time Gold Rush towns, now extensively restored and featuring daily music hall shows, stage coach rides and a rich assortment of relics from a century ago.

UNLIMITED OUTDOOR FUN

From the resort-rimmed lakes of the Okanagan Valley to the sandy beaches of Vancouver Island, British Columbia offers endless opportunity for swimming, boating and water-skiing. There's great trout and salmon fishing, too . . . golf on some of the world's loveliest courses . . . and scenic adventures like the 330-mile cruise along the fabled Inside Passage.

The Land Of Black Magic And Duvalier

One of the more curious and intriguing products of this spring publishing season has to be "The Invisibles: Voodoo Gods in Haiti" by Francis Huxley.

The son of Sir Julian and nephew of Aldous Huxley, himself an anthropologist of considerable repute, spent nine months in the Caribbean country. He was there, not as a tourist, but as an observer, with voodoo as his principal interest. And before he left Haiti he was more than a spectator. He had been an active participant in voodoo rites.

To an astonishing degree, Francis Huxley succeeded in winning the confidence of the Haitians, to the extent that he was permitted to attend rituals and hear secrets that few other caucasians have ever shared.

For his book Huxley deliberately has chosen a narrative technique. He gives us factual, very detailed accounts of what he saw and did in one experience with black magic and metaphysics after another. The accumulative effect leaves the reader himself almost entranced, as weird is piled on weird, mysterious on mysterious. Huxley largely withholds his conclusions until the book's closing chapter, and one is not certain until then whether he has become cynic or convert.

What are those conclusions?

"The secret in voodoo was not the knowledge of passwords, initiates' gestures and the like, but an internal process which the rites could encourage and often stimulate, and which was secret only because everyone had to find out for themselves," he writes.

Every ceremony of voodoo, he continues, has as its purpose "a process of incubation" — to invoke a particular loa (spirit god) into possessing or mounting a human being or servitor, so that the person then takes on the character of that loa and acts and speaks as that god."

"The loa are the fruit of the ceremony," he explains, "and could not exist without it; they exist because the ritual has heated the dancers in their exertions, infected them with their peculiar rhythm (set by the drums), and at last confused them into the ultimate obedience of possession."

The loa then, Huxley concludes, "not only can inhabit anyone but do inhabit everyone. Every pattern of muscular tension betrays some hidden phychological attitude . . . . The problem facing voodoo is to allow the force of these buried attitudes to be acted out." Hysterical conversion, he says, is but a partial explanation. What occurs is a wedding of conscious attitudes, including the carefully learned characteristics of the loas, to corresponding unconscious attitudes, with a real possession then resulting.

"The morality of voodoo thus has its own laws, sadly complicated by the poverty of the island and terrifying inheritance from the days of slavery," Huxley asserts.

Huxley becomes difficult to understand and accept when he engages in more fragile analysis of some of the special aspects of voodoo such as the use of fire and water.

His book is important, not alone for what it tells us about black magic practices, but also for what it tells us about Haiti and Haitians. Their plight is not a happy one. Saddled with the despotic government of Francois Duvalier, living in abject poverty and filth, the Haitians must also carry the additional burdens of rampant superstition and fear.

An assessment of one magistrate of voodoo and its practitioners seems fully justified: "They are a vice. They do nothing but draw Haiti back into the darkness."

It is a classic example of a religion turned demoralizing instead of uplifting.

Say the Haitians themselves: "Why is this? Why are we so miserable?" And: "You'd say really that God put a curse on this country." And: "Don't trust Haitians. . . . They're earthworms, they're poison."

Tourists are captivated by the beauty of the Haitian landscape and climate, the quaintness of the villages and farms, the handsomeness of the people. But underneath this glossy veneer is a wretched government, a squalid standard of living, and a black magic mixed with metaphysics that infects the country and controls the national pulse, encouraging inertia, defeat, fear, suspicion, avarice, dishonesty and an unrealistic remanticism.

"We are well called Haitian because we all hate each other," runs a Haitian proverb.

With unhappy people like these living in hunger, filth and ignorance and under a tyrant's yoke, barely off our Atlantic coast, one wonders why we have had to go thousands of miles across the Pacific to find a people to help with our men and money. The Vietnamese were never in danger of falling to the dismal level of misery that is already the daily experience and ordeal of Haitians.

Short Reviews Of Some New Reading

Genius And Humility

EXPERIENCES by Arnold Toynbee; Oxford University Press, 417 pages, $8.75. Reviewed by Jeff Greer.

An autobiography, a slim book of poetry (if you're classicist enough to read it), one man's views on religion and more of the insights to world history that have made Toynbee famous, give this book's buyer a lot for the money.

The genius and the humility of the man can be amazing: his crediting his insight of the past and present to a classical education and long, searching down-to-earth trips through the Old World and Asia, and his glimpses of Man's future to a "third Greek education" at the hands of metropolitan planner C.A. Doxiadia are typical. Also typical is his gentle lament that his aversion to mathematics and science robbed him of a chance better to understand the future.

Such touches mollify the concern that most American readers must feel when Toynbee holds up to them the mirror that shows how most of the world regards the U.S. -- as a militaristic power wearing the mantle of the Axis and other conquerors.

Although warning that words he wrote in 1968 may be outdated by mid-1969 publication of his book, Toynbee's evaluation of the Southeast Asia and Mideastern turmoils still holds up remarkably well.

And the personal philosophy octogenarian Toynbee has achieved may give him the strength to face whatever the world faces in eternity.

A Fond Look

So many books have been written about California that the subject might be supposed to be more worked out than the gravel of the Mother Lode streams. But W. H. Hutchinson, Chico writer and teacher, has come up with one a little different.

His "California: Two Centuries of Man, Land, and Growth in the Golden State" is a fond look at our state, with enough history to put it in perspective.

Hutchinson is primarily a reporter, and a good one. He reports the accomplishments and misadventures of Californians from the dons to the developers without ever mounting the soapbox to launch into lectures.

The result is an appreciation of the achievements and the present problems of this land of ours. Hutchinson's "California" is probably the most realistic appraisal of the state ever to see print. And on top of that, it is written breezily and very readably.

Besides being well illustrated, the volume also contains appendices listing California governors — both Spanish and American — listing the dates of establishment of pueblos and missions, formation of counties, etc. It thus provides a bonus as a handy reference work.

Esthetic Gardening

The publisher offers this as having been "created for everyone who has ever loved a garden," and adds:

"It is an unusual book, more concerned with the art of gardening than with its techniques, more concerned with the gardener's feelings than with his skills."

And concludes that it is "the most beautiful book of gardens and flowers ever produced."

Whether that self-praise is fully justified or not, unquestionably the book is a most impressive addition to the ranks of large, quality gift volumes, particularly from the pictorial standpoint.

It is a collaborative endeavor on the part of nature photographer Josephine von Miklos and writer Evelyn Fiore. They have set out to capture something of "the history, the beauty, the riches" of the "Gardener's World." Thanks to Miss von Miklos' camera artistry, and to the care taken in the reproduction of her photographs, most of them in color, the beauty and the riches are there. They are less successful with the history, because of the scope of their subject, but Mrs. Fiore's text nevertheless makes interesting and informative reading.

They begin with the early gardens of antiquity and the Middle Ages, illustrated with reproduced art treasures. Next come the stories of some of the more magnificent and famous gardens of our own era. A wonderfully illustrated chapter tells the story of "the cycle of life" in the plant world. And the remainder of the book is given over to plantings for particular environments, plus special material on flowers in the cities and inside the home, closing with a chapter on the spiritual importance to man of the garden as a place for meditation and silence.

Not to be confused with manuals on "how to garden," the book is a tastefully and beautifully done exploration of the more esthetic side of gardening. And the Von Miklos photos are superb.

Boyd Stumbles

Rev. Malcolm Boyd, the non-conformist Episcopal priest, burst upon the public conscience with his best-selling "Are You Running With Me, Jesus?" Unfortunately, ever since, Father Boyd has been more stumbling than running, and he still hasn't found his footing in this little book.

Father Boyd has created a series of small stories, or as he prefers, fables, to illustrate myths and foibles of our contemporary society -- the pressure of conformity, race prejudice, overly-organized religion, etc. The technique sounds imaginative enough. But, unhappily, as used here, it seems simplistic and condescending, And one begins to think that there is still a lot to be said of the old-fashioned sermon.

Poetry Omnibus

ELIZABETH BISHOP: THE COMPLETE POEMS by Elizabeth Bishop; Farrar, Straus, and Giroux, 210 pages, $7.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Back in 1955 a combined edition of "North & South" and "A Cold Spring" won for Elizabeth Bishop the Pulitzer Prize, an award much applauded by her fellow poets.

This omnibus reprints that work plus a subsequent collection "Questions of Travel," and additional poems until now unpublished.

There's a conversational quality to Mrs. Bishop's poems, That, however, should not be taken to mean that her writing is commonplace. It is a vibrant kind of conversation, in which she takes note of things around her in a pointed, yet fresh manner and style that capture our ears and minds.

When she asks: "Oh, why should a hen have been run over on West 4th Street in the middle of summer?," we share her curiosity. And when she writes: "Oh, but it is dirty. — this little filling station, oil-soaked, oil-permeated to a disturbing, over-all/ black translucency/ Be careful with that match!," we too experience her impressions and concern.

Unquestionably, Elizabeth Bishop is a poet gifted with an unusual talent for communication. When she speaks, we understand perfectly what she is saying. And somehow, it always seems exactly right.

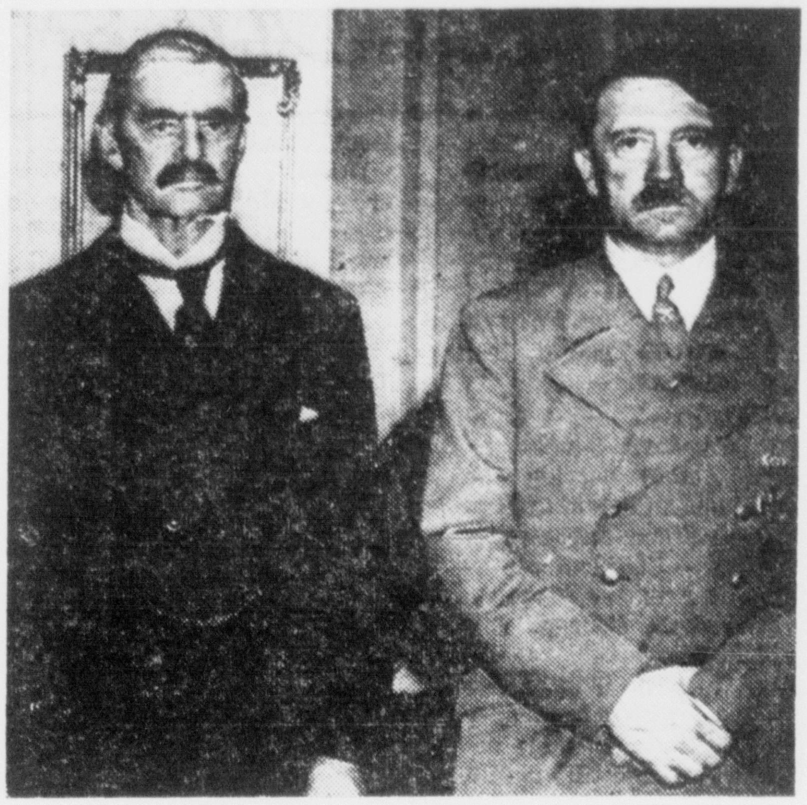
A World Sliding Toward War, And Mediocrity At The Brakes

By DON KEOWN

ON BORROWED TIME by Leonard Mosley; Random House, 508 pages, $8.95.



BRITISH PRIME MINISTER Neville Chamberlain, left, and German Chancellor Adolf Hitler were in a grim mood when they faced the camera in 1938 prior to the signing of the Munich agreement that resulted in the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia. Leonard Mosley has written a history of a Europe sliding toward World War II in his "On Borrowed Time."

Of World War II, Leonard Mosley writes: "It was Adolf Hitler's war. . . . " But he adds that "the weakness, stupidity, ignorance and maladroitness" of men in power in Great Britain and France did much to encourage the German madman.

The summarization is from Mosley's "On Borrowed Time," a sweeping but carefully documented overview by the London Daily Express correspondent and critic of the momentous events of 1938 and 1939 that led, miscalculation by miscalculation, to the most devastating war mankind has ever endured.

Germany's players were Hitler, irrational but shrewd, utterly incapable of morality, and his sychopantic court of like evil souls headed by the scheming Joacham von Ribbentrop and the clownish Hermann Goring.

England's representatives were Neville Chamberlain and Lord Edward Halifax, as naive a pair as ever directed the affairs of any government. But Mosley shows that Chamberlain was an habitual practitioner of deceit as well.

In France the cards were dealt to Edouard Daladier, capable of brief flashes of conscience and insight, but vaccilating and inconsistent, and Georges Bonnet, a defeatist of the first and worst order.

In Italy, Benito Mussolini alternately blustered and cringed, a cowardly blowhard without a worthwhile card in his hand, and with his incompetent son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, as his No. 2 man.

In Moscow, there were Josef Stalin — "a wicked old scoundrel" — and the equally cynical and inscrutible Vyacheslav Molotov, playing their cards closely and ruthlessly.

Across the Atlantic, Franklin D. Roosevelt had perhaps the clearest understanding of all the heads of major states of the perilous potential of Naziism. But he was hamstrung by the isolationism of his people, typified by his own ambassador to England, Joseph F. Kennedy and by the national hero, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Thus the unbraked world slide toward war was largely a failure in leadership for which the common people were to pay a frightful price.

In reporting that slide, Mosley sweeps aside a number of misconceptions and myths that have grown up around the diplomatic conniving and military maneuvering that preceded hostiities. For instance, the picture of Poland as a small, peaceful, freedom-loving democracy bullied by her neighbor.

Mosley reminds us that Poland was actually an autocracy ruled by an inept military triumvirate. That its anti-Semitism was exceeded in virulence in Europe only by that of Germany. That when the much more democratic, and more formidable militarily, Czechoslovakia fell, victim of German ambition and French and British treachery, Poland unhesitatingly seized the opportunity to grab a share of the spoils.

Then when Hitler turned his greed toward Poland, the response of the Polish leaders was something less than the example of idealism it is sometimes now pictured to have been.

Through blundering, Mosley writes, Chamberlain and Daladier had committed their nations to stake their futures on the fate, and to some extent the decisions, of what was in 1939 "one of the shabbiest and most pathetic nations in Europe." A Ruamanian diplomat said "Poland is the least moral country in Europe" (hardly possible, considering Germany's presence). Mosley speaks often of the "blind and arrogant" Poles. Liddell Hart was somewhat kinder in describing them as "the most romantic and least realistic people in Europe."

It becomes clear that the Poles, or rather their scruffy leaders, contributed substantially to their own downfall, and to the bloodbath for mankind that ensued.

Mosley also calls into question the belief that the surprise 1939 non-aggression pact with Hitler's Germany was entirely a matter of Russian perfidy. He demonstrates that Stalin and his associates had considerable reason for suspecting that Britain and France were plotting to involve Russia and Germany in a war of mutual destruction while they sat by as spectators. He endorses, too, the view that the Soviet Union stood ready to act against German expansion at the time of the Czechoslovakian crisis, but that Britain and France undercut the Communists with the disgraceful surrender at Munich.

Because Mosley's book is both broad in scope and crowded with detail, it is certain to trigger arguments and quibbling. Undoubtedly, the writer has had to choose at times between conflicting sources. And sometimes he has had to speculate to fill historical voids. But his judgment and reasoning seem sound.

Nor has he succumbed to the temptations of national pride and given the British the best of it. Far from it. Even the German side of the picture is accorded objectivity.

As a result, Moeley has written a book of immeasurable historical value that is immensely readable, providing perspective where perspective has been missing.

It is a book, too, that should cause us to bring into question the quality of our present-day world leaders. Are the stupidity, duplicity, arrogance and ambition that spelled disaster in 1938 and 1939 no longer with us in high places? Or are they still here with new faces and in different places, brewing new miseries for mankind?

"REDWOOD COUNTRY and the Big Trees of the Sierra" is a pictorial study by the Sunset editorial staff of the giant coastal redwoods and sequoias that grace our state, although in diminishing numbers.

Prepared under the editorship of Robert Iacopi, it is not a conservationists' appeal, but more a travel guide, telling about the pockets where these largest of all living things still exist and about the environment around them. There is also some colorful history and some interesting botanical information. Suggestions are made for weekend trips and vacations among the big trees. And along with the 100-plus photographs are helpful maps.

Operating on their "home grounds," the Sunset staffers have compiled an enlightening and useful study of the world's most famous trees. And if an outright plea for conservation is not the $1.95 book's purpose, any tool that increases our knowledge of these giants of the forests cannot help but nudge us in that direction. To know them is, for most of us, to appreciate them and to desire their preservation.

SCRIBNER'S HAS published the 28th annual John Findley Green Foundation Lecture, delivered by C. P. Snow Nov. 12, 1968, at Westminister College in Fulton, Mo., as a very small $2.95 booklet under the title "The Stage of Siege."

That is the address in which Snow, stating that "I have been nearer to despair this year than ever in my life," warned that the world is courting massive and disastrous famine with its unchecked population growth and with its inequitable distribution of existing food supplies.

"One hears young people asking for a cause," he said. "The cause is here. It is the biggest single cause in history . . . . Peace. Food. No more people than the earth can take. That is the cause."

NEWEST paperback in the University of California Press Natural History Guides series being edited by Arthur C. Smith is Woodbridge Metcalf's "Introduced Trees of Central California."

Its purpose is to assist in the identification of trees that have been brought in from foreign lands and from other regions of the United States, and that have survived in coastal, central valley and foothill California, and to provide some basic botanical information on these species. There are helpful illustrations by Mary and Fred Pomeroy and Mary Foley Benson.

The streets and parks of San Rafael draw special mention as one of the better places in the Bay Area to observe these more exotic trees.

The book is priced at $2.25.

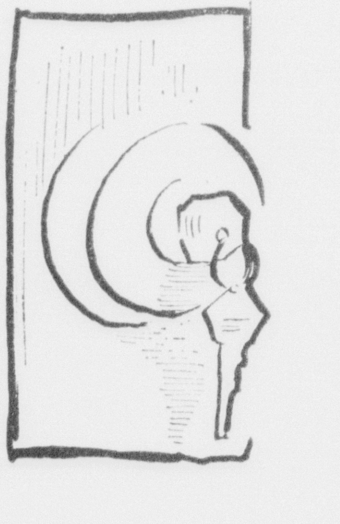
Sleuths & Suspense

ARTHUR by John Alexander Graham; Harper & Row, 179 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

John Alexander Graham, a young mathematics instructor at Wellesley College, has created a most improbable character in Arthur Silverman, Harvard graduate student, and has succeeded in making him interesting to the reader.

Arthur finds himself the alibi witness for one suspect in a beach murder. Intrigued, he involves himself more deeply in the case, and eventually becomes a full-fledged sleuth.

It is highly unlikely that witnesses and suspects would subject themselves to interrogation from an amateur detective without credentials. But in Graham's book they do. And eventually, Arthur, with the aid of his girl friend, solves the puzzle with the help of a clue that is a bit on the obvious side.



Not "top drawer" Harper & Row suspense fiction, perhaps, but a very good performance for a first novelist who, we are happy to learn, plans more. A nice feeling for humor is among his strongpoints.

CAREFREE

The many cares that bothered me
All left me yesterday.
Lost them in hills above the sea,
Lost them in winds at play,
Lost them in pounding of the surf,
While listening to the seas.
Lost them as cattle grazed on turf,
Beneath the towering trees.

Those foolish fears of what might be,
I cast them all away.
Lost them as I gazed out to sea,
Lost them in greening hay.
Lost them in whisper of the trees—
Where fears may die; and I am gay,
And all my thoughts are free.

SAUSALITO LEON SPIRO

The Stereo Scene—A Dylan Disc

By MARY CAMPBELL

When a Bob Dylan record comes out, the record world shakes, with or without a concurrent earthquake in California.

Nobody knows what Dylan will do this time; it may be a lot different from what he did the last time; a lot of fans and critics aren't going to like the new direction; eventually other people who record are going to try to do the same thing.

The nasal Midwestern twang is suddenly gone; the voice sounds higher, lighter and as if it had been sweetened with a little maple syrup. Listeners call radio stations. Has he taken voice lessons or diction lessons? Is it really Dylan singing? Some kind of put on? Like nearly every question since the Dylan mystique started, nobody knows for sure. It certainly sounds like diction lessons.

The album is all country. "John Wesley Harding" had a country sound, but there were a couple of songs, like "I Dreamed I Saw St. Augustine" and "Ballad of Frankie Lee and Judas Priest" that had some of Dylan's former obscure imagery.

Nothing is obscure in "Nashville Skyline." The songs are straight out and simple, like "I'll Be Your Baby Tonight." Titles include "To Be Alone with You," "I Threw it all Away," "Tonight I'll Be Staying." It's country love and love lost songs.

"Nashville Skyline Rag" is a pleasing instrumental. "Peggy Day" has a light lyric; "Country Pie" a catchy tune.

This isn't a startling Dylan album. The songs are pleasant but more ordinary than usual. Dylan's voice sounds less distinctive without the twang.

But still this is Bob Dylan and if we don't love the album initially (when Dylan went electric some fans were intensely furious), after a short period of adjustment we'll accept it. Personally, the only Bob Dylan song we ever heard sung by somebody else that we liked better than Dylan doing it himself is "Mr. Tambourine Man" by the Byrds, and we're not always positive about that opinion.

Columbia Records applied for gold record certification for "Nashville Skyline" while it was being shipped to stores.

How Will Your Garden Look After Spring Has Sprung?

But how will it look this summer? Will it then be as drab and dreary as it it bright and colorful today?

The answers will depend to a large extent upon the number of summer-flowering shrubs you have growing in your landscape, ready to take over after the rhododendrons, azaleas, fuchsias and camellias have completed their color show.

IF A QUICK survey indicates trouble ahead, it is not yet too late to set out shrubs that will produce the needed color.

For instance, the Bottle Brush is a fast grower and a free bloomer. In fact, it blooms several times a year. And it is extremely hardy.

It gets its name from its blooms that resemble the brushes used to wash bottles. And it is available in tree as well as shrub form.

Then there is the Hibiscus which Marinites, with their mild winters, can grow quite successfully. These give you not only spectacular blooms, but outstanding foliage as well and they blend in perfectly with other garden plants.

THE HIBISCUS, incidentally, comes in a myriad of colors—reds, pinks, whites, apricots and golds. And in a variety of flower forms — open singles, single petaled, doubled and ruffled flowers.

Deutzia is a deciduous shrub from the East that is not grown as much in Marin County as it might be probably because Marinites tend to lean toward the evergreens. But it is an excellent choice for planting in front of background shrubs.

It has slender stems that arch up from the base of the plant to about three feet, then curve gracefully into a spread that measures five feet in the largest variety.

THEN THERE IS the Escallonia, especially recommended for coastal gardens. It has a clean appearance with clusters of small white, pink or red urn-shaped flowers.

The Hydrangea is a hardy, round, bushy shrub that has proven itself in Marin County with its cannonballs of bloom that may be white, lavender, red, carmine or deep blue. It prefers partial shade.

Oleanders, on the other hand, thrive in the hot sun and laugh at drouth. They come in several varieties that differ only in flower colors, all of them attractive.

RAPHIOLEPSIS IS a long-blooming, low-to-medium height shrub that has long been popular in Marin. These India Hawthornes, as they are also called, have a lustrous foliage and blooms in shades of red and pink. Massed in beds or as part of a foundation planting, they require little attention and bloom and bloom in clusters of flowers.

These summer-flowering shrubs are a versatile lot, useful as foundation plantings, against fences, on slopes and as masses of color under trees and in other garden spots. While most of them prefer a sunny location, there are those that thrive in shade.

THE OLEANDER is a summer-blooming shrub that laughs at heat and drouth. It has a multitude of landscape uses including as a screen for privacy, as a large shrub for foundation plantings and as a flowering focal point in the garden. A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

- You can't afford to let down in your battle with bugs and snails, especially bad this spring. Keep up a regular control program of sprays and pellets. Pay particular attention right now to twig girdlers in your Tam Junipers. Lindane is the proper spray.
- If you failed to plant tuberous begonia tubers earlier, you can still enjoy them by setting out the young plants available in nurseries.
- Evergreen clematis vines should be pruned and thinned after they complete their main spring bloom.
- The setting out of such bedding plants as marigolds, petunias, asters, vincas, dwarf dahlias, lobelias, zinnias and fibrous begonias continues to be in order.
- There is still time to plant gladiolus bulbs. Take special note of the magnificent colors of the recent introductions.
- If you failed to plant those roses during the bareroot planting season, you'll find a good selection available now in containers.

Some Facts About Roses In An Annual Publication

The world's largest rose tree is 83 years old and covers 1,750 square feet.

The 54th edition contains among its articles a complete report on the Fourth International Rose Conference, held last year in London, and descriptions and numerical ratings of all new roses developed in the United States in the past five years.

Copies may be purchased for $5 from the American Rose Society, 4048 Roselea Place, Columbus, Ohio, 43214, or come with a $7.50 membership.

Getting A Kitchen Ready For Painting

Although it usually is smaller than most other rooms in the house, the kitchen is the most difficult to paint.

Or, to be more accurate, it is the most difficult to prepare for painting — and it is the surface preparation that determines, to a large degree, the success of the project.

It is rare indeed when the walls and ceiling of a kitchen do not have to be washed thoroughly before painting. If the grease and dirt that normally accumulate on the kitchen walls and ceiling are not removed, the new paint will not adhere, or, if it does, the grease will work its way to the surface weeks or months later.

Generally, a little scrubbing with a mild detergent and water will remove all traces of grease and dirt, but stubborn cases may require one of the special soaps made for this purpose and available in hardware and paint stores.

All cracks and crevices should be filled with spackling compound or patching plaster. Such patches should be touched up with a sealer before painting. However, a few of the new paints are said not to require such a sealer, so read the label on the paint can to determine whether it is necessary.

Since paint will not adhere to overly slick surfaces, any high gloss remaining from the previous paint job should be dulled with fine sandpaper or coated with a special liquid compound.

Semi-gloss and gloss enamels are preferred for kitchens because they stand up so well under repeated washings and because they prevent moisture vapor from entering the walls. Semi-gloss coatings, once available only in oil paints, now come in odorless paints and latexes, among others.

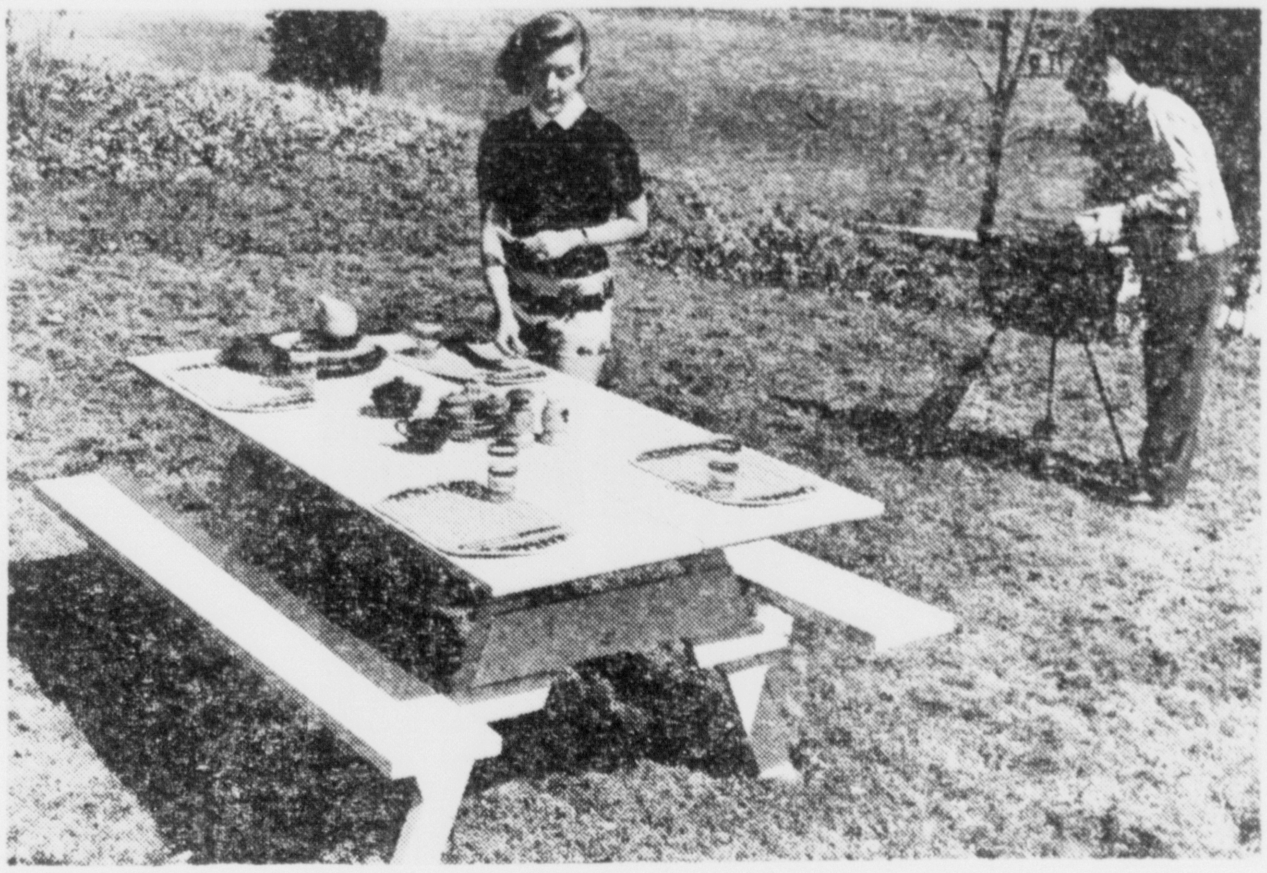
Also, many housewives prefer to stay with the same flat paints used in other rooms in the house. In that event, it is doubly important that a top quality paint be selected, since it is likely to be more washable and stain-resistant than a cheap grade.

Should you use an odorless paint, remember that you must also use an odorless thinner, preferably of the same brand.

If you use turpentine, mineral spirits or any similar thinner, you will have added a smell and defeated the entire purpose of buying that particular type of paint.

Enamel should be flowed onto the surface. Fill the brush generously and flow it on in long, smooth strokes. Do not refill the brush, but cross-stroke over the covered area. Then, with the almost dry brush, stroke long and smooth again. This method will prevent runs or snags.

The same principle holds true if you use a roller. Mohair rollers are especially good for applying enamel.



AN OUTDOOR TABLE of rugged construction can turn the backyard into a pleasurable picnicking and barbecue area. You can build this one yourself by sending 75 cents to Independent-Journal, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., 10510, and asking for Picnic Table Pattern No. 323. The table is built from stock lumber, and has a two-part top hinged at the center so that it can be folded when not in use, protecting both sides from the weather.

New Plastic Patio Covers Are Spectacular In Color

If you think that corrugated plastic for patio covers comes only in the old-fashioned kelly green and vinegar yellow, you are wrong.

And if you think that this much-used material comes only in the monotonous waves we've all seen for years, you're behind the times.

New lines of plastic patio roof materials offer the style-conscious home owner all he could want — bold new stripes and colors, plus a distinctive new shape.

Red Oak has broad Indian red and sandstone stripes with narrow black. Autumn Leaf has broad burnt orange and sandstone with narrow black. And Bluegrass has broad cerulean and avocado stripes with narrow stripes of the same colors.

This plastic material is so good-looking, you'll want to use it for carports, canopies over doors and as awnings.

FOR USE IN the patio, you might want to put several lights above the roof — not below it — to enhance the stripes in a dramatic way.

And there's an added practical benefit — the translucent panels will diffuse the light throughout the patio with a pleasurable softness and mellowness.

If you use the plastic as a carport covering or awnings in the front of the house, use a decorator's trick: repeat the most intense color in the plastic as the color for your front door.

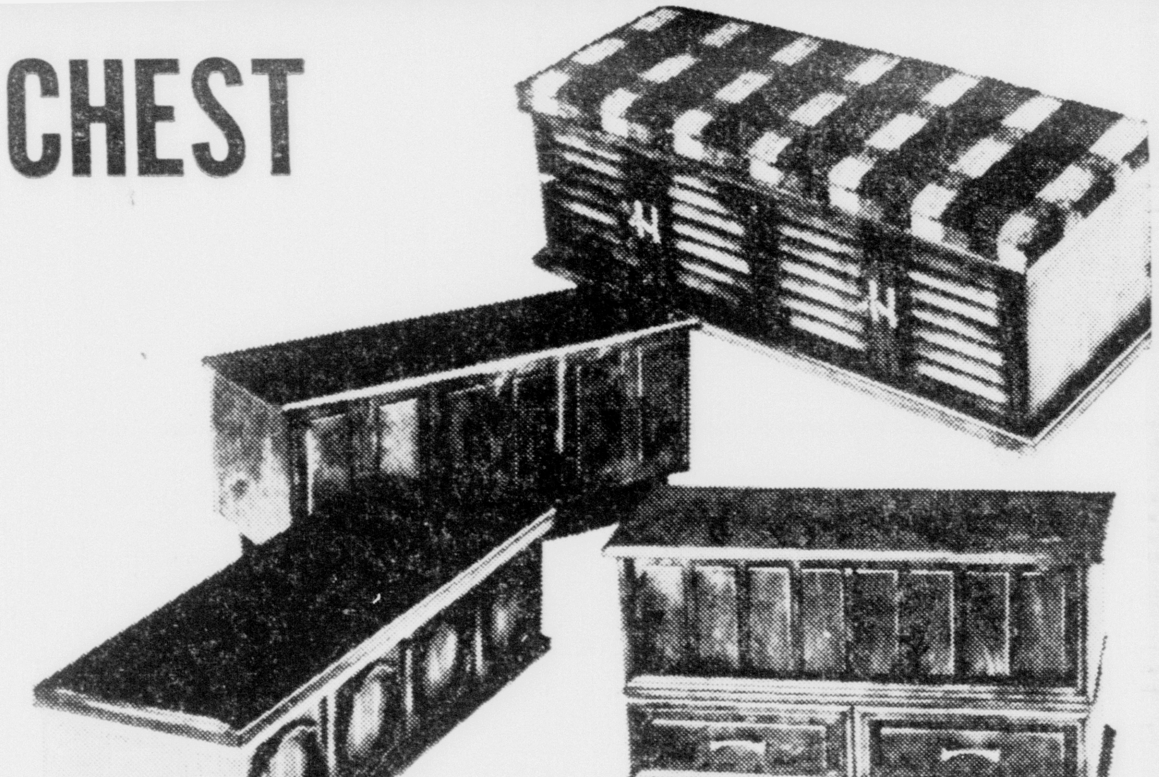
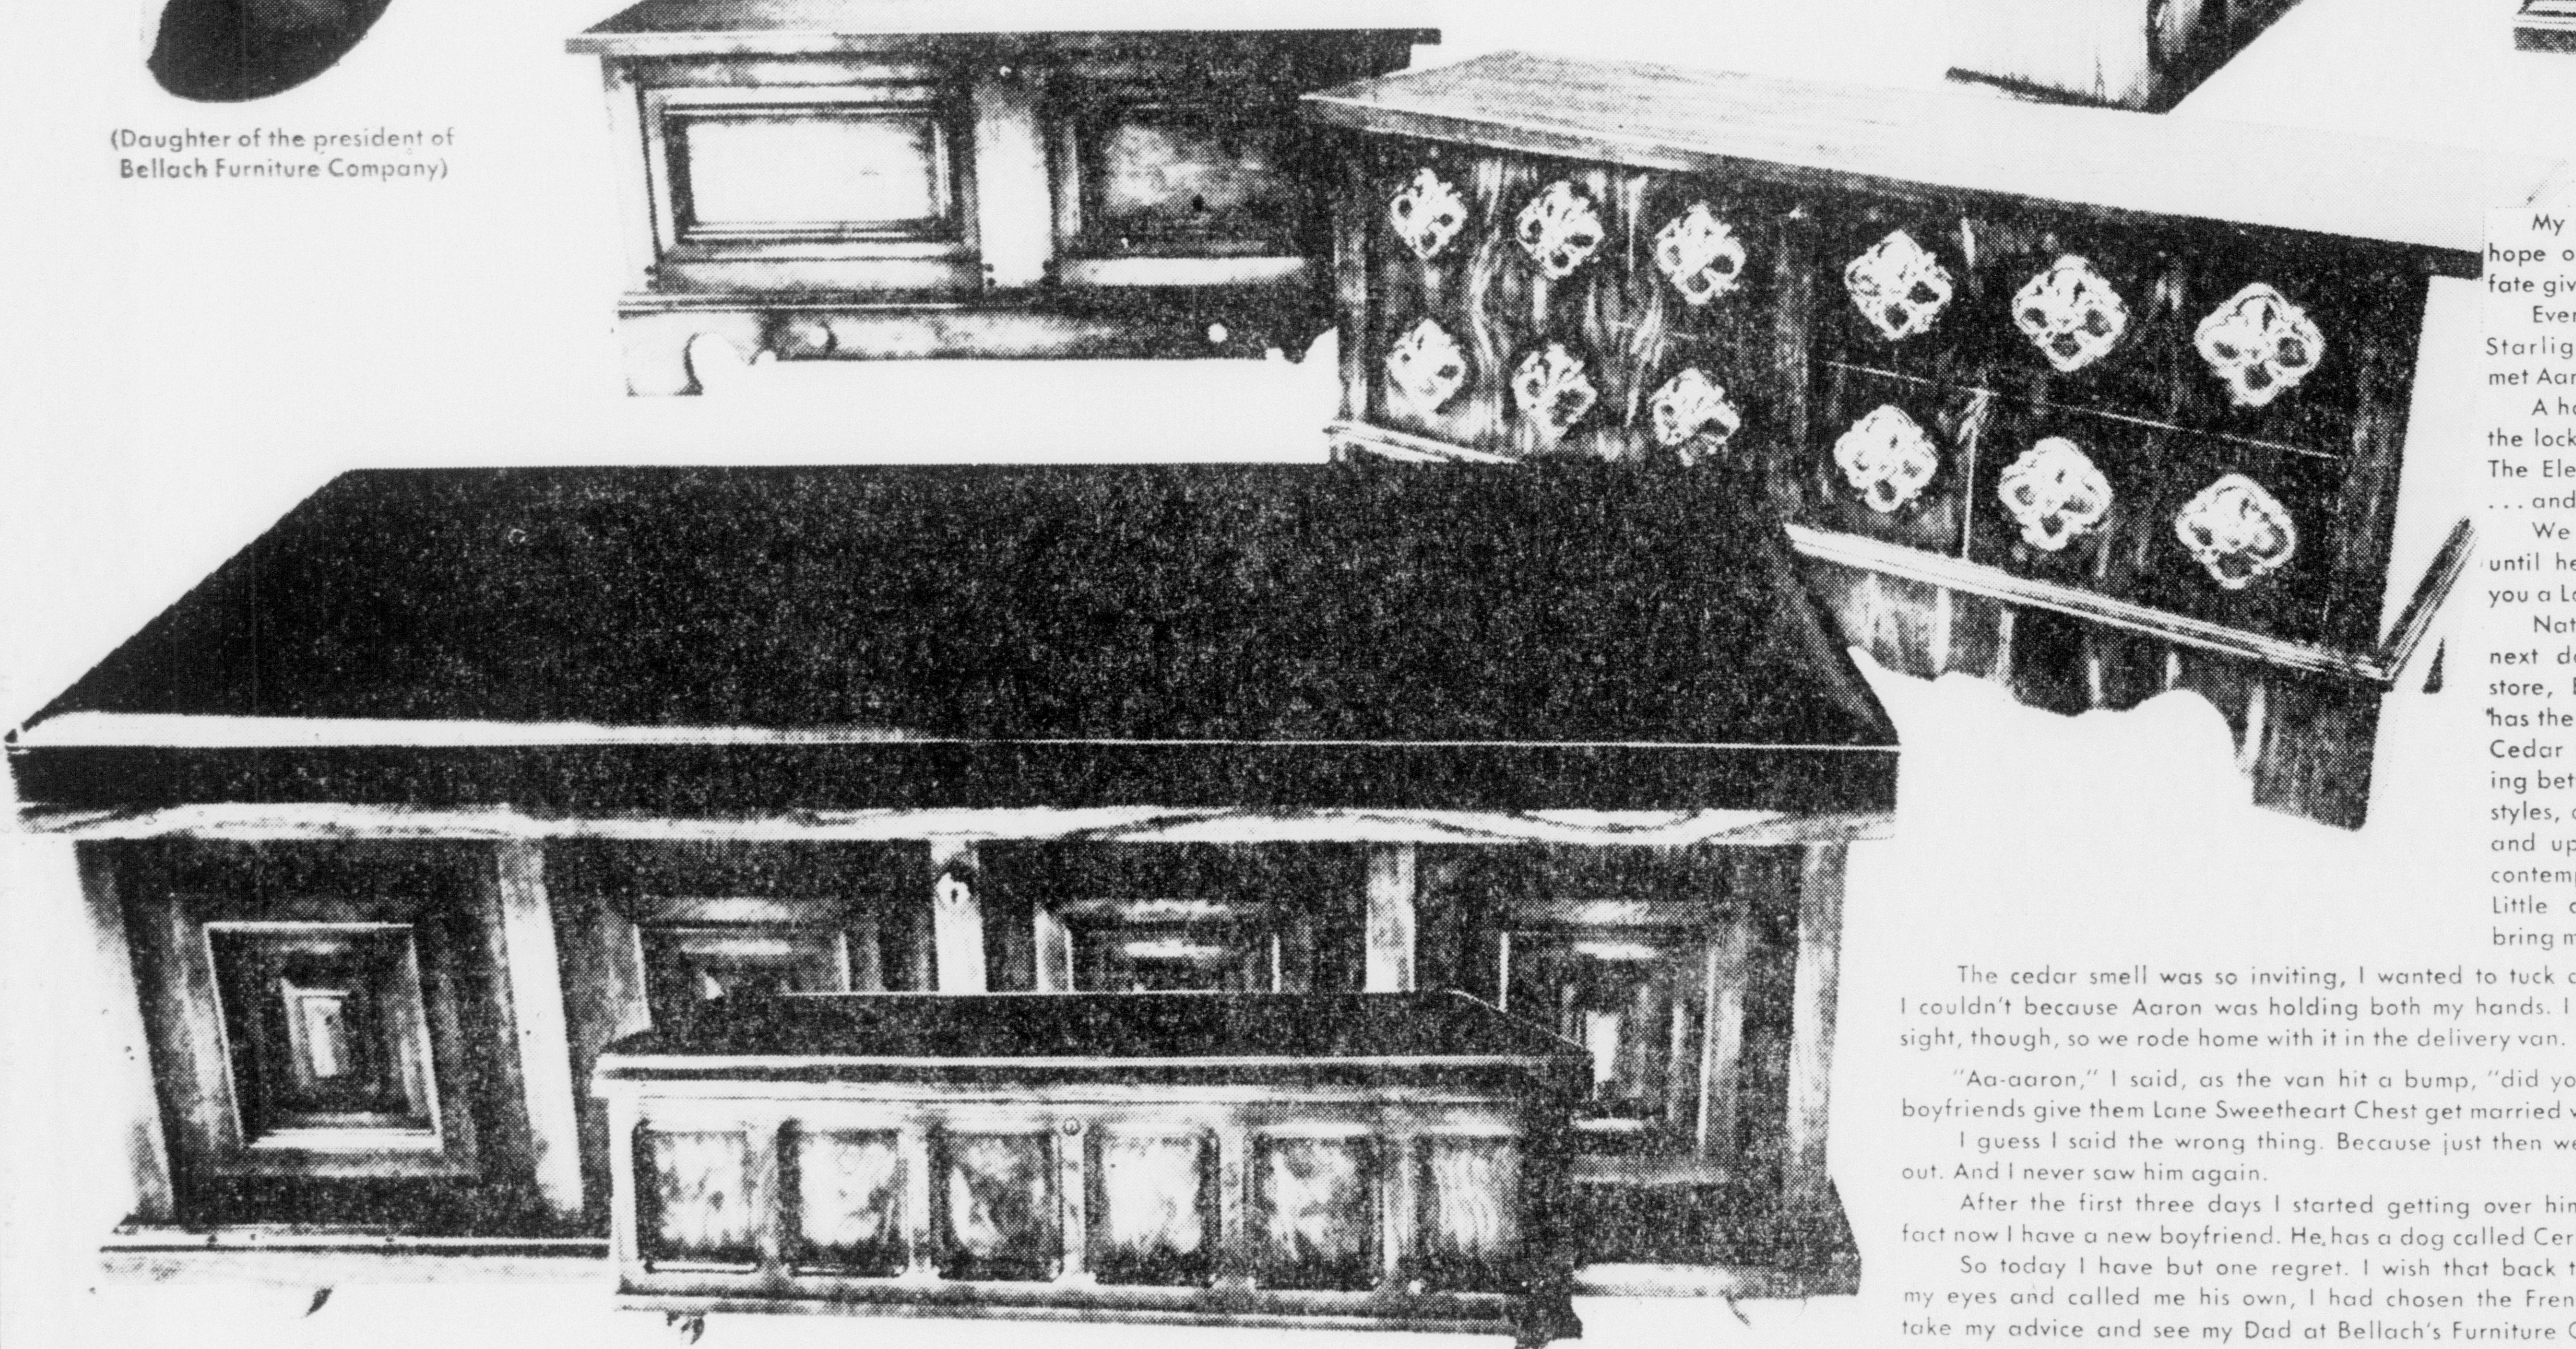
A BOY GAVE ME A LANE SWEETHEART CHEST and THEN DIDN'T MARRY ME!

By Sandy Bellach

(Daughter of the president of Bellach Furniture Company)





My story is a humiliating one. Only the hope of saving other girls from a similar fate gives me the strength to reveal it.

Everything began on the night of the Starlight-in-the-Gym Dance, when I first met Aaron Koster, that cad.

A haunting perfume hung in the air . . . the lockers were decked with tinfoil stars . . . The Electronic Nebbisch played on and on . . . and he swept me off my feet.

We danced—Ah, how we danced!—until he whispered, "Sandy, what if I give you a Lane Sweetheart Chest?"

Naturally, I fainted. And naturally, the next day, we went straight to my Dad's store, Bellach's Furniture Company which has the largest selection of Lane Sweetheart Cedar Chests in Marin, and started choosing between contemporary styles and period styles, caster feet and fixed feet, wood tops and upholstered tops. We finally found a contemporary model that seemed perfect. Little did I know the anguish it was to bring me!

The cedar smell was so inviting, I wanted to tuck a sweater into it then and there, but I couldn't because Aaron was holding both my hands. I did refuse to let the chest out of my sight, though, so we rode home with it in the delivery van.

"Aa-aaron," I said, as the van hit a bump, "did you know that 80% of the girls whose boyfriends give them Lane Sweetheart Chest get married within the year?"

I guess I said the wrong thing. Because just then we came to a stoplight and Aaron got out. And I never saw him again.

After the first three days I started getting over him, and going out with other boys. In fact now I have a new boyfriend. He has a dog called Cerberus, and French furniture.

So today I have but one regret. I wish that back then, when Aaron Koster looked into my eyes and called me his own, I had chosen the French Provincial Sweetheart Chest. Girls take my advice and see my Dad at Bellach's Furniture Co., 777 Francisco Blvd., San Rafael, and he will help you select the "Just Right" Cedar Chest to fit your personal needs and who knows what will happen after one year.

ARETHA FRANKLIN, above, the current queen of soul music, shares the spotlight with Gloria Loring in "The Singers: Two Profiles," a documentary special to be repeated Friday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 7. The one-hour special tells how the singers live and work, and what it takes to make it to the top in what has been called "the loneliest business in the world."

The only medication that

Gets to a Major Cause of Hemorrhoids

Now! Most complete 3-way relief!

This important development in hemorrhoid treatment comes to you after five years of scientific and clinical testing. Not only does Counternoid* work by lessening pain fast, and by coating, soothing, and protecting injured tissue... but unlike every other hemorrhoid product Counternoid also works a third way.

Thanks to an exclusive formula with DSS_{30}™ only Counternoid gets to a major cause of hemorrhoids: painful hard constipation. Without irritating laxative effect. Here's how: In hospital X-ray tests doctors have demonstrated that the remarkable Counternoid formulation with DSS_{30} penetrates in minutes to the top of the rectal area to soften the stool and ease the bowel movement.

So, if you live with the pain and fear of recurring minor hemorrhoid troubles, get temporary relief with medically-tested Counternoid.

Actually, used as directed, Counternoid offers the most complete 3-way relief you can get without a prescription or without surgery. In stainless cream or suppositories.

Mail to Counternoid
Box 155, Nutley, N. J. 07110

I am interested in new 3-way Counternoid and would like to receive a trial supply of both suppositories and cream. I enclose 25¢ in coin to cover mailing and handling.
